NEW MOVE TO CUT BUS FARES

PLANES, BUT NO ENGINES! SHORT 300 PER MONTH

Deliveries Held Up to U. S., British.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 6.—A shortage in aircraft engine production is seriously hampering the administration's program to build a mighty air force and at the same time to aid Great Britain to gain the mastery of the air in Europe.

A large number of bombers, reported to be Lockheed Hudsons, were ready to be flown to England, but were kept on the ground by the lack of engines.

Almost two dozen of the sleek Bell P-39 Airacobras, pursuit planes capable of a speed of more than 400 miles an hour, are reported to be ready to fly but for a lack of engines.

The shortage is said to be distributed thru all types of planes, especially those requiring the most powerful engines. The shortage has bottlenecked the entire air program.

Behind 300 a Month.

At the defense commission, the shortage in engines was placed at 300 a month. Total military engine production is reported to be about 1,700 a month.

An average of 2½ engines is required for each plane and more motors are needed for spares and replacements. In addition to the 1,700 military engines, this country produces some 700 motors a month for training and commercial planes.

It has been reported that in the scramble for engines the defense commission had commandeered all engines destined for commercial use and will not allow commercial lines to have any engines for six months.

In that period, it is expected that the engine manufacturers will catch up to and possibly pass the demand for engines. In that event engines will be released to commercial planes.

Commercial Expansion Halted.

The administration has already ruled against the expansion of commercial aviation beyond the 1940 operating basis on the ground that the commercial aviation program should not detract from the military expansion program.

The engine shortage is even more serious than the figures would indicate, according to aviation experts, because it is particularly acute in combat types of planes which Britain needs so desperately.

The shortage is most severe in large air cooled radial engines used in bombers and in the new in-line liquid cooled engine used in fighters.

There are a dozen airplane engine plants in the country but only three turn out the high powered motors needed for fighting craft. The others are building engines for commercial planes, trainers, and observation planes.

Two Plants Furnish 1,400.

The Pratt & Whitney plant at Hartford, Conn., and the Wright plant at Paterson, N. J., are turning out about 1,400 radial air cooled engines for bombers and fighters a month. The Allison division of General Motors Corp., at Indianapolis, is the only plant turning out the new high horsepower in-line liquid cooled motors.

The Allison plant has been in production only four months. It turned out 73 engines in July, 65 in August, 233 in September, and 286 in October. Its goal is 1,000 engines a month by December, 1941. Lack of these engines has curtailed the turning out of the Bell Airacobras.

Two more plants are expected to begin the production of large engines —Continental and Lycoming—but they will not be in operation for months. The engine shortage is expected to grow more acute in the next few months until the manufacturers will be able to catch up to production of plane frames.

Requires Longer Preparations.

The production of engines requires a longer period of preparation than is required for plane frames. However, defense commission sources are confident the engine manufacturers will be able to catch up in time.

Airplane engine builders as of Jan. 1 had 2,210,730 square feet of space. At present this space has been expanded to 5,272,479 square feet. This is slightly more than half of what is needed at present. The goal is 9,700,000 square feet.

It also has been reported that a lack of propellers is holding up the air program. No statistics on propeller production were readily available.

STATE COUNSEL URGES $500,000 PROFITS SLASH

May Bring Rides to 3 for 25 Cents.

BY LAURENCE BURD.

Harry R. Booth, assistant attorney general, disclosed last night that he has urged the Illinois Commerce commission to order an immediate reduction in the 10 cent bus fare charged by the Chicago Motor Coach company.

Harry R. Booth.

Booth is in charge of the commission's legal division. He has conducted the litigation in its important utilities rate cases. Last night Booth admitted that at a meeting with the commissioners this week he reported that the coach company's profits are excessive and recommended that they should be reduced at least $500,000 a year to less than half their present level.

Memo Sent to Members.

Booth said a written memorandum of his recommendations has been sent to Chairman Roy D. Keehn and the four other commerce commissioners.

Altho Booth declined to estimate how great a reduction in fares would bring about the suggested cut of $500,000 in revenues, rate experts estimate that a rate schedule of ten cents for a single ride, or three rides for a quarter, would suffice. The present fare is ten cents straight, the only exception being half fare for children 7 to 12 and high school pupils.

Booth said his oral report to the commission this week stated in part:

1. That the maximum value of the motor coach company's properties for the purpose of computing equitable rates of fare is between 6½ and 7 million dollars. The company, in a recent offer to sell out, placed a value of 12½ millions on the properties.

2. That the company is now earning a profit of at least 12 to 14 per cent on its real valuation, or more than double the 6 per cent which Booth contends is a fair allowance.

Urges Cut of $500,000.

3. That the net operating profit of the company, amounting to $839,026 in 1939, should be reduced to $400,000. Such a cut, he explained, would actually mean a slash of at least $500,000 in the net operating profit, because the company's federal income tax would also be reduced.

4. That the commerce commission, in view of these excessive profits, should immediately take steps to enter an interim order directing the bus company to cut its fares.

Booth explained last night that altho a petition asking a cut in bus rates is now pending before the commission, the commission can legally enter an interim order for a reduction, pending final settlement of the case. Such an order is authorized by law when an examination of a company's regular reports shows it is receiving an excessive return.

The petition pending before the commission was filed Oct. 2 by Stanley J. Orlowski, a resident of Chicago. A hearing on the case is set for Dec. 10.

Under Fire in Council.

The bus company's fares also have been under fire from the city council. On Tuesday the council directed the corporation counsel to ask the commission to investigate motor coach fares and order a reduction. At the same time, however, the council shelved a proposal by Ald. Paul H. Douglas [5th] that the city demand the immediate entry of an interim order to cut fares.

The council's move for a rate investigation followed the motor coach company's announcement that it would prefer not to be included in the proposed unified traction system.

The bus company on Sept. 26 offered to sell its properties to a unified system for 10 million dollars if the buyer would assume 2½ million dollars of its debts. This price was assailed as excessive by many aldermen, and on Nov. 18 the company said it would prefer not to sell at all.

Booth was chief counsel for the commission in a rate case in 1936 against the Commonwealth Edison company, which resulted in a slash in electric rates in Chicago of 3 million dollars a year.

Pursue Italians North of Porto Edda

Greeks Occupy Base; Capture War Supplies

ATHENS, Dec. 7, Saturday (AP).—Triumphant Greek troops, overwhelming Italian forces at the southern Albanian seaport of Porto Edda and nearby Argyrokastron pushed on northward on the heels of the retreating Italians, a Greek government spokesman said today.

Retreat on 100 Mile Line.

"Heavy losses" were suffered by Italians vacating Argyrokastron, the spokesman said, and the Fascist retreat all along the 100 mile Albanian front was continuing, he said.

The spokesman did not claim the capture of Argyrokastron officially, but said the town's fall was expected hourly. The Italians were in full flight toward Tepeleni in that sector, he said. Argyrokastron was reported afire.

[Dispatches reaching the Jugo-Slav frontier reported that Argyrokastron had in fact been occupied by the Greeks about noon yesterday after fierce fighting in which 1,000 Fascist prisoners were taken. Seized, too, said these reports, were a number of heavy cannon and other war supplies.]

Shell Mountain Passes.

Along the central sector of the front sustained Greek advances westward from Premet were claimed and nearby mountain passes were declared to be under Greek artillery fire.

The maneuver, which extended toward Tepeleni, which is 30 miles within Albania, was intended to cut the line of the Italian retreat from Argyrokastron and thus to take the Fascists into what might be a fatal sack.

Greek arms also scored successes in driving Italians from the heights surrounding Maschopolis in the central sector, the Greek spokesman said. He chalked up victories in the northern Pogradetz area en route toward Elbasan, important Italian headquarters about 25 miles southeast of Tirana, the Albanian capital.

Porto Edda Plundered.

Porto Edda was plundered and left in flames by the Italians when the Greeks entered the ancient Ionian seaport yesterday, the Greek high command said. Earlier, the Greeks had reported that the Italians had left great stores of war materials, some of which they had set aflame.

The Greeks made a belated but welcome discovery in Koritza, the first important Italian city captured in their counter-invasion, it was learned.

Several thousand tons of war equipment and munitions, 50 per cent of which can be used immediately against the Italians, was found stored underground there.

Report Greeks Fire Oil Wells.

ANKARA, Turkey, Dec. 6 (AP).—The official Turkish radio reported tonight that the Greek army had fired oil wells in the Devoli valley, Albania, which it said were important sources of Italian supply.

8 Planes Downed—Britain.

LONDON, Dec. 6 (AP).—British fighters in an air battle with "large numbers" of Italian fighters over southwestern Albania destroyed eight planes and severely damaged seven others on Wednesday, the air ministry reported today. It said the British escaped without a loss.

BRITISH AND U. S. FISCAL CHIEFS TALK FINANCES

England to Present Balance Sheet.

BY JOHN FISHER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 6.—Momentous conferences between the United States and British treasuries on Britain's ability to pay for war purchases in this country began today, with Sir Frederick Phillips, undersecretary of the British treasury, promising to supply the United States with a "balance sheet" of his country's financial condition."

Henry Morgenthau Jr.

These talks between Phillips and Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. are generally regarded as preliminary to a definite move from the Roosevelt administration to get credits for Britain, despite bans now imposed by the Johnson and neutrality acts.

After conferring with Morgenthau for an hour and 13 minutes today, Phillips said he had not asked for an American loan and that the conference was limited to "the state of our resources and the cost of supplies." Policy was not discussed, only facts, he asserted. Before the conference he was asked whether he would seek credits from this country, and replied: "We are not up to that stage yet.

No Mention of Debts.

"No mention was made of world war debts," Phillips said after the conference with Morgenthau. The British debt of more than 5½ billion dollars and defaulted payments of more than 1 billion, still due from the world war, bring that country under the Johnson act which bars credits to the debt defaulters.

When asked whether he would consider the transfer of British possessions in this hemisphere to the United States, Phillips asserted such a question was outside of his scope. The balance sheet on British resources will stress particular points in which Morgenthau is interested, Phillips said.

The British treasury official rushed to this country by trans-Atlantic Clipper shortly after the British ambassador to the United States, Lord Lothian, created a furor by saying the British were approaching the end of their resources and would need financial assistance from the United States.

Congress Fight Expected.

A stiff fight in congress, rivaling that over the neutrality act of last year, is expected at the next session when the question of financial aid comes up. In the meantime administration officials are expected to explore the possibilities of evading the Johnson and neutrality acts in extending credits.

Despite official denials to the contrary, reports persisted in the capital today that aid to Britain might be extended indirectly thru credits to Latin American nations as part of the "good neighbor" policy. The instance of credits to Argentina was cited as a particular example whereby our credits to the Latin American nation would enable her to give Britain credit on purchases of beef and other agricultural products for which Argentina cannot find a market in the United States.

The British have been reported as unwilling to yield pound sterling to Argentina for much needed foodstuffs as long as cash is required for war purchases in the United States. Argentina has been granted 50 million dollars from the United States stabilization fund for the nominal purpose of stabilizing the peso.

Other Credits Considered.

The Export-Import bank is also considering credits of approximately the same amount to Argentina. Warren Lee Pierson, president of the bank, said today the amount of the Argentine credits has not been decided, but he did not think it would quite equal the stabilization fund sum. He contended the question of aiding Britain was not involved in the discussions over the Argentine credits.

'Coin' of Brass Piping Masks Teller's Theft

How a former bank teller converted a few feet of brass piping and several pounds of buckshot into "coin rolls" which deceived bank examiners and enabled the teller to steal enough to finance the purchase of a new home and a trip to Florida was disclosed yesterday in the United States District court.

The teller, Bernard LeRoy Kloese, 28 years old, who was employed by the Clearing State bank for three years, pleaded guilty before Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe to a charge of embezzlement.

The court was told that for six months Kloese hid mounting shortages in his accounts by substituting the pipe, which was filled with buckshot, for rolls of coins he had pocketed from his cash box.

Cut to Resemble Coins.

The pipe, in various sizes to fit various size coins from dimes to dollars, was cut to proper length and loaded with just enough shot to equal the correct weight for coins. The pipe was wrapped in coin wrappers.

The scheme might have worked indefinitely, according to John Looby, assistant United States attorney, if a fellow employé in the bank had not stumbled onto it.

Kloese had passed a lie detector test taken during the six month period of the thefts.

Dummy Rolls Counted.

He also had satisfied bank officials and bank examiners, who merely counted the simulated rolls of coin, that his books were in order.

While the teller was absent from his cage passing a lie test, ordered as part of the bank's routine, a substitute teller chanced to unwrap one of the dummy rolls.

Kloese's shortages amounted to $1,058. In a petition for probation filed yesterday he announced he has made restitution to the bank for the full amount. Judge Igoe said he will pass sentence Dec. 20.

Takes Big Bite; Finds Half a Loaf Worse Than None

New York, Dec. 6 (AP).—Sam Kava was injured today by a sandwich. In an Italian restaurant he ordered a "Hero," [peppers, eggs, half a loaf of Italian bread] and went to work until something happened. At Columbus hospital his jaw was found to be dislocated.

TURKISH BATH' PLAN MAY BE UTILIZED IN HATCHING CHICKENS

An adaptation of the Turkish bath is the prospective foster mother of the spring chicken you may eat in the future, Santiago R. Cruz, agricultural experimentalist, told the American Society of Agricultural Engineers at the fall meeting yesterday in the Stevens hotel.

Explaining a process of incubating chicken eggs, Cruz said that he applied heat to eggs by immersing electrodes in a fluid solution which had the property of maintaining a constant temperature in the receptacle which holds the eggs, while at the same time supplying just the right amount of moisture and oxygen.

The effect of this process is similar to that produced by a Turkish bath, Cruz said.

ROBIN DELAYED BY INJURY GOES SOUTH IN PLANE

New Orleans, La., Dec. 6 (AP).—A pet robin, recovered from a broken leg, came here today from St. Louis, Mo., by plane, to be released again in the wide world tomorrow

Mrs. Gilbert Black of St. Louis found the bird last year fluttering on the ground with an injured leg. She set the leg in splints, took the robin into her home until it recovered, and then made it a pet.

Then the law stepped in, said it was a violation to coop up a robin, and ordered the bird freed. It was too cold in St. Louis for that, she thought, so she communicated with the New Orleans Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, which arranged to free the bird.

FREEMAN TO QUIT AS POLICE CHIEF OF BANGOR, ME.

Bangor, Me., Dec. 6 [Special].—Chief of Police William Freeman, who came here in April after resigning a similar post in Evanston, Ill., will resign the first of the year, he said tonight. Freeman, a member of the Chicago police force for 20 years, was brought here by City Manager James G. Wallace. His resignation follows the city election of Dec. 2, in which three councilmen, pledged to oust Wallace, were elected. Freeman had replaced a local man who rose from the ranks. He said he would be back in Evanston for New Year's day.

Navy Teaching Art of War to Ships of Peace

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 6. — The navy has launched a program under which 400 merchant marine officers a year are to be trained in convoy technique, altho American merchantmen are now barred from the war zone by Presidential proclamation.

At the navy department it was acknowledged the program is underway and that details have not yet been made public. Instruction is given in defense against submarines and aircraft.

"For National Defense."

Naval officers refused to discuss the purposes behind the training other than to say that it was undertaken in the interests of the national defense. They would not comment on suggestions that the training was undertaken under the conviction that this country may enter the war or may lend its merchant marine to aid in the supplying of Britain.

The move was regarded as significant, however, in view of the recent British declaration that England needs merchant marine vessels to replace those which have been destroyed by Germany and that she can no longer spare naval vessels in numbers for convoy duty.

Under the various neutrality proclamations President Roosevelt drew a line around the waters of the belligerent nations from which he excluded American shipping. The ban has been lifted for particular American vessels only to permit evacuation of American refugees from the war zone. An effort was made to permit evacuation of British children in American ships, but this was dropped when Germany said she would be unable to guarantee safe conduct to such vessels.

Two Training Schools.

The instruction to merchant marine officers is being given in two schools. One at New York City is held aboard the U. S. S. Seattle. This has a capacity of 24 student officers. The other is being given at Yerba Buena Island, San Francisco, Cal., and has a capacity of 40 student officers.

The course lasts eight weeks. It is planned to expand instruction so that some 400 officers will be trained within a year.

only 15 more shopping days till CHRISTMAS said he had heard no discussion of aid to Britain thru Argentina. The treasury made a similar denial, altho admitting there is no definite stipulation that the dollars acquired from the United States stabilization fund must be used in dealings with the United States.

It was reported Phillips in a previous visit to the United States last July proposed the plan for United States credits to Latin American nations so they could buy both British and American goods. The plan is supposed to have been mulled over within the administration since then. The Latin-American countries are not subject to the Johnson and neutrality act. They have not defaulted on debts to this government—altho heavy defaulters on private debts.

REPORT MEXICO TO TRADE BASES FOR U. S. SHIPS

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 6. — The United States is about to conclude a destroyers-for-naval bases deal with Mexico, along the same lines as the recent agreement with Great Britain, official sources disclosed tonight.

Twelve over age destroyers, of the same type as those traded to Britain, are involved in the pending transaction, which has been virtually approved by President Roosevelt following President Avila Camacho's inaugural address pledging Mexico to cooperation in Pan-American defense.

The formal agreement will be signed in Washington, D. C., shortly, according to the same official sources. The naval and air bases, it is believed, will be leased to the United States. The concessions to be made by Mexico in return for the warships will include at least one highly strategic base on the Pacific coast, according to the official spokesmen.

ARMY DOCTORS REJECT FEW OF STATE DRAFTEES

The percentage of draft age men rejected by army doctors because of physical defects in the first induction last month was lower in Illinois than in the other two states of the 6th corps area, Paul G. Armstrong, state draft director, said yesterday. The standings follow:

	Accepted.	Rejected.	Percentage Rejected.
ILLINOIS	757	115	13.2
MICHIGAN	503	120	19.2
WISCONSIN	217	59	21.4

Maj. Lester Johnson, medical officer of the state draft organization, said physicians of local draft boards in Illinois rejected about 40 per cent of the men examined by them in choosing those who finally were sent to the army induction station. He said this was largely responsible for the low rejection rate in the army examination.

RADIOS SILENT ON 3 ROOSEVELT CRUISING SHIPS

New York, Dec. 6 (AP).—President Roosevelt cruised somewhere in the Caribbean tonight, the three ships in his party maintaining radio silence.

Communication apparently was terminated last night shortly after the President departed for Kingston, Jamaica, where he inspected sites for United States naval bases in that British island.

The navy department in Washington said the silence probably was ordered to avoid revealing the position of the cruiser Tuscaloosa, on which the President is journeying, and the accompanying destroyers Mayrant and Trippe, altho they are in the area covered by the United States neutrality patrol.

Radio reports said two navy seaplanes during the day delivered two pouches of White House mail to the Tuscaloosa and returned to San Juan, Puerto Rico.

DONOVAN BOARDS CLIPPER ON NEW MYSTERY MISSION

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 6 [Special].—Col. William J. [Wild Bill] Donovan, world war commander, slipped out of Baltimore by Clipper plane today on a mysterious mission that was believed might take him abroad as a private emissary of Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox.

One source hinted that, altho Donovan had booked passage on the Clipper only as far as Bermuda, he actually was bound, via British army plane, for Turkey and Greece. Another felt he might be planning to stop in Syria and confer with Gen. Maxime Weygand, France's military commander in French Africa.

A few months ago Donovan went abroad secretly for Knox and returned to issue a series of news stories telling of fifth column activities in other countries and warning of their possible effect here.

SECRECY CLOAKS MONEY INVOLVED IN BRITISH BUYING

Lid Clamped on Figures of War Department.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C. Dec. 6.—In the six months ended last June 30, when the drive got under way to transfer war materials of the United States armed forces to Great Britain, the army and navy released nearly 44 million dollars worth of such equipment to the British, it was learned today.

These are the latest figures available on the amount of army and navy equipment turned over to manufacturers for resale to the British, altho it is known that this total was far surpassed in the ensuing period as pressure increased from the British, and interventionist forces within the United States, including the Roosevelt administration.

An iron-clad lid of secrecy has been clamped down by the war and navy departments and other defense officials on disclosing the amount of credits due on so called surplus equipment turned over to the British since June 30. As one officer admitted "that would be hot stuff. Current information is what everybody would be interested in."

Hidden for Six Months.

Even the information on equipment turned over during the six months ended June 30 was revealed tonight for the first time with release of a report by the National Munitions Control board, which consists of the secretaries of state, treasury, war, navy, and commerce. These statistics were considered sufficiently aged as not to disclose information prejudical to the interests of the administration and the British.

Officials of the munitions board, the army, navy, and treasury, and national defense advisory commission were appealed to for information on credits received on equipment later than June 30, but in each case the reply was the same. Strict orders had been given against release of the figures, either in dollars or materials involved. In turning back the equipment to American manufacturers the defense forces are promised similar materials of improved nature as soon as they can be produced.

No figures are available on how much of these credits have been used in new equipment, but it is known that priority has been granted to the British on airplanes, engines, and other war materials now on the assembly lines. Commercial air lines have been ordered to cancel expansion plans because of the lack of manufacturing facilities for airplanes and engines for the United States and British military requirements.

Deals Require Cash.

Under the neutrality law the equipment released to the British must be paid for in cash to the manufacturers, so there is no direct deal between the United States government and the British. The credits involved also are strictly between the manufacturers and the army and navy.

The national munitions control board placed the following valuation on army equipment turned back to manufacturers for resale to Great Britain between Jan. 1 and June 30, 1940:

Rifles and carbines	$ 3,750,000
Machine guns, automatic rifles	8,723,714
Guns, howitzers, and mortars	3,121,002
Ammunition	15,258,780
Fighting planes	2,928,592
Revolvers and pistols	145,000
Propellant powders	6,932,060
High explosives	2,550,000
Total	$43,409,148

During the same period the following naval equipment was declared surplus and turned over to manufacturers for resale to Great Britain and France:

Great Britain:
France:
Fighting planes	2,329,561
Airplane parts	274,657
Airplane engines	82,558
Total	$2,686,776

Britain Spends $184,619,391.

Including the government equipment which it acquired, Great Britain bought a total of $138,407,827 worth of war materials subject to export license in the six months ended June 30. This was far more than Britain bought in the combined four years since export controls were instituted as shown in the following table:

Nov. 6 to Dec. 31, 1935	$ 60,806

France was the second heaviest buyer in this same period, with a cumulative total of $163,820,287. France bought heavily until its collapse before the Nazis in June. In the first six months of 1940 France bought $71,022,757 in American war materials; in 1939, $85,148,790; in 1938, $7,176,288; in 1937, $61,558; in 1936, $410,770, and between Nov. 6 and Dec. 31, 1935, $123.

The nation's total arms business in the above years, 1935 to 1940, amounted to $588,720,299. Some of the leading customers in this period also included British possessions outside of what the board classified as strictly Great Britain. Big customers between 1935 and 1940 included Australia, $16,524,851; Canada, $31,974,642; China, $33,768,299; Japan, $12,709,697; Netherlands Indies, $20,967,733, and Sweden, $11,462,408.

46 Bombers Released.

The figures up to June 30 do not cover some of the outstanding transfers of defense equipment to the British. These include the release of 46 of the army's biggest bombing planes, including 20 flying fortresses already in operation and 26 other 4-engined craft still uncompleted. In addition, there was the outright swap of 50 destroyers for leased bases from the British on their island possessions in the Atlantic and Caribbean.

No accurate figure is available on the amount of airplanes released. Altho department of commerce reports showed 743, valued at $72,163,000 shipped to Britain in the year ended August 31. Total war material shipments to Britain in that period were valued at $779,974,000.

The best recent breakdown on materials supplied to the British has come from the William Allen White committee to aid the allies, the leading propagandists for involving the United States in the war, which reported several weeks ago that 15 boatloads of army and navy defense equipment had been sent to England. This included 80,000 machine guns, 700 field guns, and 500,000 rifles, according to the White committee.

Strike Perils Replacement of Hospital Tents

Army medical officers at Fort Lewis, Wash., said yesterday they were eager for the completion of permanent quarters to replace these hospital tents at nearby Camp Murray, but contractors expressed fear that lumber mill strike might delay the building program. [Associated Press Wirephoto.]

MOTHER, 28, SHOOTS THREE CHILDREN AND HERSELF TO DEATH

Dayton, O., Dec. 6 (AP).—A 28 year old mother killed her three children and herself with a target pistol in their farm home east of here, Coroner C. W. McCool reported tonight.

He said the victims were: Mrs. Dorothy Alice Crouse, the mother; Curtis, 3; Gene, 4, and Viola, 6. All had been shot thru the heart and Curtis and Viola also thru the head, he added. The bodies were discovered by Mrs. Frank Crouse, the dead woman's mother-in-law, who lived with the family. Everett Crouse, the children's father, was at work.

THURBER, LABOR LEADER, MISSING; POLICE HUNT HIM

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 6 [Special].—The police have been asked to search for Charles S. Thurber, business manager of the Electrical Workers' A. F. of L. union, and widely known union labor official of Milwaukee. He has been missing for a week it became known today. His union began a search last Monday when Thurber did not appear at the union office.

Thurber, who is 48 years old, was president of the Milwaukee buildings trades' council for several years until he became head of the electrical union in 1931.

Thurber was to have met a number of union men at his office last Saturday morning and they were to have gone to the law office of I. E. Goldberg, union attorney, to consider a pending case. Detective Frank Doyle assigned to search for Thurber said visitors found the office closed and were told by some one in the lobby that Thurber left word he could not keep the appointment.

Saturday afternoon, Doyle learned, Thurber was seen visiting with a number of business men in the Schroeder hotel.

Camden (N. J.) Housing Board Is Asked to Resign

Camden, N. J., Dec. 6 (AP).—Mayor George E. Brunner announced the five members of Camden's housing authority tonight refused a request of Nathan Straus, federal housing administrator, for their resignations.

The mayor said the members had requested a meeting with Mr. Straus.

"They [the board] realize the full extent of the government charges concerning land deals by real estate prospectors, but insist that they had no hand in these deals and they request a hearing by Administrator Straus," Mayor Brunner said.

The charges, the mayor said, were made in connection with a $1,722,000 North Camden housing project.

HEAR NEW DELAY LOOMS IN GUARD SHIFT TO SOUTH

Another delay in movement of the 33d division, Illinois National Guard, to Camp Peay, Tenn., was rumored yesterday. It was learned Tuesday that the tentative date for induction of the division had been advanced from Jan. 3 to Jan. 27 because the 13 million dollar Camp Peay construction program would not be completed. Information from Washington, D. C., yesterday indicated the camp may not be ready before late February. Maj. Gen. Samuel T. Lawton, division commander, said last night in Tullahoma, Tenn., he had heard nothing of further delay and that no orders have been issued to the division. Gen. Lawton yesterday viewed Camp Peay for the first time, and said he found construction progressing in excellent weather, permitting work on the camp's new roads and 1,431 buildings.

1ST DRAFTEES ASK DEFERMENT TO AID DEPENDENTS

The first four appeals for deferred draft status reached headquarters of Cook county draft appeal board yesterday. Those appealing had been classified as fit for active service on the list of Chicago board 97 in the 12th ward.

Edward J. McDermott, 2424 West 34th street; Casper Thomas Laskey, 4357 South Washtenaw avenue, and Webster Franklin Dunn, 4352 South Campbell street, said their wives are dependent upon them. Thomas David Minoughan, 3343 South Oakley avenue, said he is helping support his parents with whom he lives.

Headquarters of the appeal boards will open next week at 105 West Monroe street. William H. King Jr., president of the Chicago Bar association and appeals administrator, said he expects a flood of appeals.

SEEK TO CONFORM CITY LIQUOR LAW TO STATE CODE

Ald. H. L. Brody [39th], chairman of the city council judiciary committee, said last night his committee will study the city ordinance banning sales of liquor to minors, with a view to conforming it with the state law. The city ordinance forbids the sale of liquor to minors under 16 years of age, while the state law prohibits the sale to men under the age of 21, and women under 18—the legal designation of minors. City officials said they could not understand why the age of 16 was used in the city code to designate minors.

STRIKE CLOSES 10 MORE COAST LUMBER MILLS

Threatens Delay in Army Camp Building.

Seattle, Wash., Dec. 6 [(AP)].—The spreading Puget Sound lumber mill and logging camp strike hit Seattle the first time today, closed the last operating mill in Tacoma and threatened a delay in finishing the big cantonment building program at Fort Lewis, scene of a mild flu epidemic.

An official of the Sound Construction company, holder of the largest Fort Lewis building project, said construction of the 18,000-man 41st division cantonment might not be completed on its scheduled date, Jan. 3, if the strike continued.

Army medical officers were anxious for the men to move into permanent quarters. The influenza outbreak restricted training work and put 1,400 in canvas field hospitals or confined them to bunk tents.

The strike, closing 10 more mills today has shut down 35 mills and logging camps and put approximately 12,000 men out of work.

Traveling Pickets on Duty.

Traveling pickets of the A. F. of L.-Puget Sound district council of lumber and sawmill workers from Tacoma, Everett and Snoqualmie shut down seven mills employing 2,000 men here this forenoon. The council has demanded wage increases of 7½ cents an hour, to 70 cents an hour, and a week's vacation with pay.

Between 200 and 300 men came here, council headquarters said, but only small groups were left at each of the mills as pickets. The A. F. of L.-Lumber and Sawmill Workers' union employes at the mills [not affiliated with the council] refused to go thru picket lines. Under a recent agreement, they received increases of five cents an hour.

At Tacoma, the closing of three more door and veneer plants, the last operating mills, brought the number of strikebound plants to 19 and put 320 more men out of work. Five plants were strikebound at Everett, one was closed at Snoqualmie and three logging camps in the Morton-Mineral area were shut.

Begin Parley on Wages.

Negotiations by the C. I. O.-International Woodworkers of America, representing another large group of Puget Sound mills, for a new wage agreement began yesterday but no announcements were forthcoming. In September 69 lumber companies signed agreements with I. W. A. unions granting four and five per cent wage increases.

An industry spokesman said the peak of business under national defense orders was reached in August and that demands for additional wage increases were the "height of folly."

Girl Faces Trial Charged with Poisoning Mother

The defendants were held without bond on murder warrants. Mrs. Adams died last month. The McCoy girl was arrested at Seymour, Ind.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

A permit for the construction of a frequency modulation [F-M] radio station was granted to W-G-N, Inc., yesterday by the Federal Communications commission in Washington, D. C. F-M broadcasting, which recently was approved by the commission for operation on a commercial basis, is the new system which brings radio listeners greatly increased fidelity of reception and reduces static to a minimum.

The W-G-N authorization is the first made to a Chicago broadcaster. Six other permits were granted yesterday, including one to WOR, New York, the Mutual network's eastern key station [as W-G-N is its midwestern]; one to WSM, Nashville, Tenn, and one to NBC. The Zenith Radio corporation operates an experimental F-M station in Chicago. Yesterday's permits brought to 25 the number of stations approved for F-M commercial operation.

Chicago Radius to Be 73 Miles.

The W-G-N permit provides for a frequency [wave length] of 45.9 megacycles in the ultra short wave portion of the radio spectrum. The segment of the spectrum between 43 and 50 megacycles is allotted to F-M. Under the authorization the new station will be designed to cover an area of approximately 10,800 square miles with a radius of about 73 miles around Chicago.

Construction of the transmitter and antenna will be started immediately, Carl J. Meyers, chief engineer of W-G-N, announced. The transmitter will be housed on the 29th floor of Tribune Tower.

The antenna structure will be mounted on a flagpole atop Tribune tower. Meyers said a new type of flagpole will be required to replace the present 90 foot pole, which rises 575 feet above ground and 1,165 feet above sea level.

Immediate Cost $85,000.

The arms of the antenna will be attached to the pole at three intervals. The topmost arm will be approximately 15 feet below the American flag which flies from the top of the pole. The project will require an immediate expenditure of $85,000.

The new F-M station, which will supplement the 50,000 watt coverage of W-G-N, will provide listeners in the Chicago area with many new program services. F-M stations will be licensed to operate commercially effective Jan. 1, but Meyers estimated that at least four months would be required to put W-G-N's new transmitter into service.

It is expected the new station will be operated 12 hours a day at first—probably 6 hours prior to 6 p. m. and 6 afterward. It is expected that many features and events of local interest will be presented over F-M.

Waves Remain Constant.

The exact nature of F-M broadcasting is somewhat of a mystery to laymen, but whereas in ordinary broadcasting the intensity of the radio carrying waves vary continually, in F-M broadcasting the waves remain constant. Radio engineers confess that they are still mystified by all the implications of the new system.

The technique of F-M is suited particularly for transmitting music because F-M carries the full range of sounds audible to the human ear from about 30 to 15,000 cycles. This is far in excess of what is transmitted thru the standard type of broadcasting, which is known as amplitude modulation.

The range of F-M transmission is more limited than that of standard broadcasting, and as a result the FCC is licensing stations to cover limited areas. W-G-N's F-M station will be designed to serve approximately 4½ million persons in the greater Chicago area.

A characteristic of F-M transmission is that it and standard transmission do not interfere with each other even when on the same frequency. Thus the two types may be placed closer together than the standard type of broadcasting station.

W-G-N's arc of coverage is expected to be approximately as follows: North, to Milwaukee; northwest, Rockford; west, Rochelle; southwest, Streator; south, Watseka; southeast, Plymouth, Ind; east, South Bend, Ind., and northeast, Benton Harbor, Mich.

The new station, when licensed for commercial operation, will be open to sponsors. A substantial distribution of receivers capable of picking up F-M transmissions for potential listeners will be required before sponsors are attracted.

Special F-M adapters, or translators, are available for converting standard radio receivers so they can pick up F-M. New combination F-M and A-M receivers also are on the market. A switch enables the listener to change from standard to F-M broadcasts.

BIGGER DIVERSION FAILS TO BENEFIT WATERWAY POOL

Sanitary district engineers, disappointed with early results of an experimental flushing of Brandon pool in Joliet, were debating the advisability of lowering the level of the pool last night in an effort to scour it free from sludge.

By authority of the United States Supreme court, diversion from Lake Michigan into the Illinois waterway was increased last Monday from 1,500 to 10,000 cubic feet a second for a 10 day experimental period. Latest laboratory tests show that altho the channel is being swept cleaner, deposits in Brandon pool are accumulating faster than before the increased flow.

H. P. Ramey, assistant chief engineer, said lowering the level of the pool might increase the velocity of flow enough to carry out the new deposits.

During the experiment hundreds of tests will be made and results will be included in the report of Special Master in Chancery Monte M. Lemann. He was appointed to hear evidence on the plea of Illinois for a two year temporary increase in the amount of diversion.

GOV. STELLE APPOINTS FOUR NEW COLONELS (THE KENTUCKY KIND)

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 6 (AP).—Four new colonels of the Kentucky variety were commissioned today by Gov. John Stelle.

The four honorary officers, designated aids on the governor's personal staff, were Al Brodie of Chicago, Cook county coroner; Circuit Judge W. Joe Hill of Benton; Robert Harris of Chicago, lieutenant colonel of reserves and prominent Legionnaire, and Emmett Griffen, city superintendent of parks at East St. Louis.

The appointments were made under a statute passed in 1909. The commissions were described as honorary in nature, involving no pay or duties. It was the first time the posts had been filled in several years. The appointments will expire when Gov. Stelle relinquishes his office to Governor Elect Dwight H. Green on Jan. 13.

U. S. ARMY CALLS A DEAD OFFICER TO THE COLORS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 6.—The war department recently sent a letter to the residence of Henry B. Robinson at 3602 S. street, N. W., Washington, notifying him that he had been promoted to the rank of colonel and ordering him to active duty.

Three years ago the war department gave Robinson a military funeral in Arlington National cemetery. His body was borne on a gun caisson to the cemetery chapel for services and to his grave. A saluting squad fired a volley over his grave and a bugler sounded taps.

Robinson had served as a lieutenant colonel in France and at the time of his death was a reserve officer.

Gen. Gerow Named Chief of War Plans Division

NAVY COMPLAINS OF BOTTLE NECKS IN BUILDING WORK

Reports Costs Exceeding Original Estimates.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 6 (AP).—The navy has speeded its construction program to the point where a new ship is joining the fleet every 12 days, it was disclosed today, but navy yards still are short of peak efficiency because of much obsolete equipment and some "bottlenecks" in work.

These reports of the shipbuilding program came from the National Defense commission and Rear Admiral S. M. Robinson, chief of the bureau of ships, simultaneously with authoritative words in other quarters that costs of construction at naval shore stations and army posts were running sharply in excess of the original estimate of 2 billion dollars.

Competition among contractors for skilled workmen was said to be one reason why costs were exceeding estimates.

In order to secure certain types of craftsmen, contractors on some army jobs, informed sources said, have been forced to let the men work on Saturdays and Sundays—at double time rates—and to take Mondays and Tuesdays off, so as to keep within the 40 hour week.

Prepare New Fund Pleas.

Neither army nor navy officials would discuss the probable extent of the cost increase, but it was learned the navy already is preparing to ask congress for additional funds because of it. Congressional sources said service officers in charge of the work were "very much disturbed" by the situation generally. These sources said the cost increase might run 20 to 25 per cent.

Officials said advances in wage scales, which were occurring thruout the country, and higher material prices were the chief factors responsible for the climbing costs, but that payment of overtime to expedite the work also figured in the picture.

Most contractors can pass the higher cost on to the army and navy because the contracts were negotiated on a "cost-plus-fixed fee" basis.

The general speedup in the navy's 7 billion 700 million dollar construction program was discussed in a report from the defense commission which said that various shortcuts were being utilized.

Building Period Reduced.

"The 40 month building period for completing cruisers has been cut as much as one-eighth," the report said, "and submarine construction time has been cut from 30 to 24 months. Destroyers under construction are being launched three months ahead of schedules."

As an example of time-saving practices, the commission said a completed Diesel engine was installed in a ship being built at Tampa, Fla., instead of being assembled piecemeal in the ship.

Adoption of such subassembly practices, the commission said, permits small machine shops scattered thruout the country to participate in the building program.

Admiral Robinson, in his annual report, said that despite a record expenditure for new equipment in navy yards there was not much progress during the fiscal year ending last June 30 in elimination of obsolete equipment which, he added, "has been a source of reduced efficiency for many years."

The worn equipment had to be retained in use, he explained, to cope with the increase in work which also hampered "elimination of choke points and shift work."

"The actual tool equipment of the navy yards, considered in terms of ability to produce work," he said, "now approaches and in some cases exceeds the maximum of any previous date."

TAX BOARD DROPS LEVY ON GERMAN TRADING AGENCY

The Illinois tax commission disclosed yesterday that a corporation tax of $235 assessed against the German-American Business League, Inc., had been canceled on a plea that the corporation has no assets or valuable property. Dr. Otto A. Willumeit, head of the German-American bund here, is agent for the company.

The company was incorporated in the state last March with a subscribed capital of $5,000. The assessment was made by the tax commission after the company failed to file a report on April 1. Willumeit went before the commission seven weeks ago and filed an affidavit that the company had no assets or property on the date it should have filed.

It was stated that the company will engage in import and export trade. The address of the company is the same as that of the bund headquarters—3855 North Western avenue. A suit to collect $127 from the bund for 1938 personal property taxes will be heard in the Municipal court on Dec. 19.

REPORTS CANADA FLYING SERVICE 7 PCT. AMERICAN

New York, Dec. 6 (AP).—Leonard W. Brockington, counselor to the war committee of the cabinet of Canada, said today that "of all the men being trained as gunners, observers, and pilots [in the royal Canadian air force] 7 per cent are United States citizens."

In his speech, which was delivered from notes, he did not say how many "gunners, observers, and pilots" were being trained. Later he told reporters, anxious to learn the number of Americans in those classifications, that he did not know.

36,000 Men in Air Service.

Addressing 300 members of the Association of Life Insurance Presidents in their 34th annual convention, Brockington said Canada had 36,000 men in the air service under the commonwealth air training plan. He told reporters later, however, that that figure included all classifications of men—not only gunners, observers, and pilots.

Revealing that "more than 10,000 Americans" had volunteered for the air corps since last May, he said they came "from Texas, Massachusetts, and the far west and everywhere in your nation." He did not say how many of the 10,000 had been accepted for service.

"I want to give you," he said, "some idea of the magnitude of Canada's achievements so that you will have some idea of what we are prepared to do if we are called upon to cooperate with you in defense of North America."

Lists Canadian Wartime Army.

He listed the dominion's war time army accomplishments as follows:

An army of 167,000 men on active duty.

Completion of training for 30,000 men a month at the present time.

More than 60,000 men already overseas.

Some of the soldiers on active duty, he said, were garrisoned in the West Indies, in Iceland, and in part of Newfoundland. "They are a well equipped, scientific army," he asserted.

As for the navy, Brockington outlined the progress as:

Peace time—1,700 men, 15 ships.

Down 71 German Planes.

"But the greatest contribution Canada will make to winning the war will be in the air," he declared.

The royal Canadian air force, he said, already has two squadrons in England with 71 German airplanes to their credit.

Brockington said $600,000,000 had been spent in Canada for aviation material and flying fields, of which more than 50 out of a proposed 100 are already built. Of the total expenditure, he said, the dominion had put up $360,000,000.

Transport Many Thousands.

He also said that transport of Canadian trained airmen abroad was approaching a rate of "tens of thousands a year" and that these "gunners, obesrevers, and pilots" were going to Canada from all over the British empire, as well as from the United States.

Canada's war costs, he said, reached a rate of $80,000,000 a month in October, with the dominion "paying for the war as we go."

Thus far, he said, Canada has spent $548,000,000 and Great Britain $309,000,000 in Canada on munitions and supplies. The dominion, he said, planned to spend $225,000,000 in the near future on additions to factories.

BROTHERS ALL, UNDER THE BOMB, WAR ACE FINDS

Air Marshal Describes British Fortitude.

There'll always be an England, and London, too, despite the pounding of German sky raiders, Air Marshal William A. Bishop of the Royal Canadian air force, told 1,000 members of the English Speaking union at luncheon yesterday in the Palmer House. The raiders are destroying the city at a rate which amounts to only 4 per cent a year, he said.

Bishop, ruddy and heavier than when he was England's premier fighting pilot in the war of 1914-'18 during which he was credited with downing 72 German aircraft, described the courage and fortitude of the English people. The spirit of the country, he said, is "unconquerable and unbeatable."

"Never have Englishmen—and I include men of the empire—been so close together," Bishop related in describing a flying visit to London by air across the North Atlantic last September. "Rich and poor alike are taking it, and keeping their chins up.

All Classes Now One.

"Piccadilly and Peckham Rye [the fashionable and the dowdy neighborhoods of London] are as close under the bomb as Judy O'Grady and the colonel's lady.

Life in London and all England is going on much as usual, far more so than photographs and stories of air raid shelters would indicate, Bishop said. The "symphony of the guns," he declared, is not particularly disturbing even during the night air raids. People become inured to them and sleep well.

"Guns and bombs alike merge into something like a summer thunderstorm," he said.

"Invasion precautions in England are beyond belief. Everywhere there are tank traps, road obstructions, machine gun nests. Nowhere are there signs. People, forewarned, never answer questions, but attempt rather to deceive travelers who ask directions.

Close Mouthed Citizenry.

"I remember trying to get around West London. I stopped at a tavern. The proprietor, the porter and even the barman—whom I happened quite by chance to meet—said they had been in the place only a few days and couldn't give me directions. Later I found they had been there 40 years and were just following invasion precautions."

Bishop asserted that British reports of German losses were definitely conservative and their published lists of their own losses are accurate.

England is wholeheartedly doing its job on the "ramparts we all are watching," Bishop concluded. "Englishmen are certain of the assistance they are receiving from the British commonwealth of nations. And they know that the United States is taking a certain pride in their courageous fight."

Telluride, Colo., Dec. 6 (AP).—Fire in the nearby new Butterfly Mines, Inc., mill today caused a loss estimated by company's employés at between $150,000 and $200,000. Most of the company's stock is owned by Milwaukee individuals.

GUARD LIBERTY, BROOKS' PLEA TO INSURANCE MEN

Senator Warns of Perils to American System.

New York, Dec. 6 [Special].—United States Senator Wayland Brooks [R., Ill.] today appealed to the life insurance business to do its full share in protecting America's private enterprise and democratic form of government—"the twin sons of Columbia."

"They were born of the same mother," he told the Association of Life Insurance Presidents convention here. "Weak in the beginning, sustaining each other, they have both become great, and when one seeks to completely dominate and command the other, they both will die. They are essential to the continuance of the march of liberty started a little more than 160 years ago on this continent."

Senator Brooks told the life insurance men they will not be discharging their duties to their policyholders and the American people as a whole if they do not help safeguard the rights of free men and tell frankly of dangers confronting the American system.

Points to One Danger.

One such danger he cited was the "movement in America to have the government take control away from private management."

One of the significant results of the world war, said Brooks, was that "more attention was paid to the common man." However, he added, that attitude is threatened by present day developments.

"No great statue has ever been built to a great leader of the war," he continued, "but every nation keeps alive its respect for the unknown soldier, and that spirit began to move, and it should.

"But it has been diverted, and under the cry of more good for a greater number, great sins have been committed, and in almost every country the philosophy has been developed that that government must have all the power. That is not an ideal of our kind. The ideal of America is that we, the people, should keep command, that the power of the government should be divided and distributed, and checks and balances should be maintained."

Recalls War Experiences.

Senator Brooks related some of his experiences in the world war when he first became aware of a government other than that of his father. He told of his meetings with the many different allied soldiers.

"We saluted, we were friends," he said, "because our government said we were friends. We owed no allegiance to the same flag. We did not even speak the same tongue, but we were friends by request of our government.

"We were drilling and massing to meet another lot of fellows. But they were different. They were men but mad and vicious. They were burning cities, trampling civilization—they were the Huns.

"Finally we met him personally. We did not meet a mad man. We met a fellow much like we were, born of the same human flesh, with much the same human emotion, who did not want to die, and who cried like we cried when we were hurt.

"Why was he there? Because his government sent him there. He lived under a different form of government, where highly centralized power and the lust for more power and the proneness to abuse it that always follows centralized power, decreed that the common men shall die, and by the millions."

BRITISH REPULSE ITALIAN SCOUTS IN AFRICAN WAR

NAIROBI, Kenya Colony, Dec. 6 (AP).—British troops have repulsed Italian scouting bands along the Ethiopian border with "heavy casualties," a communique said today.

The clash occurred last week after the Italians attempted to capture the outpost at Loruth, Turkana province, the communique said, adding that the Italians withdrew.

One British officer was missing and "a number" of British native soldiers killed.

600 AMERICANS IN FRANCE WILL BE SENT HOME

LISBON, Portugal, Dec. 6 (AP).—American embassy officials in Vichy, France, in collaboration with the consular and legations staffs here, have completed plans to remove some 600 penniless Americans from unoccupied France, it was learned tonight.

The Americans will be brought here in small groups and passage home arranged.

The American Export liner Excalibur sailed tonight with 183 passengers, including 37 children, many of them war orphans. Two members of the crew sailed as prisoners. They were arrested after communist leaflets printed in Spanish were reported found aboard the ship here.

GREENWICH HIT, BUT FAMED TIME BALL WORKS ON

Windsor Castle Grounds Also Struck by Bombs.

LONDON, Dec. 6 (AP).—Greenwich observatory was damaged in a recent air raid, but the famous time ball continues to function, British sources disclosed today.

The revolving globe, the observatory clock, and parts of the telescope room were damaged by high explosive and fire bombs.

One of the damaged sections was built in 1675 from designs by Sir Christopher Wren.

It was disclosed also that bones were blasted recently from graves of ancient Scottish kings and queens by bombs dropped on Edinburgh's Holyrood house. Windows of the palace were broken by bombs striking close to the ruins of the old chapel.

Windsor Grounds Hit.

Windsor castle grounds, west of London, have been struck, too. A bomb hit the golf course, another fell near the tennis courts, and an oil bomb landed and burned itself out on the royal bowling green.

"The Ring," one of London's famous boxing halls, also has been damaged. On Blackfriars road, it was built in 1782 and originally was a chapel.

SITUATED ON PRIME MERIDIAN.

Greenwich observatory is situated on the prime meridian from which British astronomers and geographers, and to a great extent those of the rest of the world, calculate their longitude and from where "Greenwich time" is telegraphed around the globe.

It was founded by King Charles II. in 1675 and is under control of the British admiralty. Its equipment includes numerous priceless astronomical instruments. The observatory also possesses the famed 24 inch Newtonian reflector with which Lassell discovered the satellites of Uranus and Neptune.

Photographs of Sun.

Photographs of the sun are taken on every available day and are stored for reference, forming a continuous sun spot record since 1873. A continuous record of the moon's position since the middle of the 18th century is contained in the Astronomical Observations, a publication started in 1750.

Magnetic and meteorological observations also have been carried on regularly there since 1838.

3,018 Axis Planes Downed Around Isle, British Claim

LONDON, Dec. 6.—According to figures given out tonight, 3,018 axis planes have been brought down over and around British since the war began, while royal air force losses in this country to date were 846 machines, with 426 pilots of these planes landing safely.

FRANCO PUTS ALL SPANISH WORKERS INTO A SYNDICATE

Forms "Work Militia" and Youth Front.

BY MAURICE ENGLISH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Spain, Dec. 6.—Spain's totalitarian revolution took another important step today with promulgation of a syndical law under which the entire working class will be organized into unions under Falangist party guidance.

A Spanish youth front on the lines of the Hitler Youth and the Fascist Giovanezza also was set up. The youth front will train the Spanish youth from their seventh year, the training for girls ending at 17, while the boys will remain in the front until they are called for military service at 21.

Form Work Militia.

Under the syndical law, all persons engaged in Spain's productive life will be considered members of the National Union of Syndicates, a kind of work militia embracing even middlemen and the professions.

The syndical structure will pyramid from a local thru a provincial group to the national delegation of syndicates with the syndical junta of the Falange [Spain's only political party] as peak authority.

Present managements of Spanish enterprises will be retained if they guarantee syndical representation to their employés.

Quotas May Be Imposed.

Each national syndicate will be defined as a "legal corporation" which will assume charge of a given product and any similar products or derivatives from the raw material to the consumer.

Syndical organizations will have the power to impose quotas on production of all enterprises under their jurisdiction. The youth front will cooperate closely with the new work militia.

In a speech after the laws had been promulgated, Generalissimo Francisco Franco expressed the hope that the syndical law would make it possible to lift "many peoples of Spain from secular misery." He stressed that the syndical law sought to lessen state interference by "instituting self-discipline in the economic life," and said the law "preserves the idea of private property."

Spain today placed sales of gasoline and all other liquid fuels under control of a special board to insure maximum coördination and production because of difficulties in importation.

VON MACKENSEN, ARMY HERO OF GERMANY, HAS HIS 91ST BIRTHDAY

The venerable soldier made his last public appearance May 29 of this year at Potsdam. He wore his braided Hussars uniform and skullbones fur hat.

Von Mackensen traces his military career from 1869 when he joined the 2d Hussar regiment at Danzig. He fought in 1870-'71 in the war against France, and during the world war was a hero in Polish and Balkan campaigns.

SPAIN TO GET U. S. CREDITS, REPORT; MUST SHUN WAR

LISBON, Portugal, Dec. 6.—The United States has agreed to give Spain an immediate credit for huge quantities of wheat, gasoline, cotton, rubber, and frozen meat in an attempt to keep Gen. Francisco Franco from entering the war on the side of the Axis, it was learned today on reliable authority. The credits will amount to at least $100,000,000, and may total as much as $260,000,000.

The action was decided upon in close coöperation with Britain. United States Ambassador Alexander Weddell made the offer last Friday in an interview with Gen. Franco, stipulating that none of the products must go to Germany and that Spain must make a public declaration that she will not enter the war, it is understood. Gen. Franco is said to have been unable to accept the latter stipulation, but is sending notes to the United States and Britain declaring in effect that "it is not foreseen that Spain will enter the war."

Argentina is to supply between 200,000 and 300,000 tons of wheat and the United States about 700,000 tons. Argentina's credit is to be guaranteed by the United States. Spain already is assembling all available shipping for transportation of the goods.

BRITAIN WARNED: DRAFT LABOR AND WEALTH AT ONCE

London Editor Calls for More Sacrifices.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 6.—The Evening Standard, Minister of Aircraft Production Lord Beaverbrook's newspaper, today demanded radical changes practically amounting to total conscription of wealth and labor without delay as being essential for ascendancy over Germany. The article was written by Frank Owen, editor of the Standard.

Lord Beaverbrook.

Quoting Abraham Lincoln's statement, "I believe this government cannot endure permanently half slave and half free," Owen contrasted the British and German war efforts. He pointed out Germany is spending on her fighting forces and supplies one-third more than Britain.

Compares Training Centers.

He said Germany has 16,000 instructors engaged in six week industrial training courses in factories against Britain's "couple of thousand at the most," and has established 200 training centers, compared with 40 in this country.

"The number of people we train for vital war work compared with them [Germans] is in the same ratio," he declared. "This nation cannot endure half conscript and half casual."

Owen complained that "as we are still far from filling the import gap with home grown food, it follows that we are eating up our stocks."

"Sooner or later we have got to ration ourselves far more drastically," he said. "Do it now.'

"Soon we have got to turn over nonessential industries to vital war work. We must have guns, machine guns, airplanes and ships or else we shall have neither food nor clothing. Do it now.

Demands More Exports.

"We must have more goods for export to pay for these necessities. Ships must go back loaded with export goods. Men and women must be taken and trained for trades to make those goods. Do it now.

"Private motor cars and chauffeurs and mechanics are required for the national service. Take them over now.

"Labor is needed to dig, drain and clear derelict land and to grow food there. Draft labor battalions unemployed presently and in the dole battalions for that task now.

Calls for "Total War."

"If communal feeding saves money, time and labor for the nation—and Lord Woolton [food minister] can tell us if it be so—then let us all eat at the same board now.

"If the whole nation must go on soldiers' wages as well as soldiers' rations, let us do it now.

"We have been told [how many times!] this is the people's war, a total war. Make it so."

The government already has powers to enforce the drastic policy outlined by Owen.

Labor Draft Urged

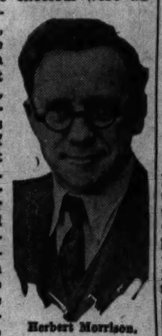
BRITISH ARE TOLD SIX REASONS FOR BEING CHEERFUL

Their Gains in Offense and Defense Cited.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 6.—Six reasons for the British to be cheerful were advanced by Herbert Morrison, minister of home security, in a speech today at Portsmouth, which, the Germans say, was one of the chief targets of last night's bombings.



Herbert Morrison.

Morrison's efforts to cheer bomb victims and the homeless followed the sharpest criticism in the last two weeks which the present government has had to face in parliament.

The six reasons for cheerfulness Morrison said, were:

1. The way Britain rose to the occasion with a tremendous spurt in factories and camps in meeting the "biggest crisis in our history."

Naval Triumph Cited.

2. The way the navy established complete moral ascendancy "over our Italian opponent." "We are confident it will do the same with the subtler menace of the U-boat," he added.

3. The royal air force victory in one of the greatest and most decisive battles in world history by beating its far more numerous opponent out of the daylight skies so that millions of town dwellers go about their work in complete disregard of the boasted luftwaffe [German air force], sitting on its bases 15 or 20 minutes away.

Increased Defense Hailed.

4. The way the army has multiplied many times over the strength of this island fortress in a few months," correspondingly reducing "the chance that an invasion, if it came, might succeed."

5. The splendid resistance of the civil defense forces, including the police and civil population, "against the trials and terrors of air bombardment."

6. The way "our own navy and air force and now the spectacular triumphs of the Greek army have shown up the weak spots at least in one of our enemies."

He added, "It cannot yet be certain, but it becomes possible to hope the Italian Fascist empire may be a dummy—all canvas and camouflage."

PROTEST SEIZURE OF U. S. EMBASSY CLERK BY NAZIS

Hear Woman Held in Paris for Aiding British.

VICHY, France, Dec. 6 (AP).—The United States embassy tonight protested against German detention of an embassy clerk, Mrs. Elizabeth Deegan, on what were unofficially described as charges that she helped British officers escape from occupied France.

The embassy—which is at Paris—lodged its protest with the German embassy as soon as it learned she had been arrested several days ago, informed quarters said tonight, but she still is being held for questioning by German military authorities.

Strong Action Indicated.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 6 (AP).—Strong diplomatic protests to Germany were indicated tonight as the United States sought to clear up the mystery surrounding the detention of Mrs. Elizabeth Deegan, a clerk in the American embassy in Paris, who has been held by German authorities there since Dec. 1.

According to reports here, Mrs. Deegan was detained after German police had invited her to go to a Paris prison to visit British prisoners. [The American embassy is handling British interests in occupied France.]

The state department announced "appropriate action" was being taken by the Paris embassy.

Mrs. Deegan is a granddaughter of the late Jeter C. Pritchard, United States senator from North Carolina. Officials here assumed Mrs. Deegan's detention was linked with the cases of the British prisoners whom she was taken to visit.

Tell Story of Her Seizure.

The state department, announcing what details it had on the case, said two German civilians, "presumably members of the German secret police," called at her apartment Dec. 1 and "invited her to go to the Cherche Midi prison to visit one or more British prisoners."

"This was the second time within a week," the statement continued, "that Mrs. Deegan had been invited by the German authorities to visit acquaintances at the prison."

Later that day, the state department said, she returned under escort to her apartment to get warm clothing and that evening a friend received word "from an unspecified source that she was comfortably lodged," that she would be unable to report for work the next day, but "would doubtless report for duty on Dec. 3." She failed to report then.

MUSSOLINI PICKS NEW WAR CHIEF TO 'CRUSH GREECE'

Cavallero Succeeds Badoglio.

ROME, Dec. 6 (AP).—Premier Mussolini today accepted the resignation of "Italy's Hindenburg," Marshal Pietro Badoglio, 69 years old, chief of the general staff before and after Fascism. He replaced him with a tested lieutenant upon whom he counts to "break the back" of Greece.

Gen. Cavallero [top] and Marshal Badoglio.

The new chief of general staff is Gen. Ugo Cavallero, nine years Badoglio's junior, recently comparatively inactive.

No reason was given for the resignation of the bald, somewhat pudgy Badoglio, other than that it was "at his own request."

Foreign circles were not too surprised, however, after the criticism leveled at the marshal's conduct of the Greek campaign by the newspaper of Roberto Farinacci, outspoken Fascist.

This newspaper, Régime Fascista, said recently that Italian victory in Greece was certain, despite "some improvidence and untimeliness on the part of the head of the general staff."

Cavallero is expected by Fascists to inject a new impetus into the campaign against Greece.

Badoglio's military skill gave Mussolini his empire. Il Duce called on him to deliver the victory over Haile Selassie's ragged legions in Ethiopia, and Badoglio delivered swiftly.

Cavallero showed his skill in the world war by pulling up the Italians after the disaster at Caporetto, helping reorganize the defenses on the Piave and, as chief of operations, directing the campaign to the final Italian victory over the Austrians.

FINNISH PREMIER SAYS NATION CAN SURVIVE CRISIS

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Dec. 6.—Premier Risto Ryti today told an Independence Day festival at Helsingfors that, altho Finland's path was narrow, thorny, and beset by dangers where a misstep would be fatal, he was convinced Finland would survive the present world crisis, thanks to the qualities welded into the nation during the war with Russia and its year of crises and reconstruction.

Finland and many other small nations, he warned, still are in the danger zone. Finland asks of other nations nothing more than to live in peace and to devote itself to reconstruction, he said. However, he declared, Finland is just as ready to defend its independence as it was a year ago when drawn into war with Russia. He called upon the Finns to intensify the production of food and to create jobs and work wherever possible.

NAZIS LOOSE NEW MASS ATTACK ON TOWN IN BRITAIN

LONDON, Dec. 7, Saturday (AP).—German planes, following their new technique of concentrated attack, centered bomb fire upon a southwest town [perhaps Southampton or Plymouth] last night. A hospital and numerous other buildings in the town were struck, and there were an undetermined number of casualties. The raid slackened somewhat toward midnight.

London, the industrial Midlands, and parts of Wales also were bombarded. The night assaults followed a day of comparative calm.

Long range British bombing planes attacked German airdromes in Nazi-occupied Belgium and northern France during the night, an authoritative source reported.

Britain Faces Quiz on Aid to Ships Bound for Ireland

LONDON, Dec. 6 (AP). — The admiralty will be asked in a question prepared by Oswald Lewis, conservative member of parliament from Colchester, if it would consider "excluding [from its convoys] all ships bound to Ireland until the government of Ireland is prepared to afford facilities to the British navy that will make easier their work of protecting such convoys." [Ireland, a neutral, has refused use of her ports to the British navy.]

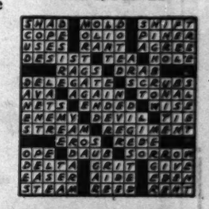
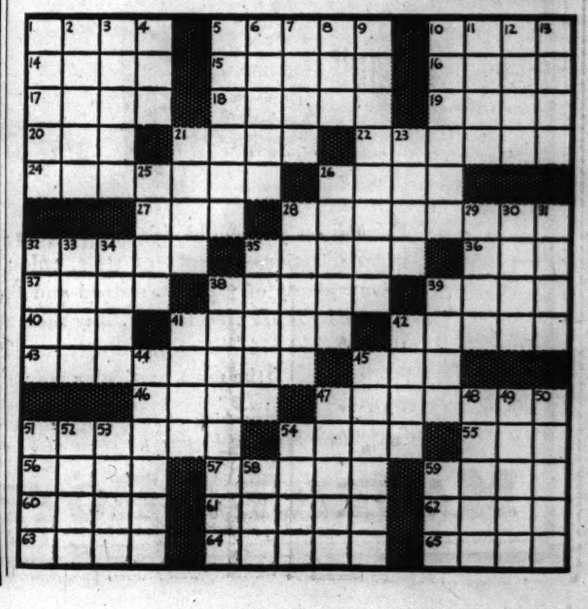
PUZZLE OF FRIDAY, DEC. 6, SOLVED





NAZI RAIDER IS SO BIG IT CAN PROWL SEA THREE YEARS

Changes Appearance Like Chameleon, Briton Says.

New York, Dec. 6 (AP).—A masquerading German sea raider prowling southern waters, laying mines, and sinking enemy merchantmen is a huge rebuilt passenger liner—so large that she has been equipped for a three year voyage of plunder.

This was told today by Capt. Cornelius Arundell, British skipper who was imprisoned on the vessel for 64 days after the raider sank his ship, the 5,207 ton Haxby, near Bermuda.

The German marauder is able to change her appearance from day to day. She is even equipped with a telescopic funnel to change her superstructure.

Carries Six Guns.

Capt. Arundell, 49 years old, who came here from England to command an American freighter recently purchased by Britain, gave this picture of the raider:

"She was much bigger than 10,000 tons. If you knew her name you would be surprised. Her skipper is 42 years old.

"She carries six guns and other arms, including many mines. While I was aboard she changed her disguise from a Greek ship to a Brazilian and then a Dutchman. Thru special rebuilding and light steel plates she could change her entire superstructure in a short time. A telescopic funnel helped do this.

Carries a Huge Crew.

"Her superstructure was constantly being repainted—in the morning it would be white and before night it would be buff. This gives you an idea of the huge crew she carried."

Capt. Arundell was aboard the raider from mid-April, when his ship was attacked near Bermuda, until June 18, when he was transferred to a Norwegian ship that had been captured by the Germans. He was aboard this ship for 70 more days, gaining his freedom when a British submarine forced the Germans to scuttle the vessel off Bordeaux, France.

Taken to Gibraltar.

The captain and 23 other Britishers were taken to Gibraltar by the submarine. The German crew escaped to Spain in lifeboats. British flying boats aided in saving the Norwegian seamen.

Capt. Arundell's one happy experience on the raider was his birthday.

"The prison officer gave me a carton of American cigarets, a tin of British cigarets, and apologized for not being able to give me a bottle of whisky," he said.

WINDSOR ON AIR THANKS U. S. FOR AID TO BRITAIN

New York, Dec. 6 (AP).—The duke of Windsor in an unscheduled radio speech over CBS tonight from Nassau, the Bahamas, expressed thanks for "all that many Americans are doing toward relieving the sufferings of those directly and indirectly engaged in this war."

"I feel I can assure those openhearted and understanding folk that such inadequate words as gratitude and appreciation could not in any way describe the encouragement that their various efforts must be bringing to the hearts of the people of Great Britain," he said.

The duke said it would be impossible to mention all the organizations that had helped relieve suffering abroad, but made special mention of the Red Cross.

The duchess was beside him as he spoke, he said, adding:

"As an American she asks me to say how much pride and sympathetic interest she takes in these friendly demonstrations of good will on the part of so many of her countrymen."

Fight Near America

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 6.—The No. 1 Nazi woman, Gertrud Scholtz-Klink, who directs all German women's organizations, and August Heissmeyer, a leader of the Schutzstaffel [elite Nazi guards] announced their marriage today. In a unique announcement in Fuehrer Adolf Hitler's Volkischer Beobachter they stated, "We are marrying Dec. 6, thus giving our 10 children a joint home." Four of the children are Frau Scholtz-Klink's by a former marriage.

The combined size of their families by previous marriages was the subject of universal Nazi commendation. Nazis hailed the reich's women's leader and the vigorous SS husband as "Papa and Mama" of an exemplary German family.

[What has become of Frau Heissmeyer's first husband, Rudolph Klink, was not disclosed. His brother Otto, an American citizen of Buffalo, N. Y., said he had not known the couple was separated, and now did not know whether Rudolph even was alive. When he last heard, before the war, he said, Rudolph was head of the Reich insurance development.]

DAMAGED BRITISH WARSHIP RACES FOR MONTEVIDEO

Charges Nazi Raider Fled South Atlantic Battle.

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Dec. 6 (AP).—The 20,122 ton British armed merchant cruiser Carnarvon Castle, steaming here to repair the damage done her in a South Atlantic sea battle with a masked German raider, broke her radio silence briefly tonight to report that the Nazi vessel's superior speed had enabled the Germans to escape after "a stern chase."

The message added that the action had been at long range and that the Britisher had expended "considerable ammunition."

British officials here began arranging at once to provide quick repairs on the Carnarvon Castle, which may arrive tomorrow.

Uruguay Gives Permission.

The British-German battle was placed here by informed persons as some 1,000 miles northeast of Montevideo.

[It was said unofficially in London that it was 700 miles to the northeast, but either area would be within the American neutrality zone.]

British Admit Casualties.

LONDON, Dec. 6 (AP).—A fierce long range encounter between a German raider and the British armed merchant cruiser Carnarvon Castle in which the British ship suffered "slight damage" and the German was said to have fled was reported today by the admiralty. The admiralty acknowledged "some casualties" aboard the Carnarvon Castle after the battle in the South Atlantic.

"There was heavy firing on both sides during the engagement and a considerable amount of ammunition was expended as H. M. S. Carnarvon Castle gave chase to the enemy," a communique said.

Claim British Ship Heavily Damaged.

BERLIN, Dec. 6 (AP).—The German high command, in reporting the naval engagement, said:

"In the South Atlantic an engagement took place between British and German auxiliary cruisers, in the course of which the British vessel was heavily damaged."

YOUNG BROTHER WINS LENIENCY FOR A DESERTER

Pleads at French Army Trial for Captain.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CLERMONT-FERRAND, France, Dec. 6.—A forensic drama—somewhat typical of these revolutionary times—was enacted today before the military tribunal of the 13th French army region of Clermont-Ferrand. Capt. Pierre Vienot, former undersecretary for foreign affairs in the Leon Blum cabinet, was found guilty of abandoning his post and desertion in wartime.

Vienot was defended by his brother, André, who had been his political adversary and often reproached Pierre for his radical views. After his plea before the court, Pierre got off with an eight year suspended prison sentence, loss of rank, and deprivation of civil rights for 20 years.

Creates Emotional Interest.

Because of the emotional interest created by a younger brother defending an older brother, the hearing attracted considerable attention. The decision was in contrast to the same court's action against Jean Zay, minister of education under Blum, six weeks ago. He was ordered banished from France and degraded.

What helped save Vienot, besides his brother's pleading, was the fact that in the last war he incurred three wounds and had two military citations for valor.

Pierre was an interpreter. After the collapse of the French armies last June he left his unit, fled to Bordeaux, and took passage on the liner Massilia along with other politicians to escape to Africa.

Speed War Guilt Cases.

With the cases of Vienot and Zay closed, it was announced the Riom high court of justice, set up last August by the Petain government, may start the trials of those held responsible for France's defeat early in January.

More than 200 witnesses have been questioned since September and the accusations completed against the chief defendants—Gen. Maurice Gustave Gamelin, former allied commander in chief, ex-Premiers Edouard Daladier and Leon Blum, and Guy La Chambre, ex-minister of air.

Sub Sinks British Freighter Bound for U. S.; Save 27

LISBON, Portugal, Dec. 6 (AP).—Twenty-seven crewmen of the British freighter Palmeria were landed here today by the Spanish freighter Navemar which reported rescuing them after their ship was sunk by a submarine last night. The Palmeria was said to be trying to rejoin a United States-bound convoy when torpedoed. [Lloyds shipping register does not list a vessel by that name.]

Flying Sick Room Off to Chile

BEDS REPLACE BOMBS; MERCY PLANE IS OFF

Big Army Ship Flying Invalid to Chile.

New York, Dec. 6 (AP).—Its bombs replaced with beds, a giant army bomber—dispatched by President Roosevelt on "a mission which might save a life"—flew southward today with Señora Carlos Davila, ailing wife of the former president of Chile for whom physicians prescribed the climate of her native homeland.

Broken line shows route of flight.

The flying sick-room took off at 12:30 p. m. [Chicago time] from ice-encrusted Mitchel field for the sunny Chilean capital, Santiago, on a precedent shattering flight. It was the first time the United States army had permitted a civilian or a woman to fly in a military plane to a foreign country.

Night Flying Barred.

Commanding the flight, Maj. Hilbert W. Wittkop of the army air corps banned night flying and ordered overnight stops at Miami, Fla., where the plane landed at 6:40 p. m. [Chicago time] tonight; Panama City on Saturday, and Lima, Peru, on Sunday, with arrival at Santiago scheduled for Monday.

Seriously ill after two operations, the Chilean woman was whisked from her Manhattan apartment in an army ambulance and escorted over icy roads to the army air field by a detail of New York state and Nassau county police patrol cars.

The ambulance rolled within 10 feet of the four-motored long range bomber and Señora Davila, wrapped in blankets over her fur trimmed cloth coat, walked to the plane, supported by her husband, Chilean ambassador to the United States before he became president in 1932, and her physician, Dr. Harry J. Johnson, who accompanied them.

Nurse Is Aboard.

Reclining chairs were placed in the forward part of the plane and portable beds in the rear, where sickroom accoutrements had been provided for Nurse Olympia Fumigale.

The plane was piloted by Capt. B. Walsh with a six man crew. Capt. William D. Willis, flight surgeon at Mitchel field, also was aboard.

Arriving at Miami, the patient and others of the party went to a hotel for the night. Shortly before their arrival, Señora Davila sent a radio message to President Roosevelt, cruising in the Caribbean aboard a United States warship. The message said:

"Flying down to my country and, I hope to health, I wish to express my deepest gratitude to the President of the United States who made this trip possible."

JAPANESE LAND MORE TROOPS TO INCREASE INDO-CHINA GARRISON

HANOI, French Indo-China, Dec. 6 (AP).—Five hundred additional Japanese troops and much artillery landed at the Indo-China port of Haiphong today, augmenting the large Japanese force already garrisoned in the colony under an agreement with the Vichy government.

New border skirmishes between Thai [Siamese] and French troops were disclosed by the government, meanwhile, as reports of new communist outbreaks reached Hanoi.

Parliament in Canada Begins Christmas Recess

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 6 (AP).—The Canadian parliament recessed tonight until Feb. 17 for a long Christmas holiday, but remained subject to call in case of emergency.

CANADA FORBIDS IMPORT OF MORE AMERICAN GOODS

Widens Embargo, Passes 25% 'Luxury' Tax.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 6 [Special].—With only a few minor amendments, both houses of parliament tonight passed bills calling for a 25 per cent excise tax on Canadian "luxury" manufactures and suspending importation from the United States of practically all manufactured articles until after the war.

It is estimated that between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000 a month will be saved on the foreign exchange market for the purchase of war supplies by the latter measure. At the same time, by the reduction of public spending, it is hoped to increase war saving.

In restricting American imports, the following items were added to the embargo list:

Printing plants of all kinds, matrices, positive and negative films, illustrations, etc., for use in the production of comics, pulp magazines, and fiction periodicals of similar character where such periodicals were not printed in Canada during the three months prior to Dec. 1, and blankets of any material, not to include automobile rugs, steamer rugs, or similar articles.

Add to Imports Being Cut.

The list on which imports from hard currency countries will gradually be restricted had the following items added:

Demijohns, bottles, flasks, etc., not cut or glass; lamp chimneys, decanters, and glass tumblers not cut or decorated; typewriters and parts; dictating machines and parts, wax blanks and shaving machines for same; adding, bookkeeping, calculating, and invoicing machines and parts; sewing machines and parts and attachments.

Locomotives for use on railways and chassis tops, wheels, and bodies; motor rail cars for use on railways, chassis, and parts [this includes street cars], and railway cars and parts.

The embargo on wines which formerly affected those of 26 per cent or less proof was amended to include all wines containing 40 per cent or less proof spirits.

The prohibition against imports from hard currency countries of manufactured textiles will include articles containing silk and artificial silk. Silk goods were exempted in the original embargo.

The embargo on bead ornaments was amended to include beads of any material, instead of only those of alabaster, spar, amber, terra cotta, or composition.

Another amendment makes it clear that the prohibition against paintings valued at $20 or more is not to include paintings to be used exclusively for printing or lithographing.

Urges Governors to Act.

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 6 (AP).—Gov. Herbert R. O'Conor today asked governors of other "affected states" and Mayor Fiorella La Guardia of New York to help in some "concerted action to prevail upon Canada to lift its import ban against American foodstuffs." Seafood and processed foods were among "luxury imports" banned by Canada Monday from non-sterling countries.

Now He'll Enlist

William Miller, 17 years old, a husky 6 footer, can now join the navy. The way was cleared yesterday when his sister, Mrs. Gwendolyn Keine, 2725 South 59th court, Cicero, with whom he lives, was appointed his legal guardian by Judge John F. O'Connell of the Probate court. Miller had passed naval physical and mental tests, but because he is under age, the navy demanded parental or guardian consent. His parents are dead, so the alternative was to acquire a guardian. His sister took the job, and said she'd sign consent papers for his enlistment. In reward of the patriotic purpose, Judge O'Connell, at the suggestion of Mrs. Keine's lawyer, John R. Kotlar, waived the $10 court costs.

Jugo-Slavia Will Retain Independence, Says Premier

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Dec. 6 (AP).—Premier Dragisha Cvetkovich today said Jugo-Slavia would coöperate in building a "new order" in Europe but that "you can be sure she never will permit to come into the question our security, independence, and freedom." He said the international outlook for Jugo-Slavia is "good," and added that the nation "will surmount all crises and difficulties in peace."

SWEEP OUT PAY HIKE DEMAND OF STREET CLEANERS

Council Finance Group Ignores Annual Threat.

BY EDWARD WILSON.

The city council finance committee, meeting late last night, threw down without a comment a recent demand for pay raises for street workers, by Sam Kart, attorney for union. It is the fourth year that the demand, which city officials estimate would cost about $883,000 a year, has been rejected.

In other years the rejection was not so easy. Each time Mike Carrozzo, czar of the street workers, would march before the committee and demand his raises. Carrozzo, with Kart, would threaten strikes, there would be closed conferences with aldermen and it would only be with a struggle that the committee would evade Carrozzo's demands.

A Strike Last Year.

Last spring Carrozzo called a strike of asphalt workers the instant the city rejected bids on an asphalt contract on which the Illinois Asphalt company was low bidder. The strike was unexplained for several days but when it was shown that Kart was one of the original incorporators of the company Carrozzo declared the strike was called because his annual wage demand had not been met. The city again refused to capitulate and Carrozzo's bluff was called. The strike was off.

Last August Carrozzo died. Kart donned the mantle of union boss. So it was Kart who appeared before the finance committee recently with the 4th annual demand for raises. The raises would have run from $1.20 to as high as $3.40 a day for various laborers. Kart did not throw in a complete strike threat. He said street sweepers would strike unless the city stops putting reliefers on that work. He was told that was an administrative matter not considered in the budget.

Last night in its study of the 1941 budget the committee completed its work on the bureau of streets, with the exception of three matters deferred for further consideration.

No Boosts Granted.

It is in this bureau that many of Kart's men are employed. No mention was made of salaries or wages of the laborers as the pages were approved.

Ald. J. M. Arvey [24th], committee chairman, said after the session that no wage increases were granted.

In the bureau of streets the committee approved the purchase of 50 enclosed type garbage trucks at an estimated cost of $284,000. The city ordered 50 such trucks this year and Oscar Hewitt, commissioner of public works, told the committee last night the first of that fleet will be delivered Dec. 15.

P. C. Nellis, superintendent of street equipment, told the committee that only 200 of the city's 500 obsolete garbage trailers are useable at a time and that each unit costs about $400 a year in repairs. The question of buying more trailers was referred to a subcommittee, headed by Ald. George D. Kells [28th], which will confer with J. L. Keeshin, head of the Keeshin Motor Express company.

Send Back Two Proposals.

A recommendation that the 50 ward superintendents be reduced to 30 and refuse collections be handled by 30 districts instead of the present 50 ward districts was referred back to a special budget survey committee.

It also sent back a recommendation that 38 of the city's 400 bridge tenders be laid off and a "roving" bridge tender system be installed on the north branch of the Chicago river where bridges are little used.

Eliminate 16 Jobs.

In the board of local improvements the committee eliminated 16 out of 74 jobs. Employers who were left were put on a maximum of $3,000 a year. Frank Flanagan, committee budget expert, explained the work of the board will be staggered among remaining employés. John Ickes, brother of Secretary Harold L. Ickes, was one affected.

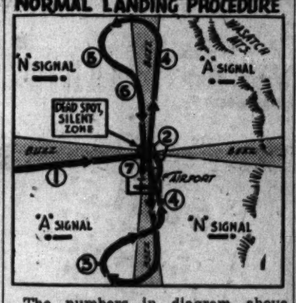
Thruout yesterday's budget meetings the aldermen, who started out Thursday by slashing 102 jobs from the pay rolls, began to slow up on the job cutting. Several of them complained that jobholders affected had been pounding on their doors, demanding their jobs back.

Total jobs cut as of last night were 147 for an estimated annual saving of $350,980.

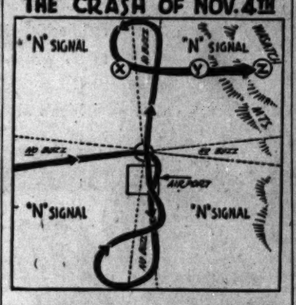
Why Plane Crashed

(Story in adjoining column.)

Diagrammatic explanation of Nov. 4 airliner crash at Salt Lake City, Utah. The diagrams show the radio range legs and the signals heard in the four quadrants of the Salt Lake station.



The numbers in diagram above show procedure followed by a pilot in landing a transport plane under bad visibility conditions when an instrument approach to airport is necessary: 1. Plane comes in from west on west leg which is formed by combination of "A" and "N" signals into a steady "on course" buzz. This combination of signals forms the buzz for all four of the radio range legs approaching an airport. 2. Pilot crosses "dead spot" silent zone and, hearing "N" signal instead of buzz, turns to the south leg. 3. Turns around thru "A" zone, heading north for approach leg to airport. This, at Salt Lake City, is the north leg. 4-4. Outbound on approach leg, plane begins final turn-around in "N" zone. 5. Completes turn-around, heads back for steady buzz of approach leg. 6. Back on leg, hearing buzz. 7. Crosses silent zone and lands.



On the fateful approach of last Nov. 4 the air liner followed the above procedure to step No. 5. At this point [X] the "A" signal system failed, wiping out all the legs and leaving radio range station transmitting only the "N" signal. Y. Pilot found no leg and flew deep into what should have been "A" quadrant, altho still hearing only "N" signal. Z. Here he crashed, killing all 10 persons aboard.

SALT LAKE PLANE CRASH BLAMED ON GROUND WORKERS

Charge Failure of Radio Beam Not Reported.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

The Air Line Pilots' association in one of the final acts of its convention here charged yesterday that failure of the Salt Lake City radio range beacon and procrastination of monitors in reporting this failure led to the crash of a transport plane there last Nov. 4, and the death of 10 persons aboard the craft. A monitor is a watcher who is supposed to listen to signals from the transmitter.

These charges are the first indication from any recognized aeronautical expert as to the real cause of the crash, first of two within the last 40 days. The Civil Aeronautics authority has not issued its report on the accident.

Urge Change in Monitoring.

The pilots' charges were made in connection with recommendations for a new system of monitoring radio beam stations. These recommendations were made by the convention after the pilots heard much of the testimony taken by CAA investigators. The gist of the pilots' demands is that a constant watch be kept on radio beams when airplanes are using them for "let-downs" in bad weather, and instant reports made of breakdowns in the signal.

The crashed plane was a United Air Lines Mainliner flown by Capt. Howard Fey. Arriving near Salt Lake City from the Pacific coast at about 4:20 a. m. Fey had commenced a routine instrument approach to the airport where there was ample ceiling and visibility for safe operation. Midway thru the procedure half the Salt Lake radio beam station ceased to send out its signals.

Fey, flying the ship in thick cloud as he brought it down into the valley from a height of 11,000 feet, was unaware of the failure. Attempting to follow the deceptive signals that his ships' radio receivers picked up he was led away from his proper course and crashed into one of the mountain peaks that surrounds the lake and the city.

How Range Beacon Works.

To understand what happened, and the pilot's recommendations, it is necessary to describe a radio range beacon station and the "let-down" procedure at Salt Lake City.

A radio beam station consists of a double antenna system [see illustration] that permits two sets of signals to be sent out from a single transmitting mechanism thru a keying device. The beams or "on-course legs" of the station form the highways traveled by airliners. These legs are formed where signals sent out by the two antenna systems overlap.

One antenna system sends out the Morse code signal "A" "dit daaaaa" sound. The other system sends out the code letter "N" or "daaaaa dit." Where the two sets of signals overlap the sound heard on a receiver tuned to the proper frequency is a steady "daaaaaaaaaa" which pilots call the "on-course." There are four of these "on-course legs" to each station.

Invisible Aerial Highway.

In the entire national network of stations these legs are laid out so that one station's leg will connect with another to form an invisible aerial highway of "on-course signals." Pilots flying by instruments and unable to see the earth below simply follow the on-course sounds and travel from point to point without losing their way.

At terminal stations the radio beam transmitters are so arranged that one leg of the station falls across the field proper. This is done so that pilots may follow the beam signals as they let down to the ground thru cloud, driving rain, blowing snow, or other obstructions to vision.

What Happened at Salt Lake.

At Salt Lake City this same arrangement is made. Here the transmitter lies just to the north of the field proper. The south leg of the range lies across the airport. The approach for a letdown is always made by flying out the north leg. The pilots turn around by turning to the left or westward to keep away from the mountains to the east.

After turning around they slide back on the north leg headed south toward the station, gradually losing height in accordingce with a prearranged program. Directly over the range station there is a "dead" spot in the signals, and this identifies the position of the airplane exactly. After crossing the dead spot the pilots pick the south leg again. It bisects the airport.

Pilots know that it is exactly two minutes to the edge of the airport after crossing the dead spot or cone of silence at Salt Lake city while flying down the south leg at 90 miles an hour. They then let down with confidence until they see the ground just before arriving at the field edge. This is the "letdown procedure."

Signal System Fails.

And it was this procedure that Fey was following when one of the antenna systems of the range ceased to send out its signals. The system that failed, according to observers, was the "A" antenna. This left only "N" signals coming out of the station and it wiped out the on-course legs.

Testimony taken at Salt Lake City indicated that Pilot Fey had flown out the north leg of the range and turned westward to do his "turn-around" at the time the A signals ceased. Heading back for the north leg he kept flying eastward expecting to find the on-course that was no longer present. Before he could determine that the station was sending deceptive signals his plane hit the mountains.

At the hearings men assigned to monitor the Salt Lake station told of the failure of the range. When asked what they had done when the range failed they said they had noted the fact for their records and prepared to make a report to the CAA. No effort was made to notify ships immediately, and the monitors said that they did not even know Fey was working his let-down problem.

Want Constant Watch.

The resolution adopted by the Air Line Pilots' association urged that the CAA establish watchers on beam signals at localities where they will be able to report signal changes as soon as they occur. The pilots demanded that these monitors be kept listening to the stations all the time airplanes are being flown in let-down procedures so the pilots and passengers will be safeguarded against a repetition of the Salt Lake crash.

In Chicago yesterday Frank Caldwell, chief investigator of the safety division of the CAA, announced he will hold a public hearing next week on the crash that caused nine deaths and serious injuries to seven persons here last Wednesday. It is understood Caldwell will hear witnesses and air experts who have formed opinions concerning the probable causes of the Chicago accident.

The ninth death was that of Miss Florence Little, stewardess, in Holy Cross hospital. She was 23 years old, a registered nurse, and lived with her parents at 505 Laurel avenue, Wilmette. The plane, another United Air Lines ship, plunged to earth from a height of 150 feet less than a block from Chicago airport. The big liner was gliding to a landing when it lost flying speed.

UNEMPLOYED, HE HANGS SELF.

OUST NITTI! BAR UNION A. F. OF L. CHIEFTAIN URGED

Local Members Recall Convention Pledge.

BY THOMAS MORROW.

Edward Flore, president of the Bartenders' International union, was called upon last night to free the local bartenders' organization from domination by Frank [The Enforcer] Nitti and his hoodlum associates.

Attorneys Raymond Hayes and Glenn Shehee made the demand in a telegram sent to Flore's home in Buffalo, N. Y. The attorneys represent 50 local union members who are seeking an accounting of funds and a court-controled election in a suit before Circuit Judge Robert Jerome Dunne.

New Orleans Action Recalled.

"In recent New Orleans convention the American Federation of Labor promised to take action to rid A. F. of L. unions of hoodlum domination," the telegram said. "Testimony before the grand jury here shows members of the Capone gang direct activities of the local bartenders' union. What action do you contemplate?"

In a long distance telephone conversation later last night Flore said, "There is nothing we can do as long as the receivership is in force."

"They won't let us hold an election or do anything now," he continued. "My representatives there are ready to step in and run the union in an orderly fashion for the benefit of all members as soon as the receiver is withdrawn."

Asked What Action He Plans.

Flore was asked what he planned to do concerning charges that racketeers control the union.

"We will deal with the question as soon as the union is returned to the international," he said. "It seems to me that receiver is weak-kneed. He just went into court the other day and got another fee of $500."

Roy D. Keehn, union receiver appointed by Judge Dunne, when told of Flore's statement said that as an officer of the court he was not at liberty to comment.

"Flore is merely standing by, acquiescing, and trying to blame the receivership for everything," Attorney Hayes said. "The international union could show its sincerity by revoking the union charter and organizing a new union. The international also could join the present litigation to protect the union funds."

What A. F. of L. Suggested.

At the A. F. of L. convention in New Orleans it was recommended that international unions be active in getting rid of labor racketeers. The executive council was directed to use moral influence to back the drive if individual unions were unsuccessful in removing hoodlums.

Attorneys Hayes and Shehee moved to bring an early hearing in the suit before Judge Dunne when they obtained a subpena for George B. McLane, veteran union business agent, who made the original complaint and then sought to drop the suit. Master in Chancery Isidore Brown, to whom the case was assigned by Dunne, issued the subpena and said he would hold a hearing as soon as it is served.

"We hope to substantiate the charges made by McLane," said Attorney Shehee. "If we can't do it by McLane's testimony, we will try to do it with the testimony of others and documentary evidence."

Refuses to Dismiss Suit.

The motion of McLane to dissolve the receivership he had obtained was denied Thursday by Judge Dunne. Earlier the refusal of McLane to testify before a Criminal court jury had resulted in a directed verdict acquitting Nitti and four of his alleged aids on charges of conspiracy to "seize" the union.

McLane later denied that fear of Nitti and other members of the old Capone gang prompted him in his refusal to repeat the story of muscle methods and threats which he previously had laid bare before the Cook county grand jury. [This testimony later was made a part of the record of the Nitti trial.] Nor would McLane verify reports that factional differences within the union had been straightened out and that Nitti, again seeking absolute control of the union, was behind the business agent's change of heart regarding the receivership.

M'LANE UNVEILS A FINE POINT IN NITTI TECHNIQUE

The technique used by Frank [The Enforcer] Nitti while enforcing orders given members of the bartenders' union was disclosed yesterday in a transcript of grand jury testimony by George B. McLane, business agent of the union.

McLane told of a conference with Nitti in which he refused to obey the gang leader's order to put several men on the pay roll.

"Nitti said, 'Well, would your old lady look good in black?'" McLane recalled, "and I said, 'No, she had never worn black,' and he said, 'You either put them to work or she will be in black.'"

Marcella Appelt as she appeared in court yesterday.

Custody of 5 year old Marcella Appelt was given yesterday to her grandmother, Mrs. Ida Koontz, by Judge Rudolph Desort after the child's parents, Walter and Mrs. Waneta Appelt, were unable to agree on a reconciliation. Mrs. Appelt, 28, of 549 Aldine avenue, is suing for divorce on grounds of cruelty.

Last week Appelt, who is 31 and an insurance collector, astounded Judge Desort by saying that he was sincerely fond of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Koontz, and would willingly support her and give her custody of his child. Judge Desort remarked that Mrs. Koontz seemed to be an ideal mother-in-law.

In court yesterday Norman Becker, Mrs. Appelt's lawyer, announced that a reconciliation between the Appelts was hopeless, and Judge Desort responded by turning their daughter over to Mrs. Koontz. Appelt agreed to pay her $7 weekly for Marcella's support. After the hearing Mrs. Koontz and the child left for her home in Effingham, Effingham county.

JURY CONVICTS 4 BOOTLEGGERS IN ALCOHOL RING

Three Face Sentences of 32 Years in Prison.

Four members of a bootlegging gang described as one of the wiliest ever trapped in this district were found guilty by a federal district court jury last night of violating the internal revenue laws.

Jerry Morabette [top] and Jacob Nedza.

Three of the gang were convicted on all counts in the indictment and face maximum punishment of 32 years in the penitentiary and fines of $38,000 each. They are Jerry Morabette, 43 years old, the alleged leader; his brother, Anthony, 35, and Thomas Barrile, 32, all of 448 North Racine avenue, where one of the stills was located. The other still was at 1648 Bloomingdale avenue.

The fourth defendant, Jacob Nedza, 30, of 1042 Erie street, was found guilty on 10 counts and faces a maximum of 16 years in prison and a fine of $19,000.

Jerry Morabette already is serving a six month sentence in the county jail for contempt of court. The sentence was imposed for threatening a government witness during the trial. He also was held over to the federal grand jury on charges of intimidating the witness and perjury.

Martin S. Gerber, assistant United States attorney, charged in his closing arguments that the defendants were professional terrorists and made up a desperate band of criminals. He said the manufacture and sale of illicit alcohol by the gang had deprived the government of thousands of dollars in liquor taxes.

Defense attorneys, led by Luis Kutner, Charles Schaub, and Miss Antonia Rago, charged that the government's case had been "framed" and emphasized what they termed discrepancies in testimony of federal agents.

Judge Charles E. Woodward, before whom the case was tried, delayed sentencing the four pending a hearing on motions for a new trial, which was set for Tuesday.

SHOOTS GAS STATION ROBBER TO DEATH; COMPANION ESCAPES

A courageous filling station attendant shot and killed a holdup man who had forced him into the station washroom at gunpoint last night. The dead man was identified as Edward Bickley, 28 years old, address unknown.

Earl Stafford. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

According to Sergt. Arthur Murphy of the detective bureau Bickley entered the station at Cicero avenue and Augusta boulevard, leaving a companion in his car outside. He caught Earl Stafford, the attendant, unawares and ordered him into the washroom. Stafford, police said, twice tried to emerge as Bickley piled boxes against the door to hold him in. Both times the bandit threatened to kill him.

The third time, however, Stafford came out shooting a gun which he had kept hidden in the washroom. Bickley, hit several times, ran to Cicero avenue and Walton street, a block away, before collapsing.

Stafford has been held up on 5 or 6 previous occasions.

CAN'T REMEMBER SLAYING RIVAL, HUSBAND SAYS

Testifies of Learning His Wife's Infidelity.

Benard Lindner, 37 years old, told a jury yesterday in Criminal court, where he is on trial for murder, that he could remember none of the events surrounding the actual slaying of his business partner, Albert Neiman, 38, on Oct. 6 in a law office at 3837 Broadway.

The shooting culminated a quarrel over Lindner's wife, Edith, 34, mother of two daughters, 8 and 11. On Thursday Mrs. Lindner told how for six years she had carried on a secret love affair with Neiman.

Learns of Wife's Infidelity.

Lindner said that on Sept. 29 he learned of this affair and forgave his wife, but told her that if at the end of six months they couldn't get along he would give her her freedom to marry Neiman, who already had a wife.

Mrs. Lindner, he said, then agreed not to see Neiman, but that the same night she kept a tryst with him.

Lindner said he became distrait, and on Oct. 6, while driving his wife to meet with the Neimans in a lawyer's office, he stopped to purchase a gun. This gun was used in the shooting that followed.

Set Up Insanity Defense.

Samuel Hoffman, defense attorney, read a 24 page hypothetical question concerning a situation identical with that of the Neiman slaying. Dr. Alexander S. Hershfield, a psychiatrist, said the slayer under the circumstances was emotionally insane. He said the insanity would be the result of great emotional stress and that the individual would be unable to distinguish between right and wrong.

The hearing was adjourned until today, when Dr. Hershfield will be cross-examined by the state. It is expected that final testimony and closing arguments will be finished today.

GRAIN ELEVATOR BURNS.

Mattoon, Ill., Dec. 6 [Special].—A large grain elevator near this city, owned by the Cleveland Grain company of Cleveland, O., was destroyed by fire of unknown origin today. The loss was estimated at more than $40,000, including 39,000 bushels of corn and 5,000 bushels of soybeans.

THE MILWAUKEE ROAD

MEAT ON HOOF SHOWN TO CITY SCHOOL PUPILS

15,000 See Exposition of Farm Wonders.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.

Fifteen thousand Chicago boys and girls got acquainted with cows yesterday, saw champion horses parade, and heard a live stock auctioneer's incredible chant.

It was School day at the International Live Stock exposition at the stockyards. Seventh and eighth grade students were guests of Arthur G. Leonard, chairman of the show's board, President Henry W. Marshall, and the directors.

The boys and girls cheered Evelyn Asay's dad, Donald Asay, and her grand champion steer, Sargo. They cheered for Evelyn, too, altho she was away, attending a luncheon as guest of honor.

$40,817 to 4-H Youths.

The steer auction brought the youthful owners $40,817.75 at an average price of 16.31 cents a pound for the 250,295 pounds of meat on the hoof. The average weight was 1,039 pounds. Thus the average young farmer had $163.10 in his jeans to take home. The figures do not include the sale of Evelyn Asay's grand champion steer Sargo, which brought her $3,498 at $3.30 a pound.

The show officials paid honor to five great figures in the live stock and agricultural world whose portraits have been unveiled this week in the exposition's hall of fame in the Saddle and Sirloin club. These men are:

Col. Edward N. Wentworth, superintendent of the arena, director of the live stock bureau of Armour & Co., live stock historian, and leader in animal breeding and live stock economics and marketing work.

Prof. E. S. Good, celebrated live stock expert of the University of Kentucky. Prof. Good was honored for two achievements. He advanced the spring marketing of lambs so they would be ready for the table just after Easter instead of in June. And he helped blue blooded mares that wanted colts but couldn't have them to become mothers anyway.

Frank D. Rothrock of Spokane, Wash., was honored for developing modern agriculture in northern Idaho, eastern Washington, and western Montana and for developing the great Spokane market. But that wasn't all. He's the fellow who thought of shipping Idaho and Washington sheep by train for hundreds miles to pasture in the summer and bringing them back again in the fall.

Stanley Pierce of Creston, Ill., showed the grand champion steer in the first show in 1900. Mr. Pierce is the son of an Angus breeder and the father of a son who is now showing Angus cattle from the family farm at the exposition.

L. A. Schreiner of Kerrville, Tex., was one of the founders of the wool warehouse cooperative movement and is famed in the sheep country for the mohair produced from the wool of his Angora goats.

The portraits are by Chicago artists. Joseph Allworthy painted Mr. Rothrock's picture and Othmar Hoffler the others.

B. H. Heide, general manager, estimated yesterday's crowd at 61,000. This brought the total attendance to 398,000. With the show's largest crowd expected today, the closing day, Mr. Heide said last year's total attendance of 446,000 would be exceeded.

Schaffenacker Bros., Illinois horse breeders from Mount Pulaski in Logan county, swept the honors for the rare Shire breed. Their Booms Conqueror was chosen champion stallion, and their Princess Daisy the champion mare.

Purdue Champion Sold.

Gene Moore, a student at the Ela Township High school in Lake Zurich, saw his junior champion, also a Chester White, sold to Armour & Co. for 40 cents a pound or $116.

Four-H club sales were led by Herbert Rees of Marion, Ia. The Bismarck hotel bought his junior reserve grand championship steer, a shorthorn, for 62½ cents a pound. The second high steer price, 30 cents a pound, went to Lyle Mullins of Winterset, Ia., for his Aberdeen-Angus champion, also bought by the hotel.

Breeds of Hogs at Stock Show

BEG YOUR PARDON

John O. Hruby of Berwyn, who was sued for divorce in Reno, Nev., was erroneously identified in an item yesterday as the Illinois state representative who sponsored a bill designed to exclude married women from state and city jobs. Hruby served in the legislature from 1907 to 1911. The author of the bill is his cousin, State Representative John O. Hruby, of 2758 South Hamlin street, who has represented the 19th district in the state legislature since 1931.

Stock Show Notes

There are some handsome Chester White pigs at the International Live Stock exposition; and here's how they got their name, according to Col. Edward N. Wentworth: Admiral Bedford, an Englishman, sent George Washington two pigs after Washington retired from public life. The ship was wrecked, but the pigs got ashore. They wound up in Chester county, Pa. Because they were white, and spent the sundown of their life in Chester county, the famed pig family which they founded is known as Chester Whites.

Superintendent John Caine III., yesterday entertained Mayor Ab Jenkins of Salt Lake City, celebrated speed driver; Richard Bonelli, the opera singer, and Chief John Prendergast of the uniformed police. Wilbur Shaw, three times winner of the 500 mile Indianapolis auto race, was another visitor.

One of the exposition's visitors is a youth with a pair of very big hands —Irv Baumann of Keota, Ia. He's the national corn husking champion. "You need hands like mine to be a corn husker," says Irv.

Kenneth McGregor of Ada, Minn., was elected president of the American Aberdeen Angus Breeders' association. He succeeds Simon E. Lantz of Congerville, Woodford county, who was named a director. Other officers are John Brown, Rosehill, Ia., vice president; J. F. McKenny, King City, Mo., treasurer, and W. H. Tomehave, Chicago, secretary. Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota was principal speaker at the annual dinner of the association.

In the polled shorthorn division, 33 cattle were sold at auction. Eleven bulls brought an average of $365 each and 22 females an average of $209.77 each.

4 SHEARS HUM, FLEECE FALLS, WHISLER WINS

Named Champion Roacher at Stock Show.

BY HERMAN KOGAN.

Bill Whisler of Aurora, in blue jeans and with a lock of brown hair over one eye, waits impatiently on the platform in the International Amphitheater arena. He holds a frightened sheep firmly by the neck with one hand; in the other, a shearing machine.

Roland Burkhardt, who says he'd rather shear a sheep than eat, does likewise. So do George Olien and Lee Hesler.

The judge calls "get set! Go!" And the motors of the shearing machines begin their whirring as these four begin the final round of the championship shearing contest of the Annual Live Stock show. They have reached this round because they scored highest point totals among 50 shearers in earlier trials.

Shears Abdomen First.

Whisler's face is dotted with beads of sweat. He bends down and digs into the fleece with the clipper, a device with a three inch cutter. First the abdomen while the sheep kicks its short legs in the air. Then the legs themselves. Two long snips, few short ones.

The fleece falls off in cascades near the sheep.

Now, with the agility of a contortionist, the sheep is turned on its side and the long "Australian blow," introduced in this country by a group of Australian shearers in 1906, is applied. It is a full sweep with a follow thru.

Two minutes 40 seconds. The first sheep is denuded. It is whisked into its pen and another brought out. The process is repeated. Then a third and final sheep. In little more than 7 minutes Whisler has sheared the three sheep.

How Points Are Scored.

The others finish a few seconds later. The judges score the points—20 for speed, 20 for absence of cuts in the fleece, 20 for the condition of the fleece, 15 for absence of cuts on the sheep, 15 for the manner of handling the animal, and 10 for the appearance of the shorn sheep.

"William Whisler, the champion," comes the announcement. "A score of 93.6 points." Whisler is happy. He stuffs the $150 grand prize in his pocket and tells of his fondness for shearing sheep.

"Been doing this five years, ever since I was 22. Like it better than anything else I've ever done. It's good work. A man can kind of be his own boss shearing sheep.

"What's it take to be a good shearer? Hell, man," he grins, "any roacher c'n tell you that—a strong back and a weak mind."

Porpoise Bites the Glove That Feeds Her; May Die

Marineland, Fla., Dec. 6 (AP).—Ichthyologists called a hurried consultation at an aquarium here today after a 600 pound female porpoise swallowed a diver's heavy rubber glove. The sea mammal snatched the glove from the diver's hand during a routine underwater feeding. She showed no ill effects, but experts were convinced the obstruction would prove fatal unless removed. A call for suggestions was sent to the nation's leading ichthyologists.

Retrieves Retriever

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Lieut. Louis Worm with Rex after dog has been recovered.

Omaha, Neb., Dec. 6 (AP).—Police Lieut. Louis Worm had retrieved his missing retriever today. Rex was back home.

Worm, hunting with Rex for the first time near Laurel, Neb., in October, shot a pheasant. Rex went out for it, but didn't come back.

After paying $32.50 for long distance calls about wrong dogs, Worm received one from Emil Buhr, near Shelby, Neb., 150 miles from Laurel, that he had a gaunt and footsore Rex.

VETS OF FAMOUS DANDY 1ST HOLD REUNION PARTY

Veterans of the famous Dandy 1st, now known as the 131st infantry regiment of the Illinois National Guard, held their annual reunion and homecoming last night in the regimental armory at 16th street and Michigan avenue. The present regiment, which leaves for federal service next month, was presented with a new set of colors by veterans of the Dandy 1st. The regiment was organized in 1874 and served in the Spanish-American war, the Mexican border troubles in 1916, and in the A. E. F. in France during the world war. Col. John M. Richmond is commander of the present regiment.

4 of 6 in Crew Rescued After Seas Smash Tug

Tillamook, Ore., Dec. 6 (AP).—The coastguard cutter Onondaga wirelessed the Bar View coastguard station late today that it had picked up four of the six men thought to have perished in the sinking of the tug Tyee off Tillamook bar. The cutter said she sighted the four in a small lifeboat after cruising several hours off the coast.

4,000 PROUDLY WEAR BADGE OF GOOD FELLOWS

Buttons Distributed to All Who Aid Drive.

BY RITA FITZPATRICK.

More than 4,000 Chicagoans already have buttonholed Santa Claus. They can be identified, not only by the cheerful grin which comes with sharing their holiday happiness with others, but by red, white, and green Good Fellow buttons pinned over their hearts.

The Good Fellow button is only an inch in diameter, but it encircles a world of good will. It pictures a kindly Santa Claus slipping down a red brick chimney with a full pack on his back. The button bears the words "Good Fellow, 1940."

It's Easy to Be a Good Fellow.

Approximately 6,000 buttons are still waiting for generous Chicagoans at THE TRIBUNE'S Good Fellow bureau, 1 South Dearborn street. Any one who contributes $1 or volunteers to deliver a Christmas basket of his own to one of the needy families on the Good Fellow list will receive a button. Children, who wish to share their Christmas happiness with other youngsters less fortunate, may become Junior Good Fellows and receive their buttons for a quarter.

Donations made in the name of organizations or clubs are recognized by the distribution of Good Fellow buttons among the members. Five large contributing organizations already have received 1,831 buttons. Fourteen hundred buttons alone will be distributed at the Good Fellow luncheon of the Traffic Club of Chicago in the Palmer House on Dec. 13.

One group which turned its annual Christmas grab bag and luncheon into a Good Fellow office party last year is repeating the successful idea this season. This is the Employés' club of the Hyland Electrical Supply company, 700 Jackson boulevard.

An Enjoyable Success.

"Our Good Fellow office party was such an enjoyable success for all last year that we voted unanimously to repeat it," said Miss Lanna Long, who originated the idea of the party. "Our club celebrated Easter by taking care of the same family we cared for as Good Fellows last Christmas. We were able to find a job for the man, who had been without one for two years.

"We are going to help his family again because there are seven in it who must have a merry Christmas, and when a man has been out of work for two years there isn't much leeway for extras. And we are also going to take on another Good Fellow family this year."

Admission to the party will be foodstuffs or gifts. Any necessary items to make the Christmas outlay for both families complete will be purchased from the club treasury.

There are three ways to become a Good Fellow. They are explained in the accompanying coupon.

THE NEW ORDER.

British labor's support of the war is described as unstinted. The labor leaders who have important places in the government and the workmen who follow them regard Herr Hitler's form of government with even greater hostility than the British workers in the kaiser's day did the German imperial régime.

British labor is fighting, according to its party pronouncements, not only to check the progress of the Hitler political and economic system but also to change the British. The postwar order in Great Britain is to give the average man a different status. Possibly average is not the right word. The Englishman who thought of himself as the average fellow might not think that he needed a change. But the workers, at least, feel it and they propose, if Britain at the end of the war is in position to determine its own destinies, to seek something better for the people who have not enjoyed the larger privileges.

At present the right to press forward for social and economic changes is recognized in nearly all quarters. What would happen when the pressure of war effort has been removed is at least speculative.

It isn't imaginative to consider the probability of great changes, not only in Great Britain but all over the continent, when the fighting ceases. One has only to recall what happened in the wake of the other world war. The forces engendered by it in many countries were found to be irrepressible. They gave the world Lenin and communism. They gave Germany the socialist republic and a conflict which that republic was unable to weather. It yielded to Hitler. The war gave Italy Mussolini. And now virtually all of the continent is within the framework of three men's ideas—of three men who were obscurities during the war which gave them their opportunities.

At this time it would appear that even greater forces are gathering head under the restrictions which compress them. More nations are subjected to iron control and their people are living in conditions which do not represent their will or satisfy their wishes.

In Germany there is much talk of happier days, when the German people will be rewarded for the sacrifices they have made. The Nazi Labor Front chief, Robert Ley, appears as the chief propagandist of the new order. In many speeches he is promising the German worker dignity, comfort, and a large share of the desirable things of life. The Nazi propaganda contains the vision of a peaceful Europe, economically sound, and enjoying the blessings of the new type of government. This idea does not conform to the course of events, which predict that smoldering forces rise in revolt against the conditions which have produced them.

Something of first magnitude affecting all the peoples may be expected in the wake of this war, just as it was realized in the wake of the other one. What it will be it will itself disclose.

THE GREEKS RETIRE AN ITALIAN MARSHAL.

The Greek war has brought the resignation of Marshal Pietro Badoglio, chief of the Italian general staff. The announcement in Rome does not indicate whether the retirement of this distinguished soldier was caused by Mussolini's bad temper, by the general's disagreement with the conduct of the war, or because of his age. The marshal is 69.

Badoglio rescued the Ethiopian adventure. When it started it was bogging down under the Fascist Black Shirt Gen. De Bono. The disparity of forces, particularly of war material, in that African conflict was so great that the conquest might have been assumed to be in the bag in the beginning, but experts agreed that Badoglio's handling of the campaign was militarily sound and revealed his abilities.

The Greek enterprise was undertaken even more lightly than the Ethiopian, which, indeed, did present questions of transport. They are much less difficult in an undertaking almost next door.

Since Mussolini made an angry speech some time ago, saying he would break the back of Greece if it took a year, he has not been much in the public prints. It is allowable to suspect that he is in a towering rage and is throwing his chin about, to the dismay of every one who must come near him. His state of mind probably has not improved much by his speculation as to what the royal family thinks of his military plight, nor by reports that Brother Adolf is considering the desirability of restoring peace by negotiation.

Badoglio may have retired in disgrace or he may have retired in disgust. Greece may in time be overpowered. Finland was and for the same reasons which may prevail in Greece eventually. But it is too late now for Mussolini to emerge with any credit or to sit as an equal of Hitler in the axis conferences. The fitting thing might be his own resignation. If there were life in the constitutional government of Italy the king might request it. The form of that constitution is still there, but only the form.

PROGRAM NOTES.

The Orchestral association has published a pamphlet containing excerpts from the reviews published after the Chicago orchestra's recent appearances in Pittsburgh, New York, Philadelphia, and Boston. The New York critics get most of the space because there are so many of them. Their separate contributions can be regarded as variations on a theme. A few program notes may prove helpful as a guide.

The theme is stated somewhat lengthily and sonorously by Mr. Olin Downes. A brief quotation must suffice. "In the best sense," says Mr. Downes, "the main lines of the interpretation as also the orchestral sonority, never forced, were 'echt Deutsch'."

The first variation presents Mr. Virgil Thompson. "The Chicago Symphony orchestra sounds like a French orchestra," he observes. "All the instrumental sounds stand clear and separate."

After a momentary pause Mr. James Whittaker's variation provides a contrasting note. Mr. Whittaker heard "the Teutonic orchestral sound, throbbing, thrumming, pervasive. It sacrifices detail almost completely to 'hum'."

This sacrifice of detail is just what Mr. Oscar Thompson didn't hear. In his variation he discovers that "the strings sing in forthright fashion; the other choirs have a clean, essentially normal utterance. Mr. Stock demands a maximum of precision."

At this point Mr. Virgil Thompson returns to introduce some new material. Of the playing of the Third Symphony of Brahms Mr. Thompson says "it offered Mr. Stock occasion for one of those rare and blessed readings in which the music seems to play itself."

Mr. Samuel Chotzinoff will have none of that. "The Third Symphony of Brahms," he remarks, "is, if one follows the score faithfully, a larger panorama of thought and feeling than Mr. Stock made it appear. By frequent hurryings and retards Mr. Stock injected an irrational element in the passionately temperate evolution of Brahms' ideas."

But that wasn't what Mr. Pitts Sanborn heard. There were no hurryings and retards to bother him. "It was a careful reading" he says, "sober, substantial, respectful of the composer's markings." [Maybe Mr. Sanborn wasn't there after all. Scholars call attention to his mention of the playing of the "Oberon" overture which was not on the program.]

In Mr. Henry Simon's variation, the orchestra has a "strong, raw-boned quality about it." Not at all, said Mr. Grena Bennett. "The music assumed remarkable sonority . . . the proportion of the choirs fashioned with a fine sense of design and nuance." And in Mr. Miles Kastendieck's ears the "performance as a whole was more on the brilliant than on the intense side."

It was kind of Mr. Stock to carry the musical gospel to the heathen. It is a hopeful sign that most of them seemed to like it, tho generally for the wrong reasons.

COMMUNISTS IN THEIR BUSY GROUPS.

Dr. Harry D. Gideonse, formerly of the University of Chicago faculty and for the last year president of Brooklyn college, told the legislative investigator of his experience with the communist activities in the institution of which he is the head. The New York legislature is trying to get a report on the penetration of the state's educational system by the communist activists and much evidence has been given regarding the faculty and student groups in Brooklyn college.

Dr. Gideonse said that before he would accept the place offered him there he spent two months at the school, studying the conditions, and became persuaded that the trouble, altho unquestionably there, was caused by a minority which had obtained an undue control of student activities. When he was convinced that the majority was out of sympathy with the communist tactics and only needed encouragement to assert itself, he took the place and helped to organize the opposition. He was successful. The majority of the students regained control of the student council and the minority then resorted to nuisance tactics.

The picture of this communist penetration as given by Dr. Gideonse with touches of humor is something for the book. It is a case study in disorder and rowdyism. Dr. Gideonse said his own home and office were picketed and his telephones were so misused that he had to have his home phone changed to a hidden number and to request the telegraph company not to deliver any late messages. He had phony calls from Mayor La Gardia and telegrams informing of disasters in the family. Classrooms were broken into by students calling all hands to massmeetings, and there was all sorts of general hell raising, the inspiration and leadership of which came from the communist party, using its peace organization and the American Student union.

The communist tactics in Brooklyn college were for a time successful because they were not combated. They had been successful in other New York educational institutions, to some extent in the teachers' union, and in at least one divinity school. When they are combated they are reduced to a nuisance, which is serious enough but is not dominating.

PRACTICAL COMPETITION.

[Washington Post.]

The College of William and Mary has invited any college in the nation to select a committee of three students, advised by a member of the faculty, to draft a 5,000 word memorandum on "The Next Decade of American Foreign Policy." Nine regional and three equal national prizes are offered. The peculiarity of this competition is the opportunity which will be given to the competitors for deliberating as a committee. The ordinary essay contest, in which the individual student draws his conclusions, has its place. But in the training of those who will govern us, the encouragement of practicality and democratic, cooperative processes of thought is of immense importance. Heretofore the students' only way to experience in group action has been thru semipolitical organizations in the colleges. Some of these organizations have been tampered with by special interests; many encourage disturbance of precious academic isolation. William and Mary has offered a workable substitute. May there be more such contests.

English ministry reports that war enthusiasm among the Italian people is "not remarkable," and a commentator adds: "That's not remarkable either."

LORE OF THE LINE BOOKS.

"So you're calling the edition of 1940 the 17th in the series of Line Books!" writes a bibliophile who collects them. "From my point of view it is the 18th, because there were two editions in 1924, the first year. The second was labeled 'revised edition.' I have 'em both, and all the others."

* * *

Perhaps Malcolm Little (no relation to Richard Henry Little) up in the Business Survey department of THE TRIBUNE can explain why there were two editions in 1924. He stood over R. H. L. with a figurative club while the editing was in progress. Mal Little also drew the first cover design—a full length silhouette of R. H. L.

* * *

The second cover design was a drawing by John T. McCutcheon, in wood cut style, showing a comic troubadour in a winter scene, serenading a castle.

* * *

Boris Riedel, 1926; Peter Arno, 1927; Bolin, 1928; Boris Artzibasheff, 1929; Foy, 1930; Payton Rawson, 1931; William Welsh, 1932; photomontage by unknown designer, 1933; photomontage by Hugh Chenoweth, 1934; Lester Beall, 1935; Henri Milan, 1936; Henri Milan, 1937; Stan Eckman, 1938; Pete Hawley, 1939; Ben Cohen, 1940.

* * *

The editions from 1926 to 1935, inclusive, carry the name of Shelby Little as compiler. She was, and is, Mrs. Richard Henry Little. She contributed to the column before her marriage under the name of Helen Henns. . . . William C. Shinnick edited 1936 and 1937. . . . The present editor of the Line o' Type column carried on from that point.

LITTLE PARCEL.

Go swiftly, Little Parcel,
To a modest door.
Knock softly, yes, thrice softly.
Tread lightly o'er the floor.
Pause by the quaint old rocker
That near the window stands,
Then snuggle, closer snuggle
Into the thin, pale hands.

Stir not if they caress you
Or tears upon you fall,
Nor if the lips in tremble
An unworthy name recall.
God speed you on your journey.
Do not, I beg, delay,
But to her hasten with my love
To glad her Christmas Day.

Choice Item for Theater Curtain Fans.

The oldtimers who are talking about gone and almost forgotten theater curtains might take a look at one that is still in use, rising and falling every night on "Life with Father" at the Blackstone. The Theater Magazine of March, 1911, told its story as follows:

"No other theater in the country has a drop curtain like it, and there are only two or three similar ones in the world, one in Milan, another in Moscow. No Parisian or London theater may boast of such a curtain. It is a handsome piece of tapestry, woven especially in Aubusson, near Paris, for this purpose, and costing $15,000. It is the largest single piece of tapestry ever imported into this country, measuring 30 feet by 45.

"The painting of the design took place in the studio of M. Lamaille in Montmartre [Paris], and the actual work of weaving at Aubusson occupied nearly 18 months. It is a reproduction of one of the famous pieces owned by Napoleon the Great, now hanging in the Louvre, and its scene depicts a party of young people dancing in a glade at Fontainebleau in the time of Louis XIII."

A QUEEN'S PRAYER.

O Father in Heaven!
My hope is in Thee;
O Jesu beloved!
Now liberate me;
In fetters unfeeling,
In penance unhealing,
I call upon Thee:
In kneeling, in sighing,
In fading, in dying,
I adore, I implore Thee
To liberate me!

A Christmas Conspiracy.

There is a Christmas conspiracy on foot. I think Father Christmas, Mother Nature, and the merchants have all conspired to bring in the Christmas season earlier, so its gayety may be held longer.

Mother Nature brought a heavy snow in soft floating crystals that painted pictures like all the Christmas scenes I have ever seen; piled it in drifts, coating the earth, trimming the trees and bushes with white. Mother Nature has done her job well.

The merchants have decked their stores with more beautiful decorations than ever. Their windows are filled with gifts and toys. I've been window shopping up one side and down the other of our main street, and if I have stayed overly long at the toy windows I am not ashamed.

And Father Christmas has a part in this conspiracy, but just what it is is not too clear to me, unless perhaps it is propaganda. Yes, I think that is what it is. I think he has been playing with our fears and premonitions. I think he knows we are afraid that this may be our last gay Christmas, and therefore each of us is trying to make the best of what we have while we have it.

RECOVERY FOR VICTIMS OF DELIRIUM TREMENS.

DELIRIUM tremens is a serious ailment. For the most part, it is regarded as the result of alcohol poisoning altho some writers look upon the disorder as a food deficiency. The fact is that altho the patient has imbibed plenty of alcohol, his vital forces are at a very low ebb. He may be holding on to existence by a slender life line.

We must not confuse these seizures with intoxication to the point at which unconsciousness is produced. "D.T." is far more dangerous. In fact, the victim is suffering from an acute psychosis. He is badly confused as to his whereabouts and he will exhibit hallucinations with the maximum of apprehension. Appetite vanishes, slumber will not come, and the appearance indicates deep toxicity.

Because of the danger to life, every victim should be given the benefit of hospital management. So many things need to be done that home care is out of the question. Treatment is largely that of combating symptoms as there is no single specific cure.

Since the entire body is upset nervously, fluids are given generously. The purpose is to flush the tissues and the cells with water in the hope that many pernicious substances will be eliminated. High concentrations of cane sugar seem to lower the pressure within the nervous system and reduce edema [swelling] of the brain.

Nutrition is also important. As is well known, the confirmed alcoholic substitutes drink for food. Little wonder then that after a while a true vitamin deficiency ensues. This explains why a fair number of these individuals develop neuritis with pain and inability to move certain muscles. Because of lack of appetite it seems desirable to feed vitamin B complex. This may be accomplished in part by the injection of liver extract and of nicotinic acid. Objection, however, has been made to this latter compound on the ground that it will increase trouble within the nervous system. Liver, however, appears to be helpful.

Without a doubt, vitamin B1 [thiamin chloride] influences slumber. In those cases where its administration was begun immediately, some of the sufferers dropped off to sleep without the use of a sedative.

Good nursing and careful handling must be provided. We must make certain first of all that the patient cannot harm himself, which means that he must be supervised constantly. With as little delay as possible the profound state of exhaustion will require relief. This may point to stimulants such as digitalis or caffeine, while paraldehyde may be given to induce repose. Both cascara and Epsom salts are used to initiate bowel contractions.

In a recent report Rosenbaum and others cite 524 consecutive subjects treated in a Cincinnati hospital covering a period of seven years. Using all the aids at their command they were able to bring the death rate below 5 per cent. Their record is a real achievement. Many of those who got well but failed to reform returned to the physician in charge voluntarily with the appearance of the first signs of tremors.

Mild cases of serpents—tantamount, let us say, to garter snakes—recovered following the feeding of B1. If all those who are subject to the malady could be nourished properly the bout—altho not shortened—would be far less acute and hence less deadly.

SHAVING THE HEAD.

J. K. writes: I am considering shaving the head to forestall baldness. Is there a possibility that the hair will not grow back?

REPLY.

Regrowth will appear if the follicles are intact. Shaving cannot create new roots. However, the procedure is helpful frequently in ridding the scalp of an infection.

BURNT TOAST, PLEASE.

A. R. writes: I have a fondness for well done toast. Friends tell me that the charred portions are injurious to the kidneys. What is your advice on this?

REPLY.

On the contrary, even tho the toast is black, it will be harmless. Charcoal is prescribed in many digestive disorders.

Test Your Horse Sense

BY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE.

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers on page 26.

1. The width of the ordinary glass quart milk bottle at the base is 1½ inches 2¼ inches 3¾ inches 5¼ inches
2. Which of the following edibles has no food value?
   Sucrose Glucose Saccharose Saccharin
3. If a housewife sprinkles her clothes preparatory to ironing them, but lets them remain unironed for a couple of days, they may be attacked by
   Mice Milk Vetch Mildew Migraine
4. The usual amount of baggage checked free per full fare railroad ticket is 50 lbs. 100 lbs. 150 lbs. 300 lbs.
5. Which one of the following meats should not be eaten raw or only partly cooked?
   Beef Pork Mutton Poultry
6. Because the subject is so timely and most of us can profit by a little more knowledge of our constitution, I shall award one point for each correct judgment in this True-False problem:
   - T F [a] President Roosevelt has not yet been elected to a third term.
   - T F [b] Wendell Willkie can still be legally and constitutionally elected President of the United States to take office next month.
   - T F [c] In the event of the death of Mr. Roosevelt before Dec. 16, our next President would be Mr. Wallace.
   - T F [d] In the event of the death of Mr. Roosevelt before Dec. 16, James Farley could be our President for the term beginning January, 1941.
   - T F [e] Those who wagered on the reelection of Mr. Roosevelt will not have won their bets until Dec. 16.

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

WHAT? ANOTHER TAX?

Chicago, Dec. 1.—Ald. J. M. Arvey suggests that the city levy a tax on salaries earned in Chicago in order to increase salaries of city employés. The worker now pays a federal income tax [increased next year], a sales tax on everything he buys, even his daily lunch, a social security tax by arbitrary deduction from his pay check. Now it is proposed to deduct a city tax from the pay check.

What will be next? A tax on the air which we breathe? Yet, the employé is asked to contribute to charity. Charitable and religious institutions should become tax conscious. A. F. R.

HUNTING LICENSES; WHAT FOR?

Chicago, Nov. 28.—I have just returned from a few days spent in a windswept duck blind on the lower Illinois river where it was my privilege as a free American to watch thousands upon thousands of ducks winging their way high in the sky, eventually to come to rest on some government sanctuary; there to pass the day, returning to surrounding cornfields after sundown.

Meanwhile, in countless blinds scattered along the river and marshes, hunters doze or beat their arms trying to keep warm while vaguely wondering who is the sucker, the hunted or hunter?

Let us see. As I understand it, some 280,000 hunting licenses were issued in the state at $1.50 each, or in round figures, $420,000. Assuming that 50 per cent of these buy a duck stamp at $1, making a grand total of $550,000.

Then to be told it is unlawful to hunt on private property, a public thorofare, the forest preserves, thousands of acres of game refuges, to use live decoys or bait ducks, or to use other so-called device methods.

Is this not obtaining money under false pretenses? Issuing a license that is not a license? Also I might ask of the powers that be how is this vast amount of money to be used? To impose more regulations? To create more soft political jobs? To propagate more ducks and buy more resting grounds wherein the fat mallards can thumb their noses at the deluded hunters who foot the bill? G. E. SVENSON.

A WORD TO TRAFFIC EXPERTS.

Chicago, Dec. 4.—Altho I read this section of the paper daily, this is the first time I've ever written to you about anything. This time I've got something! A solution to the evening crush and delays on the various south side street cars, especially Archer avenue and the Pulaski road bus line.

These so-called traffic engineers should be sentenced to about seven straight days of actual riding in these conveyances, with a crowd of tired homeward bound workers; wait on unprotected corners, have buses pass them up because of lack of standing room, and be made to suffer all the other tortures inflicted by their great god, "Schedule."

You can bet something would be done and mighty fast, too. As it is, the suffering public has had all the gumption squeezed out of it and hasn't the stamina to complain. C. H. P.

FOR A SECOND CANAL.

Chicago, Dec. 3.—Back in 1898 the question of a canal to connect the oceans was discussed by the personnel of the U. S. navy. Many commanding officers in active service favored the Panama route. Others thought a canal thru Nicaragua, tho longer, would serve the navy better.

I recall writing a letter, at the dictation of Capt. Taylor of the U. S. S. Indiana, to Admiral Crowninshield on this subject. Capt. Taylor favored the Nicaragua project.

Perhaps my skipper visualized an ultimate United States naval base at Hawaii. If so, and only one canal could be considered in prospect at that time, it is fairly safe to conjecture that he thought of the shorter route from Hawaii thru a canal into the Caribbean sea via Nicaragua.

Now that the Panama canal has been built, and a two ocean navy is in prospect, it might be well to consider the advantage of another canal between the two oceans. Necessity might arise where certain units of the Pacific fleet must come to the assistance of the Atlantic fleet—or the other way about. It is likewise possible that such an emergency might include the destruction of the Panama canal.

I am in favor of another, bigger and better, canal to connect the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. This one thru Nicaragua. Latin America should finance this project as their contribution to western hemisphere defense. SHIPSWRITER.

FROM AN OLD-TIME BARBER.

Charleston, Ill., Dec. 4—Thank you for the editorial in your paper regarding the proposed barber licensing bill. I have owned a barber shop for 35 years. I know the ups and downs of the business and it is none of my business what in the city districts is charged for hair cuts or a shave. Neither should it be any of their business what we in rural farm districts charge. Furthermore, why should we be compelled to join their union? And why should the master barbers, as they call themselves, ask the state to let them take over a job that the state has conducted for 30 years in all fairness to all barbers?

To put the barbers in politics would utterly ruin the barber trade in the rural districts as well as the looks of hundreds who would crop their own hair and shave themselves. Even as it is the barbers with their high prices have forced the men to safety razors and fathers to barber their own families.

The state has carried on this work satisfactorily for many years on a $1 a year license fee and $5 for the apprentice. Then after three years a fee of $5 for examination. So why should we have master barbers raise the license to $2.50, besides big union dues, when we have always done so well? U. C. JOSSERAND.

LOW ESTIMATE OF VALUE.

SHORT OF EVERYTHING.

Chicago, Dec. 3.—What a ludicrous spectacle unveils itself in the shadow of the words of Secretary of War Stimson's admission that we are short of air engines. Why, we're short of everything. We're even short of work. Labor is unemployed or unproductive; business men are unemployed, but we're short of essentials, short of comforts, short of surpluses.

Only the habitual ne'er-do-wells are in clover, but their program of production appears to be inadequate to meet the needs of the country and its friends. For myself, I am exhausted trying to be self-supporting by methods that for 150 years were laudable. I'm dying on my feet, my business is dead, and I'm a better producer than 90 per cent of the men now in the government sponsored efforts at industry. L. W. BEAVEN.

WOULD HALT PROPAGANDA.

Peoria, Ill., Dec. 3.—Your TRIBUNE was the first paper with courage to criticize Roosevelt after he became President.

Can't you do something to stop the flood of propaganda that is pushing us into Europe's war? Those countries have fought each other for 900 years—always bled white. MORTGAGE RENEWAL.

Cicero, Ill., Dec. 1 [Legal Friend of the People.]—The mortgage on our home expires early next year. The title at present is still in our parents' name, who have died, since it was taken out late.

1. Our present mortgagee won't renew it until we bring the papers up to date. There are two of us who share the home, my sister and myself. There was no will left.
2. What is the proper thing to do in our case?
3. How long is the period for probation?
4. Will it be possible to get a renewal if the period is not up when it becomes due?
5. Is it possible for an outsider, not an attorney at law at present, to draw up the papers and go thru with it? C. P.

1. We see no need for this. His lien is not affected by the death of the original debtor. He is, however, in a position to insist on payment of the debt at its maturity and hence he can name arbitrarily his terms on which he will forgo that insistence.
2. If he insists on probate then presumably he should employ an attorney for the proceedings.
3. Creditors are allowed nine months in which to file their claims. In general the estate should be settled shortly after the expiration of that period.
4. This is largely for the creditor to say.
5. Depends on the experience and resourcefulness of the person in question. In general, an attorney is the only one permitted to represent another persons in court proceedings, if that is what you mean to ask.

'SWEETHEARTS' TO BE TONIGHT'S W-G-N OPERETTA

Peerce and Miss Claire Featured Singers.

Another night of melody and romance is in store for W-G-N-Mutual listeners tonight when Victor Herbert's tuneful operetta, "Sweethearts," is broadcast on the Chicago Theater of the Air from 9 to 10 o'clock.

Marion Claire and Jan Peerce will sing the leading rôles of Sylvia and Prince Franz. They will be supported by Virginia Haskins of the Chicago Opera, and Ray Charles, tenor, the W-G-N concert orchestra and chorus and W-G-N's dramatic company.

Returns from Concerts.

Peerce, who has appeared in several Chicago Theater of the Air productions, has been on a concert tour since he last sang on W-G-N. He came from Altoona, Pa., where he gave a concert, to sing the Duke in the Chicago Opera's presentation of "Rigoletto" last night.

the orchestra on Saturday evenings during the absence of Henry Weber, who is occupied with his duties as general director of the opera.

Miss Haskins sang the leading rôle of Gilda in "Rigoletto" last evening and has sung Nanetta in the three productions of "Falstaff" this season.

Includes Tuneful Songs.

Several charming musical numbers enliven "Sweethearts," including the popular title song and "The Angelus," "Pretty as a Picture," "Iron, Iron, Iron," "Every Lover Must Meet His Fate," and "The Ivy and the Oak." The operetta was first produced in the Academy of Music in Baltimore in 1913.

In tonight's production Louise Barclay will take the speaking part of Sylvia; Bret Morrison that of the prince. Others in the dramatic company are Fran Carlon, Olan Soule, Cornelia Osgood, Donna Reade, Janet Logan, Bob Jellison, Willard Waterman, and Marvin Mueller. Robert Trendler is the choral master and the operetta will be produced by William A. Bacher.

5 YOUNG WOMEN PICKETING HOME SEIZED BY POLICE

Oak Park police yesterday arrested five young women who were picketing the home of Edward F. Bachner at 1120 North Elmwood avenue in the suburb. Bachner is an official of the Chicago Molded Products corporation, 1020 North Kolmar avenue, where 450 employes went on strike a month ago.

The women, whose ages range from 17 to 20, carried signs attacking the company. They refused to give their names and each was booked for disorderly conduct as Mary Doe. They will appear Tuesday before Justice of the Peace Alfred Brennan.

The strike is the outgrowth of a dispute between an independent union and local 48 of the National Association of Die Casting Workers [C. I. O.]. Attempts to negotiate a settlement still are in progress.

Col. A. L. Gatewood's Flying X rodeo rode and roped its best last night in the Coliseum for an audience that consisted largely of several thousand screaming newsboys. For the 60 cowboys and 15 cowgirls, many of whom are visiting a big city for the first time, it was a dress rehearsal for the show, which opens today and continues thru Dec. 15.

Stars include Herb Ovrson of Sidney, Mont., who got lost a week ago when he arrived and had to have police direct him to his rancho; Emily Jean Davis, 12 years old, fancy rope twirler from San Benito, Tex.; Helen Clancy Hammerschmidt, daughter of the famous bronc buster, "Foghorn" Clancy, and Earl Sutton of Ekalaka, Mont., who lassoes eight men on horseback.

Two acts which Col. Gatewood says have never been done before are the opening stampede of wild horses and an old fashioned dance interpreted by six boy and six girl riders. It is the colonel's first indoor rodeo.

COURT UPHOLDS ROOSEVELT IN TVA FIRING SUIT

Turns Down the Appeal of Dr. Morgan.

Cincinnati, O., Dec. 6 [Special].—President Roosevelt's long contested dismissal of Dr. Arthur E. Morgan as chairman of the Tennessee Valley authority was upheld today by the 6th United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

Dr. Morgan, a nationally prominent engineer and former college president, was ousted on March 22, 1938, after he had opposed extremist policies and insisted on arbitration and conciliation in meeting the many problems in the New Deal's vast power project.

Refusing to recognize the President's right to remove him, Morgan filed suit charging that his ouster was illegal and void, and seeking recovery of $4,583 in back salary. Today's decision affirmed a lower court's dismissal of that suit.

Further Appeal Predicted.

Predictions that the matter would be taken to the United States Supreme court for final determination often have been made. However, Dr. Morgan said at his home in Yellow Springs, O., that he would have to consult his attorneys before making any statement concerning a further appeal.

In ruling against Dr. Morgan's challenge of the President's authority, Circuit Court of Appeals Judge C. C. Simons of Detroit cited a Supreme court decision which said:

"The power to remove executive officers appointed by the President is conferred upon him by the constitution and so may not be abrogated by statute."

The court's opinion said in part:

"It requires little to demonstrate that the TVA exercises predominantly an executive or administrative function. The board does not sit in judgment upon private controversies, or controversies between private citizens and the government, and there is no judicial review of its decisions except as it may sue or be sued as many other corporations."

President's Unusual Charge.

President Roosevelt, who made Dr. Morgan head of the TVA in 1933 after being attracted to him by his work as president of Antioch college at Yellow Springs, flung the unusual charge of contumacy at him in removing him five years later. Contumacy means pertinacious resistance to authority.

The tall gray haired educator replied with charges of dishonest management against his TVA associates, particularly Harcourt A. Morgan and David E. Lilienthal, board members. He amplified his accusations at congressional investigation of the TVA in the summer of 1938.

CLERK'S DEATH CALLED SUICIDE.

A verdict of suicide was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury investigating the death of Carl Shinn, 53 years old, of Warsaw, Ind., a railway mail clerk. He was found shot to death in a Pennsylvania railroad mail car at Harrison and Canal streets.

Philip Armour Captures 1,500 Pound Sea Bat

BY JUDITH CASS.

MOST fishermen bring home souvenirs of their luck [if they have any] but it is safe to predict that Philip D. Armour will not bring back with him next week the huge manta or sea bat that he captured while fishing off Palm Beach last Tuesday. Mr. Armour, Kent S. Clow, and George Jones are the Chicagoans who have been attending a fishing contest that A. Charlton Yarnall of Philadelphia and Palm Beach has been holding for his friends.

Mr. Armour sighted the manta while fishing aboard the Skipper. The captain threw a harpoon into the huge, ugly sea creature, bringing it alongside. Making use of the ship to shore telephone, the dockmaster at the inlet was notified and a boat came out to tow the bat in. Since then the big, triangular shaped monster has been attracting large crowds at the inlet docks, where it is on display. It measures 15 feet 7 inches across the wings and weighs 1,500 pounds. Its mouth is 3 feet wide and its tail 8 feet long. Not the trophy to hang in a game room.

Winter Visitors Already Beginning to Arrive.

Our correspondent in Palm Beach also sends word that the winter tourists already are flocking there and that there is every indication that this will be the biggest season ever. Palm Beach itself has no terminal stations of any sort, and railroads, airplanes, and buses all deposit their passengers in West Palm Beach, across Lake Worth from the fashionable resort. In the old days a railroad coach was backed across a narrow bridge spanning the lake, and passengers alighted at a yellow frame depot with shingled cupola, but nowadays only motor cars take visitors from West Palm Beach to Palm Beach itself.

Mrs. Elisha Dyer Hubbard and her cousin, Mrs. Charles O. Parsons, formerly of England, have moved into the villa on Via Bellaria recently purchased by Mrs. Hubbard, the former Muriel McCormick. The Breakers hotel is open, with George Skinner of Chicago as the first to register this season.

Mrs. A. Parker Bryant, who was visiting relatives in Chicago and on the north shore earlier in the winter, now has joined Mr. Bryant at their home in Lake Worth, the town just south of West Palm Beach. Col. Robert H. Morse and John Morse already are at their Palm Beach home where they will be joined by Mrs. Morse next week.

Edward A. Cudahys Giving Dinner Party Tonight.

The Edward A. Cudahys are giving a welcome home dinner party tonight at their home in Lake Forest for the Curtis Munsons who arrived 10 days ago to spend the winter in Chicago. The former Edith Cummings and her husband have her mother's, Mrs. D. Mark Cummings', apartment in State parkway. His daughters, Miss Frances and Miss Marion Munson, are with them. The former is studying at Northwestern university and the latter at the Goodman theater.

Miss Elizabeth Ann Sheldon and Arnold Jordan Wilson Jr. of La Salle, Ill., and Detroit, are being swept into a rush of prenuptial parties before their wedding next Saturday. Miss Sheldon is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Sheldon of Glencoe and Mr. Wilson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson of La Salle.

Mr. Wilson, who has been commuting between Detroit and Chicago almost every week-end since October, arrived in Chicago again last night. Tonight he and Miss Sheldon will be fêted at a cocktail party given by Mr. and Mrs. Alan Magary of Evanston and then at a dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Dwight P. Green Jr. and Miss Judith Fox at the Greens' Evanston home.

Tomorrow afternoon Mr. and Mrs. James M. Sheldon Jr. will give a cocktail party at their home in Winnetka for Miss Sheldon and Mr. Wilson.

Jeanne Elizabeth Cutler to Be Wed This Evening.

Miss Jeanne Elizabeth Cutler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Cutler of Wilmette, will become the bride of Andrew Lanquist Shirey at 8:30 o'clock tonight in the Winnetka Congregational church. The Rev. Samuel Harkness will officiate at the ceremony, which will be followed by a reception at the Shawnee Country club. Mr. Shirey is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph G. Shirey of Beverly Hills, Cal. After a wedding trip to Phoenix, Ariz., Mr. Shirey and his bride will live in Palo Alto, Cal.

Mrs. Norman C. Shellman will be matron of honor for her sister and Miss Helen Shane, Miss Sue Spinney, Miss Marie Gibbons, and Miss Elsie Jane Shirey, sister of the groom from Beverly Hills, will be bridesmaids. Cynthia and Bruce Cutler, children of Mr. and Mrs. Paul William Cutler, will act as flower girl and ring bearer.

Mr. Shirey's cousin, Edwin Shirey of Los Angeles, will be best man and James Rutledge of Riverside, Cal., Theodore Hoffman, Donald Bohr of Detroit, and Thomas Grant Cutler, brother of the bride, will serve as ushers.

124th Field Artillery Polo Team Plays Detroit.

From their box in the 124th Field Artillery armory in Washington park the Leander J. McCormicks will be applauding their new son-in-law, Lieut. William D. Fergus, when he drives home a goal in tonight's polo match with Detroit. Mrs. Fergus, the former Marie Blanche McCormick, will be with them.

The polo and military show will be Chicago's hail and farewell to the trio which has won victory after victory for the 124th field artillery. Other members of the team, which reports after the first of the year for military service at Camp Peay, Tenn., are Capt. Romeo E. Mura and Lieut. Don J. Rice.

Engagement Announced

[Hurrell (Hollywood) Photo.]

Miss Nancy Leiter, whose engagement to Charles Thomas Clagett is announced by her mother, Mrs. Joseph Leiter of Chicago and Washington, D. C. The wedding will take place on Saturday, Feb. 22, in the Washington home of the bride's mother. Formal announcement of the engagement was made yesterday at a tea Mrs. Leiter gave at her home in Dupont circle.

Uncut First Editions.

It has been our erroneous idea that when bibliophiles speak lovingly of their "uncut first editions" uncut referred to pages fastened at the outside—the ones that have to be cut before the book can be read. Walter McKee, a publishing house representative, cleared up the point when, apropos the talk to be given by Dr. Will Durant at the Lake Shore club next Monday, some one mentioned that he had an uncut first edition of Durant's The Story of Philosophy, which now has reached 3,000,000 copies. McKee explained that uncut means pages that have not been trimmed smaller to eliminate dog ears and damaged edges. The word for books which have the pages fastened together at the outside is "untrimmed." So any amateur bibliophiles can use the paper knife and read those treasures on the top shelf.

"An Airman's Letter to His Mother."

(Excerpt from letter, now published in booklet form and dedicated to the R. A. F., found among the personal belongings of a young R. A. F. pilot in a bomber squadron, recently reported "missing, believed killed."]:

". . . I have always admired your amazing courage in the face of continual setbacks; in the way you have given me as good an education and background as any one in the country. . . . My death would not mean that your struggle has been in vain. Far from it. It means that your sacrifice is as great as mine. . . . Today we are faced with the greatest organized challenge to Christianity and civilization that the world has ever seen, and I count myself lucky and honored to be the right age and fully trained to throw my weight into the scale. For this I have to thank you. . . . You must not grieve for me. . . . With the final test of war I consider my character fully developed. Thus at an early age my earthly mission is already fulfilled and I am prepared to die with just one regret, and only one—that I could not devote myself to making your declining years happier by being with you; but you will live in peace and freedom and I shall have directly contributed to that, so here again my life will not have been in vain."

Blind Pianist Gives Recital to Assist Blind

Under the sponsorship of the Lions clubs of Cook county, the blind pianist, Ernest Moeller, last night gave an Orchestra hall recital for the benefit of the Hadley School for the Blind in Winnetka.

The program was an extraordinarily ambitious one, for it contained several such large scale works as Beethoven's "Appasionata" sonata, Chopin's Polonaise in F-sharp Minor, and the same composer's Scherzo in B-flat Minor. There was also a profusion of small pieces.

Mr. Moeller displayed an amazing dexterity. He overrode the most frightful difficulties as smilingly as if they did not exist. His tone was bright and full bodied.

A suggestion: A shorter program, with fewer major works, would permit the pianist to take things easier and to allow his musical imagination better play. There would be an air of greater relaxation and more opportunity for easy, expressive color and tempo effects. E. B.

BY INDIA MOFFETT.

Magnolias, camellias, southern smilax, and moonlight, all these contributed to the magic that last night transformed the grand ballroom and its foyer in the Palmer House into a garden such as old Natchez or New Orleans might have produced. The setting was for Chicago's one and only Assembly ball, the most exclusive affair of each winter.

The only light in the ballroom came from tall, hollow white columns illuminated from within so that they seemed to be pillars of moonlight. Smilax and shell pink camellias were entwined around them clear to the ceiling across which the graceful vines were arched and were dripping so that the whole room was a bower. The smilax was arranged on the balcony like a wrought iron balustrade such as one would expect to see in the deep south.

Huge pots of magnolias were in the foyer. They did not have the heavy fragrance that is associated with these glorious blossoms for only the plants were growing; the blossoms had been tied on during the afternoon. The twelve hostesses [wives of the governors] formed two receiving lines, standing just inside the entrance to the ballroom, across from the orchestra platform. All carried camellias, encircled with gold and green leaves.

Mrs. William McCormick Blair, wife of the chairman of the governors, wore a gown of pale blue satin with a full skirt which had a band of grosgrain ribbon running around it halfway from the waist to the ground. The V-necked bodice was sleeveless. Her camellias were white. Mrs. Robert A. Gardner's gown was blue satin, too, but hers was a French blue. It also had a full skirt and she, too, carried white flowers.

Pearly white satin was the material of Mrs. Solomon Byron Smith's lovely straight line gown which had as its only trimming plaits at the shoulder and as inserts in the skirt. With a bouquet of pink camellias, brunette Mrs. Smith was a perfect picture of a southern belle. Mrs. William R. Odell Jr.'s taffeta dress was strikingly different and smart, being of gray, green, and pink stripes. She had chosen pink flowers, also.

Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson Jr. and young Mrs. A. Watson Armour were both in white. Mrs. Ryerson's gown was threaded with silver and with it she carried red camellias. Mrs. Armour's tulle dress was a little off-white and there was gold embroidery sprinkled on it. Her flowers were pink.

Mrs. Lester Armour's lamé gown was most unusual in color, a rich topaz, a stunning background for her pink flowers. The skirt was sunburst plaited and the bodice had a high back, a square décolletage in front, and short cap sleeves.

Mrs. Dexter Cummings was lovely in champagne satin, simply cut, with red camellias in her hand. Belonging to the same color family was Mrs. James H. Douglas Jr.'s slipper satin gown for it was of beige. White feathers trimmed one shoulder and one side of the full skirt. Her flowers matched the feathers in color.

Mrs. Edison Dick's becoming gown was of pansy purple velvet with a tight bodice and dusty pink leaves embroidered on the skirt. An antique amethyst necklace was a stunning accessory. Her flowers were of such a pale shell pink as to appear almost white. Mrs. John A. Stevenson's green and gold brocade dress had as its only trimming a bunch of flowers of the same rich material. Her flowers were white.

Mrs. Arthur G. Cable, who, wisely, almost always chooses bright emerald green for evening wear, was in that becoming shade last night. The material was a fine wool jersey, simply but expertly fashioned. Glowing red camellias gave her a Christmasy look.

Supper was served to the 750 guests at small tables in the Red Lacquer room. The centerpieces were of croton leaves, Joanna Hill roses, and ivory candles.

Story of Opera 'Tosca' Being Sung Tonight

"TOSCA."

[Opera in three acts. Music by Giacomo Puccini. Libretto by Illica and Giacosa after the Sardou play. The scene is Rome in the year 1800.]

Act 1—Interior of the church of St. Andrea. Angelotti, an escaped political prisoner rushes in and hides himself. The sacristan now enters and begins his duties. A little later the painter Mario Cavaradossi arrives to continue his work on a madonna he is doing. He pauses to muse on his beloved, the opera singer, Floria Tosca.

When the sacristan is out of the way, Angelotti comes out of his hiding place and begs his old friend Cavaradossi to help him. Before the two men can complete their talk, the voice of Tosca is heard outside and Angelotti departs. Tosca is suspicious of her lover and thinks that he has been conversing with another woman, but he manages at last to send her away happy.

A great church service is in preparation, and the action is still further complicated by the entrance of Scarpia, chief of police, who has traced Angelotti to the church and is bent on recapturing him. He finds a fan which belongs to Angelotti's sister [who has been coming to the church to worship], and when Tosca returns Scarpia shows her this fan and suggests that Cavaradossi is meeting some other woman here in the church. In the meantime, Scarpia has been struck by Tosca's beauty and has resolved to make her his own.

Act 2—Scarpia's apartment in the royal palace. Word comes that Angelotti cannot be found but that Cavaradossi has fallen into the hands of the police. Scarpia sends for Tosca, informs her that her lover, Cavaradossi, is in the next chamber being tortured, and even opens the door so that she can hear his screams.

Even under torture Cavaradossi will not weaken, but Tosca cannot stand this strain and she divulges Angelotti's whereabouts. Cavaradossi is brought in just as word comes that Napoleon's victory will free Rome from Scarpia's tyranny. Cavaradossi shouts jubilantly, and Scarpia sends him off to his death. Alone with Tosca he begins making love to her, and finally she promises to yield to him if he will countermand the order for Cavaradossi's death and allow them both to leave the country unmolested. He agrees, signs some papers, and explains that there will have to be a mock execution for form's sake. Now he advances on Tosca in triumph. She, however, has no intention of yielding to him. Instead, she sinks a knife into his breast. After placing candles about his body, she steals away.

Act 3—Outside the castle of St. Angelo. Cavaradossi is brought forth to be executed. Tosca comes to tell him of her deed and to await what she believes will be merely a mock execution. The soldiers fire, Cavaradossi falls, and Tosca rushes forward to raise him, only to find that Scarpia has deceived her and that her lover is really dead. Eluding the guard advancing now to seize her as Scarpia's murderess, she climbs to the edge of the terrace and leaps to her death.

'Martha' to Be Sung in English This Afternoon

The audience is let in on all the jokes this afternoon at the Civic Opera house. "Martha," Von Flotow's tuneful and gay spirited comedy opera, is to be sung, not in the customary Italian, but in idiomatic English—an American brand of English happily laced with modern slang.

In the leading soprano rôle, lovely Helen Jepson will appear as Lady Harriet, maid in waiting to Queen Ann, who, bored with the monotony of court life, dons peasant costume to visit the country fair. Nancy, her maid and accomplice in the masquerade, will be played by Suzanne Sten, mezzo-soprano recently of Vienna. James Melton, tenor, and Douglas Beattie, bass, will appear as the two young farmers who hire the girls to do the housework.

Vicki Baum, the novelist, and Ann Ronell, who wrote "Who's Afraid of the Big Bad Wolf," and other popular lyrics, were collaborators on the "Martha" libretto, which goes beyond a mere literal translation. Following the spirit of the sprightly story and lively music, the two young women wrote a version to meet modern American stage standards. Their adaptation was enthusiastically received in the Hollywood bowl.

That Chicago is interested in opera sung in English has been demonstrated convincingly during the current season. The English "Falstaff," starring John Charles Thomas, was twice repeated after the original presentation. Each performance drew a capacity house.

RURAL CHORUS AT OPERA

One hundred and forty-three members of the Illinois Rural chorus, which appears annually at the Chicago Music Festival, attended the opera last night, heard "Rigoletto," and at its conclusion vowed they're return in a group next year 500 strong.

More than 100 of the 143 are farmers, and for 75 per cent of the entire group the opera was a new experience. They came from 16 counties, including Pulaski at the tip of the state. They came by car, train, and bus. The youngest of the visitors was 17 and the oldest 74.

Dr. David Lindstrom of the University of Illinois school of agriculture was in charge of the group.

BY CECIL SMITH.

Once again a sold out house greeted the singers on the Civic Opera house stage last night, in tribute to the amazing value offered each Friday night to the Chicago Opera company's student audience. Last evening's "Rigoletto," the next to last opera in the Friday night series, was in many regards a superior performance to the one given at full price on a Saturday night earlier in the season. The Gilda was better, the Rigoletto was better; in some important ways the Duke of Mantua was better; and the music moved with better pace and greater vigor generally.

Virginia Haskins, the young Chicago coloratura soprano who sang Nanetta in this season's "Falstaff" production, gave her first local performance as Gilda. In vocal ease, musicality, and theatrical projection she is one of the most attractive coloraturas now to be heard—even granting that her light voice does not always carry above the orchestra except in gentle passages, and granting also that a none too happy E-flat seemed to be her highest useful note.

She negotiated the difficulties of the "Caro nome" aria with fluency and charm of style. Tho she was ineffective, for want of volume, in the duet with Carlo Morelli in the second act, and even more so in the dramatic music of the "Si vendetta" just before the third act curtain, her singing was always charming and expressive, within its limits of volume. In the fourth act quartet, surprisingly, she seemed to discover more tone, and was able to present the soprano part in a good balance with the other voices.

Jan Peerce, in his Chicago operatic debut, made a tremendous success in the leading tenor rôle. I thought him the best Duke of Mantua we have heard at the Civic Opera house since Charles Hackett last sang the part. His voice possesses a most agreeable quality, and it moves with splendid flexibility, crisp accentuation, and smooth legato. It is a pleasure to hear his voice go up to high notes, for the placement of his A's and B's is very nearly ideal, and he approaches the top tones with neither break nor effort. As he sings more operatic rôles—and undoubtedly he will—he will develop the one ability he now lacks, to obtain a sufficiently wide range of expressive color.

In the title rôle of the opera, Mr. Morelli gave his best performance of the year. His voice sounded notably rich and beautiful, and he revealed an instinct for nuance which he has kept in hiding earlier this season, Virgilio Lazzari's assassin, Sparafucile, was neatly characterized and most intelligently sung.

Carl Alwin, conducting for the first time this year, kept everything together with an experienced hand. The chorus sang with wonderful agility and rhythmic verve.

Tea for Miss Summers.

Lydia Summers of the Chicago Opera company will be the guest of honor at a tea to be given by Mrs. Glenn Drake at the Woman's City club tomorrow.

The Odor of Violets

By Baynard Kendrick

[Copyright: 1940: By Baynard Kendrick.]

SYNOPSIS.

Leaving their house guest, Chell Scott, Norma Tredwill goes to the city to break up the romance between her libertine ex-husband, Paul Gerente, and her stepdaughter, Barbara. She sees Barbara leaving Paul's apartment—and discovers Paul murdered. Duncan Maclain, a blind detective, receives a visitor who claims to be Paul Gerente—with orders in code from the Naval Intelligence. They are Braille instructions in case New York is plunged into darkness by war, giving the five vital locations where sabotage might occur—locations Maclain refuses to divulge to his visitor. Maclain finds Cameron, who lives below Paul, in the apartment with the dead man. Cameron confesses to the murder, saying a girl, Hilda Lestrade, witnessed it. But Maclain suspects he confessed falsely merely to get Hilda arrested as a witness and out of the way. In California a girl spy questions her escort about the nation's new bombing sights. Bunny Carter, president of the Aircraft works where Norma's stepson, Gilbert, is a designing engineer, gives the troubled Norma a lift home, but she dares not confide in him for fear of implicating Barbara in the murder. Barbara disappears. A falling wardrobe knocks Norma unconscious in Gilbert's workroom. Col. Gray, head of New York's defense plan, asks Maclain and his partner, Spud, to investigate spy activities in connection with Paul Gerente's murder and the bombing sight which Gilbert Tredwill has designed. He sends Maclain to the Tredwill home ostensibly to investigate Barbara's disappearance, but first Maclain and Spud question Hilda Lestrade at the police station.

INSTALMENT XVIII.

VIOLET INK.

"And suppose, Miss Lestrade, your fingerprints weren't only on the highball glasses?" the inspector asked smugly. "Suppose we found some on the grand piano, too?"

"I don't give a damn where you found them," the girl declared hysterically. "I didn't put them there."

The captain took out a fountain pen and removed the cap. A leather bound notebook followed from his side coat pocket. He flipped the notebook open in his left hand and braced it on his knee. Guiding his right hand with outstretched little finger, he scribbled hastily.

Conscious that the occupants of the room were watching him, he deliberately recapped the pen and put it away. "Inspector, do you mind if I show Miss Lestrade what I've written here without revealing it to you?"

Davis indulged in an official frown. "She's a witness, not a criminal, Capt. Maclain," he said, after a moment. "We have no desire to read her personal mail."

"Thank you, Inspector." The captain extended the notebook toward the girl.

She took it from his hand, glanced at it quickly, and passed it back again. Suddenly, she twisted around to Davis and sat up straight in her chair.

"If you'll get a stenographer," she said venomously, "I'll tell you the truth about what went on last night in Gerente's room. Cameron's a rat. He found out that I was seeing Paul—and—and——" Her voice broke and she steadied herself with an effort. "He struck Paul down without giving him a chance."

Davis' eyes narrowed. "Go on."

"It was premeditated murder, Inspector—murder in the first degree. I don't care about anything now, except to send Arnold Cameron to the electric chair!"

The sergeant jumped to his feet with astounding agility. "Listen, lady! You better be sure of what you say!"

"Take her outside, Archer, and get a statement." Davis waved a commanding hand, and waited until Archer and the girl had gone. "Now what did you write?" he demanded of Maclain.

A muscle moved in the captain's chin as he handed over the notebook. The inspector stared at it gloweringly:

Davis shook his head. "How the devil could that make her switch her story that way?"

"Search me," said Maclain. He stood up. "I'm afraid we'll have to go."

"You'll get out of here over forty dead policemen unless you tell me what that means," the inspector warned him.

"It's a sympathy note." The captain smiled. "A note to bring her cheer. She's a quick girl, Davis. Almost as fast on the uptake as you. Cameron decided to drag her into this mess—and I, speaking as a friend, implanted the idea in her head that she might make things tough for Mr. Cameron, too."

"Speaking as a friend," Davis mimicked. "What ever gave that wise baby the idea she had a friend in you?"

"I'm not quite sure, Inspector," the captain took a step toward the door, "altho I'd give a lot to know. I think it was the ink which Spud put so carefully into my fountain pen this morning."

"The ink?" said Davis. "What ink, Captain? I think you'd better tell me before you go."

"The violet ink," said Duncan Maclain. He sniffed with deep appreciation. "Violet, Inspector—the color of that strange elusive smell!"

Humans, thruout the ages, have found it comforting to huddle about a fire. Warmth and propinquity minimize life's tragedies and multiply its' joys. Barbara's disappearance had gathered the Tredwill's together in the living room.

Thaddeus Tredwill stood in front of the fireplace gazing at the semi-circle of faces which looked to him for leadership in a crisis. Outlined against the leaping flames, his tall aristocratic frame showed gaunt and spare.

Gil's wife spoke from out of the shadows beyond the group:

"But it's too fantastic, Thaddeus. The man's blind. What does he expect to find with that dog—groping around in Barbara's room?" Her accent was a shade more noticeable than usual, altho her English remained precise and clear.

Thaddeus looked toward his son with an expression which seemed to say, "You answer her, Gil. You brought her here."

"There's a State Trooper with him, Helena," Gilbert reminded her. The engineer, when he spoke seriously, looked much like his father. Both had high foreheads and jutting noses. Both used their hands to make their points clear. Gilbert, on the surface, appeared more stable. Thad had a touch of wildness at times, probably due to his frenzied thatch of whitish gray hair.

"I'll bet he's good," said young Stacey from his place on the bearskin rug. "I wouldn't want his dogs after me."

"Good," Thad repeated slowly, weighing the word. "Fantastic—words—words—words." He gazed down at his younger son. The boy moved uneasily and put one hand in the open mouth of the bear.

"Fantastic," Thaddeus repeated, and fixed the slightly square face of his daughter-in-law with an accusing stare. "What can be fantastic, Helena, after what's happened in this house since yesterday?" He swung his head around from person to person with the gesture of a minister daring some member of his congregation to reply.

"I find that my only daughter is consorting with a man." Thaddeus decided to sum things up for the fifth time since no one had the temerity to answer him. He paused just long enough to let his audience grasp the full implication of the word "man." Few orators could condense more vitriol into a single tone.

"A man," he reiterated. "My wife's ex-husband—a brute and a libertine—and everybody knows that he's seeing my daughter—everybody except me."

"Nobody knew it, Dad," said Gilbert placatingly.

"The world knew it—and the press knew it. I suffered the humiliation of having a blind man point that out to me. Now, my wife's been badly injured in her own home, and my daughter's gone. Where? Who can say?" He broke off with genuine grief in his voice.

"Norma's awake, Thaddeus."

Gil moved on the settee to make room for Chell Scott who had come in from the hall.

"I'll go up," said Thad.

"I wouldn't." Chell sat down. "Better let her rest. She's still frightfully nervous. I had Pierce bring her some tea."

Thad questioned the girl with his eyes.

"She'll be all right in a day or two," Chell told him. "Dr. Trotter said this morning that she'd suffered a shock and a shoulder sprain——"

"I feel guilty as hell," Gil interrupted morosely. "I've been intending for years to move that wardrobe out of the way. It was always tottery." He turned to Chell. "You had plenty of nerve to go down there alone last night when you heard that thing fall."

"I thought that Pierce went with you, Chell," Helena remarked with a smile that missed her china blue eyes.

"He certainly did." Chell crossed her legs and smoothed her housecoat over her knee. "Norma was the one with nerve, Helena. I wouldn't go into that basement alone in the daytime—not me." She looked at Gil. "I don't like to pry, but will some one tell me what that man with a dog is doing upstairs in the hall?"

"He's Captain Maclain, a detective," Stacy volunteered eagerly. "He got here about an hour ago in his car. He's trying to find out where Babs went. He was blinded in the last world war."

"A blind man——" Chell began incredulously.

"He's world famous," said Thad. He spoke with automatic preciseness, as tho he had determined to drop the one subject which had torn at his heart all day. "Maclain's a challenge to any playwright, Chell. Some day you should put him into a show. Humanity has become too dependent on the old phrase, 'Seeing is believing.' The Neanderthals knew what the four other senses could do. Without them man wouldn't have survived until now."

"Quite right, Mr. Tredwill," said Capt. Maclain from the doorway.

If you want fruit cakes to shine, glaze them when they are almost ready to come out of the oven. Do this by brushing them over with a mixture of honey and water, egg white and water, or evaporated milk. If they are dark fruit cakes, use molasses and water.

Plum pudding borne to the Christmas table aflame is a spectacular dessert, especially when the dining room is dark. To burn the pudding, pour brandy all around it and touch a match to it just before it is carried from the kitchen.

You may use a canned plum pudding if you like, for there are several good ones. Or try a recipe such as this.

Old Fashioned Christmas Pound Pudding.

1 pound flour [4 cups, sifted]
1 pound suet, chopped fine
1 pound apples, chopped fine
1 pound potatoes, grated
1 pound carrots, grated
1 pound sugar [2 cups]
1 pound seeded raisins
1 pound currants
1 pound citron or mixed candied fruits, chopped fine
1 teaspoon nutmeg
½ cup sherry wine

Mix and stir ingredients thoroly, place in buttered molds, tie cloth over the top of each, and steam for 4 hours.

This is a large recipe, but the pudding will keep for months, and may be used from time to time as the occasion demands. It should be stored in a closely covered container. Serve it flaming or with hard sauce or brandy sauce.

If you're tired of turkey, serve roast beef for Christmas dinner. Roast beef is traditional, too. It may be dressed up with a border of baked apples filled with cranberries. Very pretty, and very good.

A tasty and Christmas colored hard sauce may be made this way: Cream ⅓ cup butter and 2 cups powdered sugar thoroly, add ¾ teaspoon vanilla and ½ teaspoon lemon extract. Tint with the juice drained from maraschino cherries. Serve on thin slices of fruit cake or plum pudding, and top each portion with a cherry.

For the sake of the collective digestive system of your family and guests, make portions of pie and pudding after Christmas dinner very small. Better yet, save these hearty desserts for the Christmas supper, and lighten the load of the dinner by serving a sherbet, an ice, or a cold spongy pudding.

'Little Nellie Kelly' Simple but Pleasant

Produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.
Directed by Norman Taurog.
THE CAST.
Nellie Kelly and Little Nellie Kelly.....Judy Garland
Jerry Kelly.....George Murphy
Michael Noonan.....Charles Winninger
Dennis Fogarty.....Arthur Shields
Mary Fogarty.....Rita Page
Moriarty.....Forrester Harvey

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

This picturization of the one time George M. Cohan stage success, is as Irish as Paddy's pig. Shure the brogue is a bit synthetic in spots, but whover would be mindin' that when a felly namel Murphy was the spaker?

'Tis a naive contraption of a picture startin' on th' Emerald Isle and ending up in fine style on the Island of Manhattan. . . . And Little Nellie Kelly is the granddaughter of that old blatherskite, Michael Noonan, who believes not in work and spends his life getting out of it.

Against Michael's will his daughter, Nellie, had married Jerry Kelly, a fine, upstanding young man whose ambition it had been to come to America and get a job on the New York police force. So mad was Mike about the marriage that he made a vow never again to speak to young Jerry. . . .

To New York come the three of them. And live together. But never a word to his son-in-law does the old man speak—neither before nor after the death of sweet Nellie, who passes on leaving a crowing baby girl to be the pride and joy of her father's and grandfather's hearts—Nary a word—until—— ?

The rest of the story is concerned with the growing up of Little Nellie Kelly and the time she has keeping the peace and having her way about a romance with Dennis Fogarty, son of an old-time Irish crony of Mike Noonan's.

With a tribulation here, a laugh there, and a sprinkling of tears both here and there, the action proceeds unremarkably but pleasantly on its way. Judy gives her all and sings pleasingly when the script demands. The same may be said for young Douglas McPhail. . . . Charles Winninger scores as a lovable old he devil, and you'll like Mr. Murphy—tho he was never cut out to be the pappy of a great big girl like Judy. Well, he seems to see the joke. . . .

"Beanie" for All Occasions

JEAN MACDONALD.

Every casual costume requires a "beanie," for it is fashion's most popular fad for the moment. "Beanies" are worn with all types of ensembles and even are worn under the huge gay, peasant kerchiefs. Only a few minutes are required to knit or crochet one of these coy caps. Instructions include directions for both a knitted and a crocheted "beanie" done in simple stitches.

For instructions in knitting and crocheting the "beanie," No. 868, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

Juvenile Protective Association Asks Aid

Chicagoans are asked for contributions to help support the Juvenile Protective association, 816 South Halsted street, in a pamphlet telling of the organization's work and history. The association was incorporated in 1909 to "protect children and prevent delinquency and crime." Last year it uncovered and reported to the authorities 3,958 dangerous community conditions, and helped or advised 5,000 children. The association is maintained by private donations. Its annual budget is approximately $30,000. Contributions should be made payable to Charles Yoemans, treasurer, at the Halsted street address.

ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Richard V. Henry of South Leavitt street announce the engagement of their daughter, Jean, to George W. Kemp Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Kemp of Euclid avenue. Both Miss Henry and Mr. Kemp Jr. are graduates of Northwestern university.

Infant Welfare Center Giving Ball This Evening

The ballroom will be decorated to look like a sidewalk café in a South American town and guests will wear Spanish costumes. Proceeds will go to the Russell Square Infant Welfare station, which is sponsored by the South Shore center.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

Shaded opening bids, even in fourth position, are not nearly as dangerous as is generally supposed. It is a mistake to label as conservative a player who consistently passes up weak or shaded opening bids. He usually is just the type to enter the bidding at a higher and, consequently, more dangerous level. The real crux of weak bids lies in their subsequent handling.

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 spade
Pass	2 clubs	Pass	2 hearts
Pass	2 no trump	Pass	Pass
Double	Pass	Pass	Pass

A great many readers will stare at the above bidding, not quite believing their eyes. Yet I have faithfully transcribed it from a far better than average game, a game, in fact, in which the South and West players were recognized experts.

It goes without saying that I do not approve South's bidding. I have no great fault to find with his one spade opening, altho, of course, it was exceedingly weak, but it was nothing less than suicide for him to bid again over two clubs. To have opened the hand originally, on the rather far fetched hope that his partner could make a strong major suit bid and thus arrive at game, was one thing, but to proceed, in the face of very definite warning that there was no future in the hand, was quite another. Granting that South did not like clubs, it was far better for him "to get out from under" at an early stage, and before the opponents started to double, than to experiment further.

As to West's bidding, most players would be unable to restrain themselves from doubling two hearts, but West gauged his opponents correctly and was willing to wager that a two heart bid would be followed by another bid from North. Probably, had he doubled, North would have bid only two spades to show a preference, and the defenders could not have defeated that contract as badly as they did two no trump.

East coöperated very nicely by opening the nine of hearts, and the slaughter was terrific, declarer having to content himself with two tricks in spades and one each in diamonds and clubs.

Thru the LOOKING GLASS

When we stopped in at a beauty salon the other morning to forget our Christmas chores and to find out about a new makeup we had a moment of panic when the man took one look and said "Now, we must rearrange the forehead." We decided he was crazy too!

But he wasn't and isn't. He can "rearrange" foreheads and noses and chins that are not as slim and firm as they once were. Or at least, with the aid of makeup, he can create, for your own eyes and the eyes of beholders, the most wonderful of illusions.

It's all done with greaseless highlights and shadows, the technique of movie makeup translated into a makeup for the street that looks completely natural — and awfully good. He makes something of a monkey of the old rule that bone structure can't be changed; he gives it the illusion of a great change for the better.

The makeup—which is a lesson in artful makeup, really—begins with a merciless inspection of what's wrong and what's right with your face. One eyebrow higher than the other? Droopy mouth corners? A nose that's anything but classic? Well, you must know your faults first—and then, mama can fix! Some shadows, some highlights, applied with a rhyme and reason that aren't at all hard to understand. It's not at all difficult once the artistic principles are understood—and you're well instructed in these, especially as they apply to the face that you know is rather a poor thing, but thine own!

It's fun, this makeup, and very profitable.

NOTRE DAME ENDS SEASON AT U. S. C. TODAY

REDSKINS WILL STICK TO PASSES AGAINST BEARS

Injuries Balk Shift to Running Game.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 6.—First clues to the battle strategy the Washington Redskins will employ against the Chicago Bears in the National Football league championship playoff Sunday filtered out of closely guarded Griffith stadium today when Coach Ray Flaherty announced Bob Hoffman, 200 pound rookie blocking back, would be withheld from the game except in the case of an extreme emergency.

The term "extreme emergency" was interpreted as meaning the former Southern California star would not be asked to risk further injury to his damaged knee unless Max Krause and Ernie Pinckert are forced out during the game. Hoffman thus becomes the second Redskin not counted upon in Flaherty's plans for bringing Washington its second world title and the assignment in the Chicago All-Star game.

Young Suffers Knee Injury.

Bill Young, a former Alabama tackle who is playing his fourth year with the Redskins, was eliminated as a participant in the playoff two weeks ago when he suffered a severe knee injury in the New York Giant game.

Young was up and about today and watched the Redskins take their last strenuous workout for the game. They will engage in light exercise tomorrow morning, then turn the stadium over to the Bears, who will arrive at the Union station at 8:30 o'clock, 30 minutes in advance of the Walquist Special bringing several hundred Chicago rooters to the capital.

May Stick to Passes.

The decision to attempt to get along without Hoffman indicates Flaherty may have decided against trying to run and will depend more than ever upon the passing of Sammy Baugh and Frank Filchock.

Washington is expected to wage a strictly offensive game. Recent scout reports apparently have convinced Flaherty that the Bears had as much to do with their defeat here on Nov. 17 as did the Redskin defense. Suspecting that they might not make the same mistakes twice, Flaherty's efforts all week have been concentrated on playing to their only seeming weakness—pass defense—in an attempt to outscore them.

See Little Change in Lineup.

Altho Flaherty continues to be secretive about his starting lineup, it is not likely that he will deviate much from the alignment that has opened a majority of the Redskin's games this fall. This eleven has Wayne Millner and Charlie Malone at the ends. Millner is playing his fifth season with the Redskins. He holds three playoff records, all established in 1937, the last time the Bears and Redskins qualified for the championship game. Malone, a 6 foot 4 inch veteran of four years experience with Washington and four with New York, played college ball at Texas A. and M.

Bob Masterson, a place kicking specialist from Miami university in Florida, relieves Millner. Bob McChesney, a four letter man at U. C. L. A., is Malone's first line relief.

Barber, Wilkin at Tackles.

The starting tackles will be Jim Barber and Wee Willie Wilkin. Barber plays right tackle. He came to the Redskins from San Francisco university six years ago. He stands 6 feet 3 and weighs 230 pounds. Wilkin, an itinerant gold miner, is one of the biggest men in the league. He weighs 265 pounds and is exceptionally fast despite his 6 feet 4 inches.

With Young out, Vic Carroll, a former University of Nevada tackle, who has been shifted to center, will swing back to tackle to relieve Wilkin and Bo Russell, an Auburn product, will back up Barber.

Dick Farman of Washington State and Steve Slivinski from the University of Washington, two second year men with the Redskins, man the guards. Each weighs 220 pounds. Slivinski is a Chicago boy, who starred at Tilden Tech, and in 1933 was heavyweight wrestling champion of the Central A. A. U. He lives in Seattle now. Clem Stralka of Georgetown, relieves Farman and Clyde Shugart of Iowa State, like Farman a native of Iowa, takes Slivinski's place.

Here's the Back Field.

Bob Titchenal, a rookie from San Jose State, is the center in this starting lineup. He weighs 197 pounds and is 6 feet 1 inch in height.

The starting back field is composed of Krause at quarter back, Baugh at left half, Jimmy Johnston at full back, and Ed Justice at right half. Krause and Justice are from Gonzaga, Flaherty's alma mater. Krause has been in the league seven years, breaking in with the Giants, and Justice five, all with the Redskins. Johnston is from the University of Washington, where he played half back. He was elected to The Tribune's All-Star squad last year. He weighs 195 pounds, stands 6 feet 2 inches, and operates a butcher shop in Caldwell, Idaho.

DYKES LOOKS TO ST. LOUIS FOR A NEW OUTFIELDER

Sox Manager Expects to Part with Catcher.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

James J. Dykes, the White Sox manager, returned yesterday from his baseball shopping tour to Atlanta, Ga., and, unlike his usual self, wasn't in very good humor.

The south side baseball boss was upset by two developments. One was that he had attended a baseball bazaar and had come away empty handed, a grievous happening for a man who is noted for his skill as a trader. The other was that his former associate on the Athletics, Eddie Collins, now business manager of the Boston Red Sox, had tried to force the Mike Kreevich for Roger Cramer swap down his throat.

Dykes, restraining his conversational talents, explained that so far as he was concerned the Kreevich for Cramer item was all in fun, but the way he bit off those few words indicated that he doesn't feel very friendly toward Collins anymore.

He'll Get Another Chance.

However, Dykes was slightly cheered by one thought. He'll be able to talk with American league owners and managers again during the major meetings in the Palmer House next week. Just what kind of talk he is fixing to make isn't known, but it is reported that he is aiming to make it so convincing he'll be able to recapture his trading laurels within the next three or four days. He plans to unload his conversation in several directions, possibly toward the St. Louis Browns and Washington Senators.

The Browns not only want but are in dire need of a catcher, which is just where Dykes fits into the St. Louis problem. Dykes has Mike Tresh, Tom Turner, Ken Silvestri and Newcomer George Dickey, purchased from Oklahoma City. The Browns have spare outfielders in Myril Hoag and Joe Grace and that's where the Browns fit into Dykes' plans. So, if the Browns are unable to land either Rick Ferrell of the Senators or Joe Pytlak of the Indians, they might be interested in taking Silvestri for one of the fly chasers.

Jimmy Wants a Southpaw.

If Dykes works on President Clark Griffith and Manager Bucky Harris of the Senators next week, the talk undoubtedly will involve Pitcher Joe Krakauskas, a lefty. Krakauskas was in 32 games last season, mostly as relief, but won only one decision while suffering six trimmings. On that record, the Washington bosses should welcome any kind of an offer and Dykes should be afraid to make one. But Dykes doesn't believe in records made by fellows prior to the time they come into his hands. He might tempt Washington with Jack Knott.

Who Said the Season Was Over?

It seems Western conference coaches still are playing the thrillers of the football season just closed. The candid camera caught this group in a huddle at the annual meeting of the conference now in session in Chicago. Left to right: Lynn Waldorf, Northwestern; Bernie Bierman, Minnesota; Fritz Crisler, Michigan, and Bo McMillin, Indiana.

Trade Winds Shift Toward Chicago's Loop

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 6.—The last of baseball's big shots were rolling toward Chicago tonight after the close of the annual meeting of the minor leagues today. Tomorrow they will start warming up for next week's major league convention in the Palmer House. The major leaguers didn't do very much here this week in the matter of stealing the minor leagues' winter show and therefore there is likely to be something done in Chicago which will justify travel expenses.

The American and National league meetings will be held under one roof next week, a departure from the custom of scattering the sessions all over the loop and vicinity. While the massing of the baseball folk may cause a greater strain on the air conditioning apparatus at the general headquarters, it also is expected to have the desirable effect of cutting down the wasteful practice of playing hide and seek. A manager who thinks up a trade next week easily can run to earth his fellow manager and intended victim under the one roof plan.

Hold Luncheon Tuesday.

The convention will get under way in its formal aspects Tuesday, but aside from the cloistered meetings of nabobs the show will be in full blast Sunday night or early Monday morning at the latest. First entertainment stunt of the convention will be a joint luncheon for American and National league managers and baseball writers, Tuesday noon. This is a party put on by both majors but Henry H. Edwards and Bill Brandt, the league press agents, are in charge, tho they don't ask a line of publicity for their bill of fare.

Some of the prestige teams of the two majors aren't prepared to enter the 1941 campaign, and for this reason are expected to do more trading than was accomplished in the convention here. The only deals of any pennant significance so far were transactions which sent Pitcher Bob Bowman from the Cardinals to the Giants; Catcher Mickey Owen from the Cardinals to the Dodgers and the one that gave the Cubs the deed to Shortstop Billy Myers and sent Outfielder Jim Gleeson and Shortstop Bobby Mattick to the champion Reds. This last wasn't as hot a dicker as it appeared at first blush. There is no rule of man or nature that makes it impossible for a shortstop to be able to hit baseballs when his team is on the offensive. Many believe the Cubs should not settle down in the smug belief their shortstopping problems have been solved.

Withdraw Draft Action.

A development today was the withdrawal by the minor leagues of their action of yesterday calling for the placing on the voluntary retired list of a player drafted into the army. A committee was named to confer on the matter with the major leagues and Commissioner K. M. Landis in Chicago.

It had been decided that some provision should be made for refund of purchase price when a player was called into service, but in order to obtain a uniform rule, final action was left to the committee to take after conferring with the majors.

As Minors Closed

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Major League.

Harold [Hy] Vandenberg, pitcher, was sent by the Giants to Rochester of the International league.

John Dickshot, outfielder, and Pitcher Roy Joiner were sent by the Giants from their Jersey City farm to Hollywood of the Pacific Coast league for an option on Joe Hoover, a shortstop, who will remain with Hollywood during 1941.

Minor League.

Second Baseman Frank Metha of Buffalo of the International league was purchased by Knoxville of the Southern association.

But the Big Question Is: Where's Mr. Schmidt?

BY EDWARD PRELL.

Two topics were getting a workout up and down the halls of the Sherman hotel yesterday as the Western conference's annual winter meetings started.

The first: What decision will the faculty committee render on the athletic directors' proposal to allow the conference championship football team to play each New Year's day in the Rose Bowl?

This latter question generated far more comment than that of the conference participating in the Pasadena show. It was generally conceded that the professors who have the last word in the conduct of athletics in the conference will render a negative verdict.

Announce Decision Today.

The athletic directors and the faculty committee had dinner at the University club and found each other's company so delightful the session lasted until 9 o'clock. Not a word was mentioned about what perhaps was uppermost in the directors' minds—the Rose bowl. Conference athletics in general was discussed.

Prof. Carl Leib of Iowa, who will be the new chairman of the conference faculty committee, said the group will meet at 10 o'clock this morning. It is then that the vote will be taken on participation in the Rose bowl.

It was unofficially reported that Minnesota, the 1940 football champion; Purdue, Wisconsin, Northwestern, and Illinois are opposed to the Rose Bowl tieup. It is believed that the proposal is looked upon with favor by Michigan, Ohio State, Indiana, and Iowa. Chicago, which has divorced itself from intercollegiate football, probably will not vote, and if it did, no mental giant is needed to figure out what its action would be.

He's Far, Far Away?

Coach Schmidt was not registered at convention headquarters. L. W. St. John, the athletic director at Ohio State, had no comment to make. The Buckeyes' football coach, some one said, was at the moment in Los Angeles, where this afternoon he will have a seat on the 50 yard line at the Notre Dame-Southern California game.

When Schmidt is around his presence is easily detected. You look for a big man with a pleasant face, a slightly bewildered air and a bow tie. There was no such gentleman answering to that description in the hotels yesterday.

Because of the poor season the Buckeyes experienced and which was climaxed by a 40 to 0 rout by Michigan on the final day, there have been reports Schmidt has run out his string at Ohio State. The fact that he is not attending this important conference session lends credence to that talk.

From Columbus it was reported Schmidt's fate will be decided Monday night when the Ohio State athletic board of control meets.

Arrange Four Meets.

Coaches of other sports had no time for rumors yesterday. They held long sessions to draw up schedules in track, swimming, tennis, and other winter and spring sports.

Dates and places for six championship meets were approved. The indoor track meet, long held at Chicago, will be at Purdue on March 7 and 8, and the outdoor championships at Minnesota on March 7 and 8. Michigan will be the defending champion in each. The Wolverines also will defend their swimming title at Iowa on March 7 and 8. The conference tennis meet will be at Chicago on May 29, 30, and 31, when Northwestern will defend its laurels. The golf meet went to the University of Chicago, to be held on the Mill Road Farm course May 26 and 27, and

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 6.—Paul Berlenbach receives $56 a week as a laborer in Chicago's subway. . . . He earned more than that per minute in some of his bouts as light heavyweight champion of the world. . . . Consider the dilemma of two San Francisco golfers—Bill Higgins and Johnny Volpatti. . . . Volpatti was three under par during a tournament match when a messenger arrived with word that he [Volpatti] had just become a father. . . . After some hesitation Johnny forfeited the match. . . . City Champion Higgins, outguessing the stork under similar circumstances, asked and received a postponement of his match. . . . Red Friesell, who probably will have to reconcile himself to the nickname "Fifth Down" for the rest of his officiating career, is the same gentleman who ruled that Pete Fay of Stanford had swung a foot over the sideline in a touchdown run against Columbia in 1937. Fay's 60 yard dash was nullified by the edict. . . . And We Shall Meet.

Because you came to me when I was lonely
And shared the sorrow I had borne alone;
Because within your arms I found the only
Real refuge that my heart has ever known;
Because you heard my plea nor seemed to doubt me
When all the world was selfish and untrue;
Because you told me life was void without me,
I've kept my heart a living shrine for you.

I've waited every hour for your returning,
Nor murmured that the day has been so drear,
And oh, I've kept love's crimson candle burning
That you might see its flame as you drew near;
But now the night is nigh and I am leaving.
And if you come for me when I am gone
Oh, do not give your heart to senseless grieving,
For we shall meet somewhere beyond the dawn.

Yes, we shall meet again when night is ended,
When all the bitter loneliness is past,
When all the broken hearts are soothed and mended
I shall be folded in your arms at last;
There will be no more languishing and fretting,
No memories of vanished sobs and tears,
And we shall cease complaining and forgetting
As arm in arm we travel down the years.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 6.—Football's oldest intersectional rivalry involving a Pacific Coast team will go into its 15th chapter when Notre Dame and Southern California close their seasons tomorrow in the Coliseum.

That the series is also one of the most glamorous in gridiron history is attested not only by an average attendance of 70,000 for the 14 previous meetings, but by tomorrow's probable gathering of from 75,00 to 80,000.

This large dent in the Coliseum's capacity of 104,000 will materialize even tho the two contesting schools have never before fallen simultaneously so low in the national rankings as in 1940.

U. S. C. Develops Slowly.

A flu epidemic which has invaded this natural stronghold of the vitamin has confined many who planned to attend, it has frightened others out of attending, and it temporarily struck down 13 U. S. C. players—but still the crowd will be there in numbers that would set records almost anywhere else in the nation.

Traditionally slow to develop, Southern California lost to undefeated Stanford in the closing minutes, to California and to a Washington team that many still consider to be the best on the coast. The Howard Jones machine adjusted its timing and developed its power to characteristic late season perfection in trouncing a bigger U. C. L. A. club, 28 to 12, last Saturday. U. S. C. piled up more than 400 yards, all from rushing, and gave Irish scouts the shudders with its pile-driving tactics.

When the Trojans were floundering early, Notre Dame was waltzing to easy success over Pacific, Georgia Tech, Carnegie Tech, and Illinois. Odds on the Irish went as low as 1 to 5. Close calls against Army and Navy, keynoted a slump which became serious when Iowa and Northwestern blanked Notre Dame, sending the quotations to five to six, take your choice.

Flu Hits Trojans.

Invasion of the flu bug [from Hawaii, according to the local Chamber of Commerce] caused further revision, this time in favor of the Irish, until today's quotation made Notre Dame the favorite by 3 to 5.

The 14 men of Troy who were bedridden Tuesday, were all up and about today, ready for battle tomorrow. The lone exception was Bill Bundy, starting left half back, who was stricken yesterday.

Notre Dame followers, who arrived today to the number of 600 odd, found little consolation in the Trojan fever charts, recalling that in 1932 most of the Notre Dame squad was stricken by the same germ and trounced a good Army team, 21 to 0, the following Saturday. Irish fans were also concerned over the possible enervating effects of the heat which has broken all December records for the locale. It went as high as 86 early in the week.

Depend on Saggau.

Notre Dame's hopes ride on the strong and accurate arm of Bob Saggau, senior left half back, since the Trojans appear to be weak against passes, and on the running ability of Saggau, Capt. Milt Piepul, and Steve Juzwik around Trojan ends who have been below par this season.

In order for Quarter Back Bob Hargrave to develop any sort of a plan, however, the Irish will have to control the ball more than they did against Army, Navy, Iowa, and Northwestern.

Against U. C. L. A., the Trojans looked like a real marching team, altho the local aerial raids have aroused the scorn of the natives. Bobby Robertson, quarter back, is Troy's main running threat. This seemingly tireless young hero ground out nearly half of the 400 yards Southern California made against U. C. L. A. Aiding him in the ball carrying department are Bob Peoples, a rock crusher full back, and Jack Banta, who is dangerous on reverses.

Marty Brill, the Loyola coach and himself one of the greatest blockers of all time, rates Bundy of the Santa Monica tennis family the man most responsible for Southern California success, however, and all Bundy does is block.

HORSES STEP OUT IN CLOSING TITLE EVENTS TODAY

Ardella King Takes Junior Five Gaited Stake.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The International horse show will come to a close tonight following a brilliant succession of championship events during afternoon and evening programs. Title competition in classes for three and five gaited saddle horses, hunters, roadsters, heavy harness horses and harness ponies will mark the evening schedule in the International amphitheater.

In the afternoon the fine harness horses will determine their champion. The matinée also will be featured by a horsemanship event sponsored by the Town and Country Equestrian association.

Ardella King Wins Stake.

The main event on last night's program was the junior five gaited saddle stake for stallions, mares and geldings 4 years and under. The winner was a sprightly bay mare named Ardella King, owned by Mrs. John Gottfried of Pocahontas, Ill. After particularly critical work by the judges, she was awarded the blue ribbon over Grasslands' Belle, from the Grasslands farm near Danville, Ky. Miss Defiance, property of Joe Werthan of Franklin, Tenn., was third.

Master Johnnie, owned by Mrs. A. C. Thompson, will defend the championship he won last year against a strong field of rivals in the $1,000 hunter stake this evening. He has shown that he is in top form by taking blue ribbons in two events earlier in the week. Other winners during the present show which will seek the hunter title tonight are W. J. Thurston's Laddie, Mrs. G. P. Sherman's Cuchulain, Stanley Luke's Ilderton and J. D. Silberman's Bourbon Lad.

Expect Spirited Competition.

The competition in the $2,500 five gaited saddle championship stake tonight is expected to be particularly spirited. Empress Delaine, which won the five gaited stake for mares last Wednesday night for the second consecutive year, was runner up to Midnight Star last season in the grand championship event. Her owners hope she may do even better this time.

Hurricane, which succeeded to Midnight Star's title in the gelding division last Tuesday night, has an excellent chance to duplicate the feat of his predecessor in his quest for the grand championship tonight. High Tide, Marrelbar Chief, and My Enchantress are some of the other strong contenders.

The chore of setting up schedules in other sports will continue today when the fencing, baseball, wrestling, and gymnastic coaches go into a huddle. At noon the faculty representatives, alumni representatives, and athletic directors will lunch in the University club. It is following this gathering that the Rose bowl decision probably will be announced, and any others that the faculty committee might have considered.

Fielding H. Yost, who will retire as athletic director at Michigan next spring, was presented a brown traveling bag by his colleagues. It was presented in absentia, illness having kept Yost from the meeting.

The Central Collegiate conference, at its meeting yesterday, awarded its indoor track meet to Notre Dame March 7 and 8 and its outdoor meet to Marquette the night of June 6.

Danne Bowlers Win 3; Tie for Beverly League Lead

The William C. Danne insurance bowling team marked up a 3,142 score last night to win three games from the Wesley Smith Candies and tie the Walter C. Other high totals: Joe Gacew, 671; Dick Winsberg, 668; Frank Brown, 666.

124TH POLOISTS TO MEET DETROIT IN GRUDGE MATCH

Woodland Club Battles Healy Farm for Title.

The 124th Field Artillery will meet the Detroit Polo club and the Woodland Polo club will face the Healy farm trio tonight in what is planned as the only program for at least a year in the 124th Field Artillery armory at 5200 Cottage Grove avenue.

The Woodland-Healy game, a playoff event, will open the program, and will be followed by a military show, then by the inter-city high goal game.

Captained by Volney Bayley, Detroit will rely also upon Dan Peacock and A. J. [Mac] Stefani to win its grudge match with the artillerymen. The visitors will have the advantage of a two-point handicap award.

Lieut. W. D. Fergus and his 124th team mates, Capt. Romeo E. Mura and Lieut. Don J. Rice, on the other hand, expect to continue the victory record which includes Metropolitan league, western, national, and international titles as well as triumphs over Yale university and various all-star combinations.

The Healy Farm-Woodland duel will be for the title of the Metropolitan league whose season they ended last spring deadlocked for first place.

ELMHURST AND CARTHAGE ASK TO QUIT LITTLE 19

Two schools asked permission to withdraw from the Illinois Intercollegiate conference yesterday as the organization held its annual winter meeting. Elmhurst and Carthage asked to leave the circuit in formal letters to the conference representatives, but their requests will not be acted on until the spring meeting of the organization next May 24.

No reasons were given for the withdrawal requests, made by the administrative and faculty departments of the schools. Elmhurst reportedly favors approval of the rule permitting freshmen to compete on varsity teams, however, and other members of the conference are opposed. Both Elmhurst and Carthage, with comparatively small enrollments, have had difficulty in maintaining parity with other conference members in athletic competition.

Dr. Richard L. Beyer of Carbondale Teachers was elected president, succeeding Prof. G. L. Lathrop of Eureka. Paul Harrison of De Kalb was named vice president, with Howard J. Hancock of Illinois Normal secretary, and C. P. Lantz of Charleston as treasurer.

WILDCATS PICK MOST VALUABLE PLAYER TONIGHT

Nominations for the Chicago Tribune's silver trophy which is to go to the outstanding football player of the Western conference will be completed tonight concurrently with the Northwestern club of Chicago's harvest home dinner, the annual football gathering, in the grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel.

Northwestern's varsity and freshman elevens will be guests at the dinner. The varsity will designate the Wildcats' most valuable player. The other eight football playing schools in the conference have made their selections. The winner of the trophy will be chosen by a committee of nine.

An overflow crowd at the dinner is assured. Reservations already total 1,600, largest in the history of the event. Alvin [Bo] McMillin, Indiana university football coach, will be one of the speakers.

A. A. U. MOVES TO RETURN TRACK TO YARDAGE BASIS

Denver, Colo., Dec. 6 (AP).—The national A. A. U. track committee recommended today that the outdoor track meet be restored to yardage basis.

The meet has been run under the metric system since 1930. The committee's recommendation came unanimously on a motion by Pincus Sober of New York, former quarter-miler at City College of New York.

Boston was recommended by the national boxing committee as the site for the 1941 tournament for the third straight year. The committee also approved a proposal that the United States be divided into seven districts in choosing entrants for the national meet, instead of each of the 41 associations sending champions as at present. Hawaii is the 8th district. The regional plan will go into operation in 1942.

Usually No Opposition.

The junior boxing tournament for next year was awarded to Philadelphia, either just prior to or following the senior meet.

The general convention tomorrow and Sunday must ratify committee recommendations, but usually there is no opposition.

However, the track committee's decision in the yards vs. meters question must be approved by the legislation committee before reaching the convention floor.

Denver was awarded the national basketball tournament for March 16-22 for the seventh straight year.

Won't Lose Eligibility.

Daniel J. Ferris, A. A. U. secretary, said tonight that 12 ex-college basketball players who performed against a Negro professional team last week in Chicago would not lose their amateur status "provided all receipts of the game went to charity or for the furtherance of amateur sports."

30 Years of Chicago Basketball

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The earliest records of university basketball in these parts is the following excerpt from the University of Chicago weekly of Dec. 13, 1894, set down by that most faithful of all Maroon amanuenses, Mrs. A. A. Stagg:

"The basketball contests having been revived, the students can look forward to interesting entertainment on Saturday afternoons during the dull winter months. The new rules have modified the game considerably, and play will be sharper and more interesting to watch."

A later note, on Feb. 7, 1895, allows that "the basketball team ran against a snag at Hull House last Saturday night, being unable to better than tie the west side team, 8 to 8."

Maroons Carry Off First Title in Conference Competition.

Since those brave beginnings, collegiate basketball has been a regular phase of Chicago's winter athletic program, notably at Chicago, Northwestern, Loyola, and De Paul. On Nov. 9, 1906, the Western Intercollegiate Basketball association was formed in the Victoria hotel. Dr. Joseph E. Raycroft of Chicago was elected president and C. D. Angell, coach of Wisconsin, was named secretary. "Holding around the waist," was recorded as a foul at this meeting. In what is thought to be the first intercollegiate game ever played at the University of Chicago, the Maroons defeated Beloit, 46 to 16, on Jan. 28, 1905. This, of course, preceded the foundation of the Big Ten in competitive basketball.

First of the great Maroon teams was that of 1908, which won the conference title with a record of 16 victories and one defeat. Dr. Raycroft's team, including John Schommer, Pat Page, Bill Georgen, Fred Falls, Bob Harris, and Art Hoffman, lost only one game, to Wisconsin, in Madison. They later avenged this defeat, and the end of the season found the Maroons and Badgers tied. A third game, in Madison, was agreed upon, to settle the deadlock, and Chicago won that, 18 to 16. The Maroons were invited to play a great Pennsylvania team for the national championship. They won that by whipping the Quakers on the Midway, 21 to 18, on March 21 and again in Philadelphia on March 25, 16 to 15.

The 1913 team, composed of Nelson Norgren, present Maroon coach; Shorty Des Jardien, C. O. Molander, Norman Paine, Josh Stevenson, and John Vruwink was another standout quintet. The 1920 team was one of the greatest of the modern era.

The earliest records of Northwestern basketball show the team coached by Prof. O. F. Gillesby, who originated the game on a class basis, setting out with a squad which won one of its six games that season. This first Purple troupe included Capt. George Swift, Hubert Heron, Allen Rader, Harrison McJohnson, Frank Collyer, the Rev. John G. Law, Clifford Gustine, Walter Tucker, and Earl Bronson.

Wildcats of 1915-'16 Tie Illini for Second Place.

The first Northwestern team to achieve prominence was that of 1915-'16, coached by Fred J. Murphy. It won nine and lost three to tie Illinois for second place. In the lineup were Paddy Driscoll, Glenn Whittle, Bert Kincaid, Marshall Underhill, Pat Patterson, and Harvey Ellis. With the coming of Arthur [Dutch] Lonborg in 1927, Purple basketball fortunes took a new turn, and the team won the 1930-'31 Big 10 title.

Loyola and De Paul, within recent years, have projected themselves into the national scene with consistent winners. The Ramblers stepped up in 1928-'29 with a record of 16 straight victories. In 1930-'31, they started a string of 33 in a row which didn't end until they lost in overtime to a great Purdue squad. Out of this performance came such Loyola greats and Charles [Feed] Murphy, Tony Lawless, Mike Waesco, Jim Bremner, John Smith, Fred Sextro, John Durburg, Dick Butzen, Bob Schumann, Tommy and Dick Flynn. Two years ago, the team of Wibs Kautz, Mike Novak, Bill O'Brien, George Hogan, and George Wenskus ran up 20 straight victories and went to the final of the national intercollegiate tournament in New York.

In 1909, De Paul, coached by Frank Haggerty, made itself known to local and middlewestern fans by defeating the Illinois Athletic club of that year. This first Blue Demon team included such names as Wilhoit, Wathier, Fox, Kennedy, Sweeney, and Burson. The Blue Demons in later years produced such stars at Eddie Pond, Nick Kearns, and in more recent seasons, Barney Varnes, Stix Powers, Ray Adams, Bob Neu, Nick Yost, Bill Wendt, Ed Campion, Willie Phillips, Ed Norris, Stan Szukala, Elmer Gainer, and Lou Possner.

FPC PREDICTS SCARCE POWER IN SPOTS BY '42

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 6.—As a followup of President Roosevelt's appeal yesterday for action on the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway and power project, the Federal Power commission tonight released a report to the President predicting power shortages by 1942 in scattered areas, including northern Illinois.

Leland Olds.

In this first of a series of monthly reports, the commission, thru a letter from Leland Olds, chairman, informed Mr. Roosevelt that the demands for electric power, including those required for national defense loads, can be met during 1941 in most cases by existing facilities, altho "hotspots" and "bottlenecks" in certain areas may develop.

"In most areas the full effect of the national defense loads will probably not be felt until the year 1942, when the aggregate deficiencies in available generating capacity in certain areas will probably exceed 1,500,000 kilowatts," Olds wrote.

Lists "Shortage Areas."

The commission's study asserted that these are the areas where the greatest need is likely to develop: Upper New York state; the Philadelphia region, including western Pennsylvania; the Chicago and northern Illinois and northern Indiana districts; St. Paul and eastern Minnesota; southeastern states, including the Tennessee valley area, North and South Carolina, Alabama, and Georgia; Arkansas, northern Louisiana, and western Mississippi; Idaho and Utah; and San Francisco and the northern California and southern Oregon region.

Mr. Roosevelt, in a message read yesterday by Adolph A. Berle Jr., assistant secretary of state, at the Great Lakes seaway and power conference at Detroit, said that he would ask congress at the next session to approve action on the controversial seaway and power development with Canada. The project has had rough treatment in congress and a treaty for this purpose was defeated in 1934.

Linked with River Projects.

Olds, one of the prime movers for the development, said that several of the areas in which additional capacity is required are associated with river basin projects, "including upper New York state, which will be supplied by the proposed St. Lawrence development," and the Tennessee valley area in which additional TVA capacity has recently been authorized.

There are certain areas, Olds reported, where "generating capacity installed and on order may be sufficient to meet the expected loads" but the situation may become critical due to limitations of existing local transmission and generating facilities. These areas include, he said: "New England, Ohio, Indiana, and West Virginia, Norfolk and the eastern Virginia region, and Florida, central and northern Texas."

"In some parts of the country," Olds wrote, "even tho additional generating capacity is on order and public and federal projects are under construction, installation in many cases will not be completed in time to serve the 1942 loads and other measures will have to be adopted."

EDISON VIEW ON SHORTAGE

Referring to the Federal Power commission's prediction of electrical power shortage by 1942, officials of Commonwealth Edison company last night said that the company's surveys "indicate that there will be no power shortage in the period apparently indicated in the commission's report" in Chicago and northern Illinois.

They reported that the company had kept a close watch on additional power demands and requirements arising out of the defense program. The company is in the midst of a $100,000,000 expansion program for the years 1940-'41-'42, the objective of which is to maintain at all times a minimum reserve in generating capacity of 20 per cent to enable the system to meet all emergencies and take care of the increasing load.

With the recent addition of a new generating unit at Powerton, Ill., the Edison system total generating capacity was raised to 1,926,000 kilowatts, compared with the maximum load of 1,494,000 kilowatts in the 1939-'40 winter season.

ESTIMATE EXPENDITURES.

New York, Dec. 6 (AP).—Public utility circles estimated today the electric power and light industry's spending for new construction in 1941 would top that of any year since 1930.

On the basis of preliminary calculations it was indicated the industry would enter the new year with a construction budget of about $700,000,000.

PHILIP R. O'BRIEN.

Philip R. O'Brien, grain trader, yesterday was selected by the nominating committee as the candidate for president of the Chicago Board of Trade for 1941. The election will be held on Jan. 13. O'Brien, an independent wheat pit broker, has served as director of the exchange for several years and is chairman of the real estate committee.

The committee chose as candidates for vice presidents G. Willard Hales of Hales & Hunter company, feed manufacturers, and Harvey S. Austrian, president of Rosenbaum Brothers, grain dealers.

Candidates selected to run for the directors' posts are Robert H. Gardner, one year; Dowell Durbin, two years, and T. Clifford Rodman, Robert Burrows, Le Roy D. Godfrey, Colin S. Gordon, and Earle M. Combs Jr., three years.

FORECLOSURES IN NOVEMBER AT 10 YEAR LOW

Foreclosure suits filed in Cook county during November were smallest both in number and amount for any month since 1929, Kenneth E. Rice, vice president of the Chicago Title and Trust company, said yesterday.

"November foreclosures totaled only $900,000," he said. "This is the first time in ten years that the monthly total has dropped below $1,000,000. This $900,000 total compares with the peak figure of $64,350,000 filed in December, 1931."

Cook county has shown more improvement than the aggregate of all other metropolitan communities, Rice said. "Taking the number of foreclosures filed in 1926 as a basis of 100, the number of suits filed in October, 1934, in Cook county, was 1,025 per cent as compared with 389 per cent in all other metropolitan communities. On the same basis, November of this year was 104 per cent, compared with 106 per cent in other big cities."

NUMEROUS BIG ARMY AND NAVY ORDERS PLACED

More Plants Reveal Expansion Plans.

Industry yesterday received numerous new government orders and contract which added to the already large accumulations of work to be done under the national defense program.

While the orders were being announced, several companies took steps to expand facilities, and additional automobile manufacturers reported rising, and in some instances record, sales.

Utility plant construction at Venice, Ill., to cost $7,500,000 was one of the expansion programs announced. This big project in the St. Louis area was disclosed by Union Electric company of Missouri, which said it would double the size of a new power plant under construction at Venice.

Sets 9 Million Contract.

Among the large national defense contracts awarded by the war department was one amounting to $9,035,000 for construction of warehouse, factory, and other buildings, and utilities at the Philadelphia quartermaster depot. The contract went to Wark & Co. of Philadelphia.

More than 7,000,000 yards of khaki cotton cloth costing $2,871,133 were ordered by the war department.

Republic Steel corporation reported it would increase its cold strip steel plant capacity at Warren, O., by 50,000 tons annually.

Increased or record sales were reported by the Chevrolet and Oldsmobile divisions of General Motors corporation for November.

Pick Sites of 2 'Mass Output' Plane Plants

Washington, D. C., Dec. 6 (AP).—A plan to gear the motor car industry to future mass production of bombing planes advanced a step today with the approval of sites for assembly plants at Kansas City, Mo., and Omaha, Neb.

The plants will be operated by aircraft companies which will use parts largely fabricated in automobile factories. The two are to have combined capacity to turn out some 2,400 two motor bombers a year.

Two additional plants also are contemplated elsewhere west of the Mississippi to produce four motor bombers at the rate of 1,200 annually.

Expect Start in 15 Months.

Under revised plans of the war department and defense commission, these will supplement the output of present aircraft plants, which are being expanded.

However, probably 15 months will be required, according to official estimates, to start mass production.

At the same time it was reported that an original plan submitted to automobile manufacturers to produce parts for 12,000 bombers has been scaled down because of limitations which some officials consider insurmountable at this time.

Under the revised program, more than three years would be required to produce 12,000 bombers.

Plants to Employ 20,000.

One limitation of the plan was disclosed by technical estimates that not more than 40 per cent of parts could be fabricated in motor car factories.

The Kansas City assembly plant is to be operated by North American Aviation corporation of California, and the Omaha plant by the Glenn L. Martin company of Baltimore. Construction and other details are still under negotiation.

The Kansas City and Omaha plants are expected to cost from $7,500,000 to $10,000,000 each and to employ 10,000 or 12,000 persons each.

PLAN OPEN-AIR DRIVE-IN MOVIE IN MORTON GROVE

The leasing of a 30 acre tract in Morton Grove yesterday by the Illinois Drive-In Theaters company, Inc., started work toward the third open air moving picture theater for the Chicago area. The site is on the west side of Waukegan road, a quarter of a mile north of Beckwith road.

A preliminary payment of $3,000 was made on the $18,750 rent total for the 10 year term. The lessee has an option to buy prior to Nov. 1, 1945, for $30,000. After that date the price will be $40,000, according to the lease filed for record yesterday. The land was leased from John B. Miller and others.

NOVEMBER STEEL PRODUCTION IS SECOND LARGEST

New York, Dec. 6 (AP).—Steel ingot production in November totaled 6,282,824 net tons, the second largest monthly output in history, the American Iron and Steel institute reported today.

The outturn was equivalent to 96.49 per cent of the steel industry's capacity. That production fell a little short of October's record of 6,461,898 tons was accounted for in part, said the institute, by the fact November was a shorter work month, but the average rate of operations in November topped the preceding month's 96.10 per cent of capacity.

PREDICTS 25% SLASH IN AUTO PRODUCTION AS REARMING RESULT

New automobile production will be reduced 25 per cent next year because of priority to be given in using the productive capacity of the industry for aircraft and armament production, Frederick C. Crawford, manufacturer of automotive parts, predicted yesterday.

F. C. Crawford.

Crawford, president of Thompson Products, Inc., Cleveland, O., a director of the National Industrial Conference Board and a member of the special committee on employment of the United States Chamber of Commerce, spoke before approximately 500 members of the National Standard Parts association, meeting in the Hotel Sherman.

He said in order for the nation to turn out 3,000 planes a month next year, it will be necessary for the automobile industry to curtail production. But, he said, "the American people will not give up their automobiles."

Crawford said that owners would keep their old cars and patch them up with new parts.

CURTISS PLANE WORKERS GIVEN 7 PCT. PAY BOOST

For keeping the Curtiss Aeroplane division of Curtiss-Wright corporation ahead of schedule on airplane orders, its approximately 9,000 employés will receive a 7 per cent increase in pay, the company announced yesterday.

Both salaried and hourly wage workers in the Buffalo warplane plant of the company will benefit. The increase, which is effective Dec. 16, will raise the annual pay roll of $16,000,000 by approximately $1,200,000, the company said.

"The increase is in recognition of the work the men have done in keeping us ahead of schedule on British and United States airplane orders," a company statement accompanying the announcement said.

With its entire production going to Britain at present, the plant is turning out eight planes daily.

AMER. NATIONAL BANK TO EXPAND ITS FACILITIES

The American National Bank and Trust company yesterday completed arrangements to take over an additional floor in the building at 33 North La Salle street in which it has had quarters since 1932.

When the bank moved into the building in December, 1933, its total resources amounted to approximately $15,000,000. By the end of last year they had reached $73,800,000 and have since passed $80,000,000.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 6 (AP).—Secretary Henry Morgenthau advised senate financial leaders that the treasury would hold its forthcoming issue of defense notes to $500,000,000 in order to give congress a chance to study government debt policy before additional obligations were incurred.

Proceeds from the new paper, which will mature in five years, will allow the Treasury to meet defense expenditures until Feb. 1, 1941, Mr. Morgenthau reported. He said the operation will be launched under authority granted in the first revenue bill of 1940 which raised the national debt limit from $45,000,000,000 to $49,000,000,000.

How Insurance Assets Are Invested

LIFE INSURANCE ASSETS TOP 30 BILLION DOLLARS

New York, Dec. 6 (AP). — Walter Lemar Talbot, president of Fidelity Mutual Life Insurance company, reported today the admitted assets of United States life insurance companies total $30,775,000,000.

"In terms of human values," he said at the annual convention of the Association of Life Insurance Presidents, "this vast sum stands out as probably the greatest single hope of the American people. In all the world there is nothing to match it."

United States government bonds, 19.8; Canadian government bonds, 2; state, county, and municipal bonds, 6.3; public utility securities, 14.4; railroad securities, 10.7; industrial securities, 6; mortgage loans, 18.9; policy loans, 9.8; real estate, 6.7; cash on hand, 3.2; miscellaneous, 2.2.

Talbot pointed out that portfolios of federal bonds had increased from the relatively insignificant total of 1.8 per cent in 1930. Mortgage loans have been cut from 40.5 per cent.

In the last decade, he said, the companies' investment earnings have dropped from 5.03 per cent to 3.54 per cent.

ACCOUNTING FIRM REPLIES TO SEC'S AUDIT CRITICISM

New York, Dec. 6 (AP).—Price, Waterhouse & Co., said in a statement today the Securities and Exchange commission had exhibited a "process of hindsight" in its report yesterday criticizing the accounting firm for its audit of the books of McKesson & Robbins, Inc., prior to exposures of fraud on the part of the drug company's president in December, 1938.

"In this criticism," said the statement "by a process of hindsight thruout the report, the SEC applies to our work, even of many years ago, standards of accounting procedure which in general were not followed during our engagement, but which have since been developed largely as a result of this particular fraud."

W. H. MITCHELL REJOINS BOARD OF CONT. BANK

William H. Mitchell was named a director of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company yesterday. He fills a vacancy on the board.

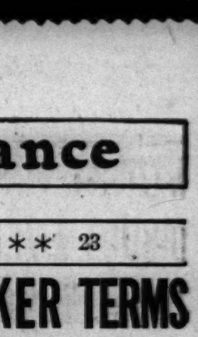
BANKER TERMS NEW DOMINICAN TREATY A FRAUD

Says Bondholders Are Victimized.

The United States government has broken faith with American investors holding $16,000,000 of Dominican republic bonds by its recent treaty with that tiny Carribean nation, W. McCormick Blair, Chicago investment banker, charged today.



W. McCormick Blair.

The new agreement abandons the pledges made by the United States in a treaty signed in 1924 which secured the loans made by American citizens, he said. Under the latest treaty, signed last Sept. 24, this country surrenders its control over Dominican customs collections which it has exercised since 1905.

Treaty Is Before Senate.

The treaty is now before the senate foreign affairs committee. A two-thirds vote in the senate is necessary to make it binding on this country.

Blair was active in the original flotation of the Dominican loans in the 1920s. He was then representing Lee, Higginson & Co., a New York investment banking firm. He is now president of Blair, Bonner & Co.

"The new treaty with the Dominican republic," he said, "deprives American bondholders of safeguards set up in the treaty of 1924 without which the bonds could never have been sold. The abandonment by the United States of its pledges to the bondholders means a renunciation of solemn agreements.

Set Up Three Safeguards.

"By helping the Dominican republic evade the covenants of the 1924 treaty the state department has departed from its announced policy that treaties must be observed.

"The 1924 treaty provided the following safeguards: [1] that Dominican customs be collected during the life of the bonds by a general receiver appointed by the President of the United States; [2] that the Dominican public debt could not be increased without first consulting the United States, and [3] that no change in Dominican import duties could be made that would reduce the revenues to less than 1½ times the interest and other charges on the public debt."

Blair said that about 8 million dollars of the Dominican bonds automatically would be thrown into default if the treaty were ratified by the senate.

Maturities Extended.

He explained that under a readjustment of the bonds in 1934 the maturity date on one issue was extended from Oct. 1, 1940, to Oct. 1, 1969, and on the other issue from March 1, 1942, to Sept. 1, 1961. If terms of the 1924 treaty are violated, he said, the old maturity dates become effective automatically.

The price of the bonds has dropped from $700 per $1,000 bond to $520 since the new treaty was signed.

The new agreement, which permits the Dominican republ

STOCKS FINISH ABOUT EVEN IN LIGHTER VOLUME

Most Price Changes Are Held to Fractions.

New York, Dec. 6 (AP).—Stocks again were unable to establish a definite trend in today's market.

Some gains ran to a point or so but there were about as many losses of as much. The majority of price variations, however, were in small fraction and a wide assortment of issues finished unchanged.

Selected steels, mail orders, rails and specialties were among the best performers. Motors, rubbers, coppers, and utilities got nowhere.

Among stocks ending higher were United States Steel, Sears Roebuck, Boeing, American Telephone, Anaconda, Westinghouse Electric, Allied Chemical, New York Central, Pennsylvania, Eastman Kodak, J. C. Penney, du Pont, American Can, American Woolen preferred, J. I. Case, and Johns-Manville.

American Tobacco "B" dipped to a new bottom for the year. Other losers included American Smelting, Douglas Aircraft, Loft, United States Gypsum, United States Rubber, Western Union and Kennecott.

Chicago Stocks.

Trading on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday involved 96 issues, of which 38 advanced, 30 declined, and 28 closed unchanged. Transactions totaled 25,000 shares. Elgin National Watch established a high for the year at 33½, up ½. Chicago corporation, the volume leader, closed at ⅛, unchanged.

The finance committee has authorized the purchase by the exchange for cancellation of not more than 32 memberships at $1,500 each until Jan. 15. Paul B. Skinner, chairman, said yesterday. There are 332 memberships in the exchange at present, and the constitution states that the total can not be reduced below 300.

New York Bonds.

New York, Dec. 6 (AP).—The bond market closed with a preponderance of small gains today. Many rail and utility issues held advances of fractions or more.

Remarks by Jesse Jones yesterday that federal authorities were considering a cut in the interest rate on government loans to railroads tended to stimulate demand for certain of the carrier liens.

In the foreign division trends diverged sharply. Obligations of Brisbane were bid up 1 to around 4 points but some Canadian issues were weak. Chilean bonds recorded further declines.

Bank Stocks.

Harris Trust shares advanced a point yesterday in Chicago bank stock trading. First National declined 2 points and City National was a point lower. Prices follow:

UNBROKEN RECORD.

Is it true that Parke, Davis & Co. has an unbroken dividend record of more than 60 years? Please send me a report on this company.—C. G.

Answer: Parke, Davis & Co., Detroit, Mich., has paid dividends to its stockholders without interruption since 1878. It is one of the oldest manufacturers of chemical, pharmaceutical, and biological products used in hospitals, by druggists and by the medical profession.

The company maintains a large research staff and sponsors experimental work in universities and among physicians to improve and expand its line of drugs. It owns numerous patents and processes which are valued on its balance sheet at $10,500,000.

Foreign business represents about 35 per cent of the company's total volume, and is mostly with the British empire. War-time British taxes and exchange regulations have curtailed the return from this foreign trade.

For the first nine months this year net income declined 17 per cent to $5,884,438, equal to $1.20 a capital share, from $7,106,577 or $1.45 a share in the same 1939 period. Earnings in 1939 were the highest on record.

1935	$8,781,293	$1.81	$2.10
1936	9,213,124	1.88	1.75
1937	9,068,304	1.85	1.80
1939	9,254,202	1.89	1.80

Four dividends of 40 cents a share each were paid this year thru Sept. 30. A dividend of 40 cents a share will be paid Jan. 2 to holders of record Dec. 17. The company has outstanding 4,895,250 shares of no par capital stock.
